

DEATH LIST DURING THE PAST YEAR

New York, Dec. 31.—The harvest of death, the inexorable reaper, has been distressingly plentiful during the year ending today. With utter impartiality he had laid low his victims, without the least regard for their rank or station, their importance or usefulness in life. Without discrimination he has levied grim tribute from high and low, leaving it to the survivors to mourn over the losses which they suffered individually or as integrals of humanity as a whole.

The ranks of royalty were invaded by death during the year just ending, chief among the victims being King Edward VII of England. Other, less distinguished members of royal families who died during the year were Princess Fedora, youngest sister of the German Emperor; the Duke D'Alençon, grandson of King Louis Philippe, and Prince Francis of Teck, brother of Queen Mary of England.

Among the members of nobility who joined their ancestors were Count Goetz von Seckendorff, at one time Grand Master of the German Court; Marquis de Massa, secretary to Napoleon III; the Duke of Veragua, a direct descendant of Columbus; William Grey, Earl of Stamford and Victor, Prince d'Essling.

Heads of governments were not spared by death during the year 1910. One of the earliest victims was Jose Domingo de Obaldia, president of Panama. The next to join the silent majority was Nord Alexis, formerly President of Haiti. Chile suffered a double loss by the death of its president, Pedro Montt and that of Elias Fernandez Albano, its acting president, only a few months later. One of the victims of death among the rulers on the Eastern hemisphere was Azad-el-Mulk, the regent of Persia, another was Said Mohammed Rakhim Bahadur, Khan of Khiva.

John Carlisle Dies.—Many nations mourn the loss during the year of distinguished statesmen and high government officials. The United States lost John G. Carlisle, former speaker of the house of representatives, United States senator from Kentucky and secretary of the treasury under Cleveland, and Charles H. Frost, formerly treasurer of the United States; also Henry Martyn Hoyt, counselor for the Department of State. Germany deplores the loss of Count Udo von Stolberg-Wernigerode, president of the Reichstag; England, of J. Poyntz Spencer, Earl Spencer, formerly a distinguished member of the Gladstone cabinet; Japan, that of Viscount Arakawa Sone, the great statesman; Russia, of Serge Andreievich Mourmoutsev, the first president of the Duma. The list also includes Ignacio Mariscal, for 30 years head of the Mexican Department of Foreign Affairs; Cesar Borja, a distinguished statesman of Ecuador and Boutros Pasha Ghali, the Egyptian premier, who was assassinated.

Unusually large is the number of deaths which occurred among the active or former diplomatic representatives of nations. The list includes, in chronological order, Joaquim Nabuco, Brazilian ambassador to the United States; Wm. F. Draper, formerly American ambassador to Italy; John A. Kasson, formerly U. S. minister to Austria and Germany; Edward H. Terrell, formerly U. S. minister to Belgium; Ove Gude, Norwegian minister to the United States; Alexander J. Nelidoff, the Russian diplomat and president of the second Hague Conference; John L. Peak, formerly U. S. minister to Switzerland; Caspar S. Crowninshield, American Consul at Naples; Lambert Tree, formerly minister to Russia and Belgium; Domingo

Gana, the Chilean diplomat; Prince Francis Hatzfeldt, at one time German ambassador to England, and Senor Don Anibal Cruz, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from Chile.

No Governor Died.—During the year just ending not a single State of the Union lost its governor by death. But, among the former governors, death reaped a rich harvest, the list including the following ex-governors: George T. Werts, of New Jersey; Robert Lowry of Mississippi; John L. Beveridge, of Illinois; John H. Mickey, of Nebraska; John H. McGraw, of Washington; William C. Oates, of Alabama; Napoleon Bonaparte Broward, of Florida; W. E. Stanley of Kansas, and Allen D. Candler of Georgia.

The ranks of United States Senators and ex-Senators of active and former Representatives in Congress were thinned to a considerable extent. The list comprised Senators: Thos. C. Platt, of New York; Samuel Douglas McHenry, of Louisiana; John W. Daniel, of Virginia; Jonathan P. Dolliver, of Iowa and Alexander Stephens Clay, of Georgia, and ex-Senators George H. Williams, who was attorney general during Grant's second term; Thos. P. Turley, of Tennessee; Wilkinson Call of Florida; Rufus Blodgett, of New Jersey and David B. Hill, ex-Governor of New York. Also Congressmen James W. Griggs, of Georgia; Wm. C. Lovering, of Massachusetts; James Breck Perkins, of New York; Samuel L. Gilmore, of Louisiana; Charles Q. Tirrell, of Massachusetts; Wm. W. Foulkrod and Joel Cook, both of Pennsylvania; ex-Congressmen William Baker, of Kansas; Louis E. Atkinson, of Pennsylvania; Warren O. Arnold, of Rhode Island; Jesse Overstreet, of Indiana; Frank C. Wachter, of Maryland; Wharton Green, of North Carolina; Franklin Bound, of Pennsylvania; Gen. Abram J. Warner, of Ohio; James Clark McCreary, of West Virginia; Francis H. Wilson, of New York and Simon P. Wolverton, of Pennsylvania.

Among the political leaders removed by death during the year were James O'Connor, M. P., the Irish Nationalist; Chas. McArthur, M. P., prominent Unionist member from Liverpool; John W. Breckinridge, formerly leader of the Kansas Populists; Benjamin Hanford, the Socialist leader; Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania; Simon Brownell, the noted abolitionist and prohibitionist; Horace A. Taylor, formerly a prominent political leader in Wisconsin; Gen. Charles R. Bratton, the "Republican Boss" of Rhode Island; Adolph Defarge, member of the French Senate and advocate of free education, and Mrs. Anna Josephine Savage, writer and agitator for Woman's Suffrage.

Veteran Soldiers Die.—Among the distinguished army officers who answered the last call were Major Generals Daniel H. Rucker, a veteran of the Mexican and civil wars; Newton M. Curtis, St. Clair A. Mulholland and Wesley Merritt, all on the retired list of the U. S. army; Major General Samuel Gibbs French, of the Confederate army; Gen. Edward P. Alexander, the noted Confederate soldier and writer; Gen. J. P. S. Gohin, former commander of the G. A. R.; Lieut. Col. Edmond G. Fechet, U. S. A. ret., the noted Indian fighter, and Sir Wm. F. Butler, of the British army.

The naval service deplores the loss of Rear Admirals Nehemish M. Dyer, James Enwistle, Philip Hichorn, Bowman H. McCalla, Thos. H. Looker, James A. Hawke, Walter K. Scofield, Charles R. Roelker and John J. Read, all on the retired list of the United States navy; Admiral Sir Harry Holdsworth Rawson, formerly Governor of New South Wales, and Vice-Admiral Juan Williams, the "Father of the Chilean navy."

The church lost many distinguished representatives during the year, among them Cardinal Satoli, first apostolic delegate to the United States; Cardinal Samminiatelli; Bishops Cyrus D. Foss and Henry Spellmeyer, of the M. E. church; John Dowden, Episcop. Bishop of Edinburgh; Edward King, Bishop of Lincoln, England; Wm. Neilson McViekar, P. E. Bishop of Rhode Island; Bishop Edward J. Dunne, of Dallas, Texas; Most Rev. Wm. Dalrymple MacLagan, formerly Archbishop of York; Bishop John Wesley Smith, of the African M. E. Zion church; Rev. Henry Harris Jessup, 53 years Presbyt. missionary in Syria; Rev. Edward P. Hammond, the evangelist; Rev. Dr. Jerome D. Davis, 40 years American missionary in Japan, and Rev. Annis Ford Eastman, the first woman ever ordained minister of the Congregationalist church.

Supreme Court Losses.—The Supreme Court of the United States lost two of its most distinguished members, Chief Justice Melville Weston Fuller, and Associate Justice David Josiah Brewer. Among the judges of the Supreme Courts of different States, who were removed by death during the year were Charles H. Triunx, Edward Patterson, Edgar L. Pursman, Charles Donohue, former Justices of the New York Supreme Court; Ex-Judge James B. Shepard, North Carolina; Ex-Judge John Lathrop, Massachusetts; James D. Fox, Chief Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court; Judge Albert C. Thompson, of the U. S. District Court at Cincinnati. The Bar lost Henri Barboux, the eminent French lawyer; Sidney Webster, an authority on international law; Morris J. Cochran, an authority on mining law; Edwin Walker, the Dean of the Chicago Bar; Major Richard M. Venable, the noted Maryland lawyer, and Lloyd W. Bowers, Solicitor-General of the United States.

Science lost many noted scholars and investigators, among them Dr. Robert Koch, the famous German bacteriologist; Prof. Gottfried Galile, the German astronomer, who first observed planet Neptune; Paolo Mataganzza, the Italian anthropologist; Prof. Ernst van Layden, the German cancer specialist; Alexander Agassiz, the noted American scientist and mining engineer; Prof. Cyrus Thomas, the great authority on North American Indians; Hormuzd Rassam, the Assyriologist; Dr. Harry W. Jayne, authority on coal tar products; Dr. Wm. M. Gray, X-ray specialist; Dr. Bigelow T. Sanborn, expert on brain diseases; Edward B. Garriott, meteorologist; Sir William Huggins, the English astronomer; Charles Stansland Wake, anthropologist; Dr. Charles Eshner, German chemist; Wm. E. D. Scott, ornithologist; Rudolf Chrobak, the Vienna gynecologist; Dr. Henry Wurtz, the noted chemist and metallurgist, and Uriah Cummines, the authority on cement and concrete.

Long List of Educators.—The cause of education has suffered great losses by the death of a large number of distinguished educators, among them being Prof. Wm. James of Harvard, the philosopher and psychologist; Prof. James Barr Ames, Dean of the Harvard Law school; Prof. Samuel S. Sanford, formerly of Yale; Wm. Bradley Rising, emeritus professor of chemistry, University of California; Dr. Edward H. Merrell, formerly president of Ripon college, Wisconsin; Dr. Eben Alexander, former Dean of the University of North Carolina; Dr. Chas. O. Day, formerly president of Andover Theological Seminary; Wm. Graham Sumner, professor of political and social science, Yale; George F. Barker, emeritus professor of physics, University of Pennsylvania; Lucius W. Hoyt, dean of the law department, University of Denver; George Pierce Garrison, professor of history, University of Texas; Samuel Ross Winsans, professor of Greek, Princeton; Charles H. Shaw, professor of Biology, University of Pennsylvania; Lewis A. Rhoades, professor of Germanic languages and literature, Ohio State university; Alexander L. Nelson, more than fifty years professor of mathematics, Washington and Lee university; J. E. Matzke, professor of Romance languages, Stanford university; Matthew Henry Buckham, president of the University of Vermont, and Rev. Sylvester F. Scovel, president of the American branch of the International Peace society, and former president of Wooster university, Ohio.

Many Writers Die.—Many noted authors have been silenced by the hand of death during the year. The places of some of them, like Count Leo Tolstoi, Mark Twain, Bjornstjerne Bjornson, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and Goldwin Smith will be hard to fill. The long list also includes James Hannay, the Canadian historian; Dr. Willis De Hass, historian and archaeologist; Louis Edouard Rod, the French novelist; Rev. Edward Lord Clark, Egyptologist; Orville James Victor, historian of the civil war period; Viscount Marie Eugene de Vogue, author and member of the French Academy; Myra Kelly (Mrs. Allan Macnaughton), who wrote such delightful stories about the children in the New York slums; Frederick James Furnival, the English Shakespeare scholar; Wm. J. Rolfe, of Massachusetts, also a noted Shakespeare scholar; Leopold Delisle, the French academician and historian; Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis, novelist; Wm. Vaughn Moody, Rev. Ludwig Holmes of Chicago, writer of Swedish sagas; James Frothingham Hannowell, the Massachusetts historian; Wilhelm Raabe, the German novelist, and Melville Delancey Landon ("Ell E. Perkins"), author and lecturer.

The world of art was not spared by the hand of the grim harvester and mourns the loss of many noted men, among them the painters Sir William Quiller Orchardson, Franz Skarbina, William Holman Hunt, Winslow Homer, Robert Walker Macbeth, John La Farge, Prof. Julius J. Exner, Henry Edmund Gallison, Frank Fowler, Henry Luke, John A. Ward, Emanuel Eremiet, John Adams Acton and Larkin Goldsmith Mead, the noted English sculptor; John O. A. Ward, Emanuel Eremiet, John Adams Acton and Larkin Goldsmith Mead, the noted English surgeon and etcher; Melton Prior, the English war artist; Edward Linley Sambourne, chief caricoonist of "Punch"; Herbert Raitton, the English black and white artist, and Tom Browne, the English comic artist.

In Realm of Music.—The realm of music was despoiled by the death of men like Bourgaud Boucaudray, the French composer and musical historian; Charles Leneveu, the French composer; W. Edward Peimendahl, musical director and composer; David D. Wood, the blind composer and organist; Julian Edwards, the operatic composer; Myron T. Whitney, the famous basso; Chas. Gilbert, the noted baritone, and Giovanni Lamperti, the famous vocal instructor of Berlin.

The stage also felt the ruthless hand of invader Death, and suffered deplorable loss by the death of Joseph Kainz, the famous German actor; Ezara Kendall, the comedian; Neil Burgess, of "County Fair" fame; Joseph E. Whiting, the veteran actor; Clay Clement, the actor and playwright; Mme. Vera Komissarzhevskaya, the Russian actress; Louis James, the Shakespearean actor; Creston Clark, the actor and dramatist; Jules Renard, the French dramatist; John B. Stedley Lee, old time players, and Edward J. Schwartz, the playwright and critic. Three distinguished architects were among the dead of the year, George Hannonwell, the Massachusetts historian; R. A. the English architect; Louis Jacob, the German architect, and Rev. Thos. Silloway, an expert in ecclesiastical architecture.

Among the great engineers who died during the year were Sir Edward Leadon canals; Sir Thomas Selby Tancard, the English mining and railroad engineer; Sir Clifton Robinson, the English authority on street railways; Wm. Henry Brown, formerly chief engineer of the Pennsylvania railroad, and John Sutcliffe, the noted mining expert.

Some Inventors Die.—Several noted inventors were removed by death, among them Thos. H. Dodge, the inventor of the cylinder press; Prof. Amos Emerson Dolbear, inventor of telegraph and telephone appliances; Edward W. Verry, ornance expert and inventor of night signals; Thos. B. Jeffery, inventor of the pneumatic tire; Joseph Thomas, who invented the hoop-skirt, and Willard S. Whitmore, the inventor of the papier mache process of electrotyping.

Only two noted explorers died during the year. Commodore Wm. G. Hovgaard, the noted Danish explorer in Babylonia.

Journalism deplores the loss of many distinguished men, among them Sir George Newnes, the English publisher; Sir William Agnew founder of London Punch; Arthur Fraser Walter, formerly proprietor of the London Times; Rufus N. Rhodes, editor of the Bingham News; Felix Tournachon the brilliant French journalist; Robert W. Patterson, editor of the Chicago Tribune; Louis Klopsch, editor of the Christian Herald; David A. Munro, many years an editor of the North American Review; Wm. Dodsworth, editor and publisher of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce; Page M. Baker, managing editor, New Orleans Times Democrat; Henry O'Reilly Tucker, publisher Troy Daily Press, and Harvey W. Scott, editor of the Portland Oregonian.

Among the great financiers who died during the year were Richard Koch, formerly president of the German Reichsbank; Sir George Drummond, president of the Bank of Montreal; James T. Woodward, president of the Hanover National bank, New York; William Seligman; Chas. C. Dickinson and Edward Simmons, New York bankers; John Parson, Chicago, and Major A. M. Brown, of Pittsburgh.

Leaders in Business.—Many great men of affairs were removed from the field of their activity, among them, B. R. McAlpine, former president of the Western Union Telegraph Co.; Maurice Hutin, former president of the French Panama Canal Co.; Dudley Evans, president Wells Fargo Express Co.; Levi Candee Weir, president Adams Express Co.; Gustav Tietgens, head of the Hamburg-American steamship line; John H. Converse, president Baldwin Locomotive works; James W. Van Cleave, ex-president of Manufacturers' association; Joseph S. Harris, formerly president of the Philadelphia & Reading R. R.; Henry Dexter, founder of the American News Co.; Leslie D. Ward, vice-president of the Prudential; Nicholas Monsarrat, formerly president of Hocking Valley R. R.; Warren J. Purdy, former president of the Rock Island R. R.; Gen. Thos. T. Eckert, formerly president of the Western Union Telegraph Co.; Maj. John F. Hanson, president of the Central of Georgia R. R., and Thos. F. Walsh, the Colorado mine owner.

The list of philanthropists who died during the year contains the names of Darius Ogden Mills, Dr. Horace B. Silliman, Isaac Chauncey Wyman, Robert Treat Paine, David Ranken, Jr., Lady Louisa de Rothschild and John S. Huyler.

Some of the most famous dead of the year are in the unclassified list, which includes among others, Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science; Florence Nightingale, the heroine of the Crimean War; Henri Dunant, founder of the International Red Cross; Gustavus Moynier, president of the International committee of the Red Cross; Baron Robert Melvil van Lynden, secretary of the permanent Court of Arbitration at The

(Continued on Page Three.)

BARTEL, JR., RICHMOND, IND.

Office Supply Store

OF EASTERN INDIANA AND WESTERN OHIO

BOTHERED about finding papers at the Home and Office?

Buy Filing Devices from us as low as 25c.

Safes from $11.00 up.

Desks at low prices.

Largest Stock

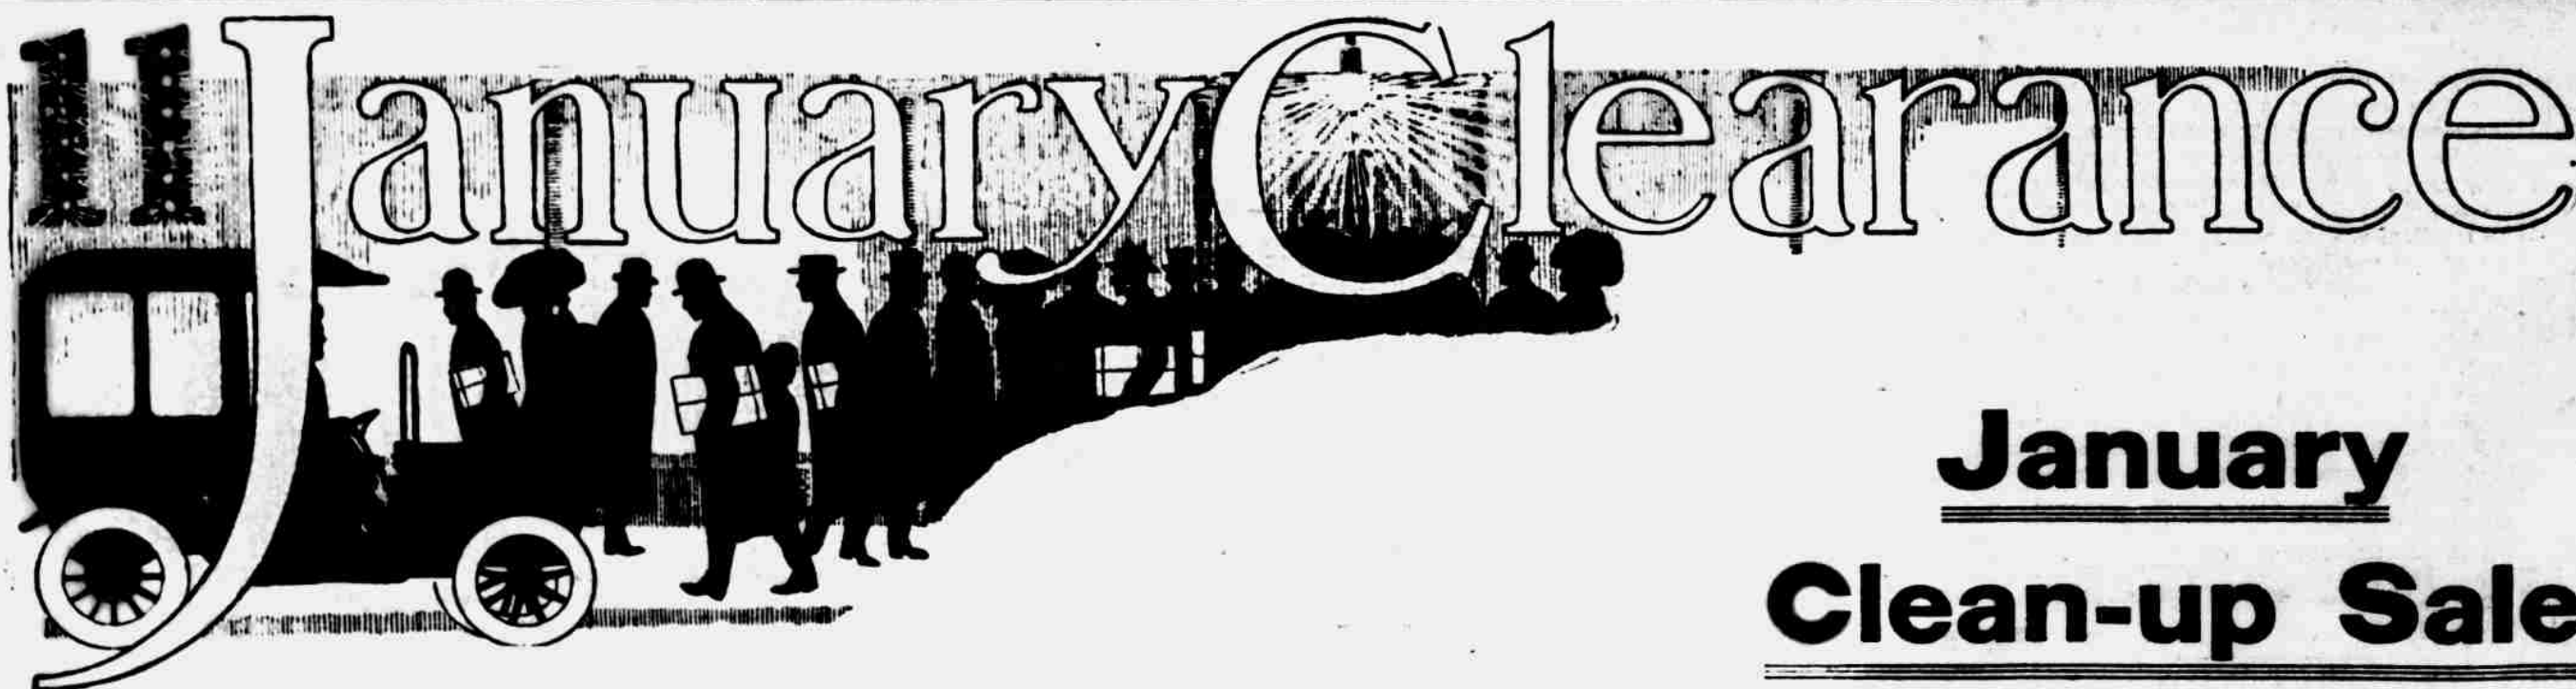

Lowest Prices

BARTEL, JR., RICHMOND, IND.

To those who have been waiting for

JANUARY BARGAINS here's your chance

Sale Begins Jan. 3rd

Too many Goods to invoice;

Your Gain, Our Loss

Sale

Continues

Until

Jan. 21

Too Many Goods To Invoice!

This is the condition that confronts us. There is only one alternative and that is reduce stock. We shall do this by dividing profits with our customers for the month of January, and at the same time quickly reduce our stocks. Here you will find "Bargains Galore," real bargains in each and every one of our 10 Big Departments. In fact the opportunity you have been waiting. So be wise, don't delay; be here on Tuesday morning and get your share of the unmatched bargains in

Clothing, Dry Goods, Carpets, Ladies' and Misses' Ready-to-Wear Garments, Men's and Women's Furnishings, Shoes, Etc. Sale Begins Tuesday Morning, Jan. 3d., at 8 a. m. Be here when the door opens

See Big Bill left at your door for Clean-up prices.

RAIL ROAD STORE

Richmond's Popular Trading Place