

THE SOCIAL WHIRL

Edited by Miss Elizabeth R. Thomas

HELP THE SOCIAL EDITOR.

If you have an out-of-town friend visiting or go on a trip yourself; if you have knowledge of any social event that would be of interest, or have any personal intelligence in which your friends or the general public would be interested, please call on the Society Editor of the Palladium, telephone 1121, during the morning hours. When a number of names are to be printed it is always better to write them out and mail or bring them to the editorial rooms of the Palladium, as they may be garbled in transmission.

TEA THIS AFTERNOON.

A charming company for today was the informal tea given by Mrs. J. M. Gaar and Mrs. Jeannette G. Leeds at their pretty home in North Tenth street. The decorations including the flowers were as nearly spring blossoms as possible. In the drawing room Richmond roses were used conspicuously being arranged in an attractive manner in this apartment. While Killarney roses ornamented the library. In the dining room where the tea was served at four o'clock, sweet peas and violets were utilized. The company was one of the prettiest appointed affairs of the week.

NATURE TELLS YOU

As Many a Richmond Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick, Nature tells you all about it. The urine is nature's calendar. Infrequent or too frequent action; Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for kidney ills.

People in this vicinity testify to this.

W. F. Stevenson, Church St., Cambridge City, Ind., says: "I gladly confirm all I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, when I publicly recommended them in 1907. Backache caused me much suffering and I also had pains through my loins. I felt tired and worn out all the time and had but little ambition. My kidneys were weak and the kidney secretions looked unnatural. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved all my aches and pains and acted as a tonic, in fact, brought greater benefit than any other medicines I have ever taken. I advise my friends and neighbors suffering from kidney complaint to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

Vigorous Veteran

Mr. Shearer, 74 years of age, is a hale and hearty old gentleman. His fine condition is entirely due to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

He writes: "I have lived a life of continuous exposure. Ten years ago the many hardships I had endured began to tell upon me and I became very weak and run down. A friend recommended Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I began to use it faithfully, and to-day, at seventy-four, I am hale and hearty and my good health and bodily strength are due to the regular use of this great tonic." A. M. Shearer, Liberty, Ind.

FEBRUARY MOTTO.

Today is the first of February and we are starting a new month. Perhaps the following motto written by S. W. Foss would be well for us to follow during the twenty-eight days and in fact for every other day in the whole year:

"Let me live in a house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—
The men that are good and the men that are bad
As good and as bad as I;
I would not sit in the corner's seat
Nor hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in the house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man."

Sour Stomach Makes a Sour Man

This is the day of the optimist. The "don't worry" man is a genial, smiling chap who looks forward to a bright future of health and happiness—and wealth too, of course.

The pessimist is scorned. He is blamed for a surly and gloomy disposition and receives no sympathy for his morbid forebodings.

It isn't altogether right.

Many a man gets the reputation for having a sour disposition, when the truth of the matter is that he has a sour stomach.

Nyal's Dyspepsia Tablets will help that man

They contain pepsin and diastase in scientific proportions. He can eat what he likes and what the pepsin fails to digest the diastase will take care of.

A good digestion is a blessing; Nyal's Dyspepsia Tablets bring a blessing. Two sizes, 25c and 50c.

Besides good goods you get good treatment at our store. Always glad to have people come in and look around, whether they want to buy or not. We wait on you promptly, give you what you ask for, but never tease anyone to buy anything.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Feb. 1.—Although the smart shops are filled with spring and summer fabrics which are supposed to be at the highest so early in the season, the woman with a little surplus revenue can get a choice selection among the first offerings at reasonable cost.

If one be not ambitious to "wear new things first" she will, of course, be able to get the same fabrics later but there will be so many pretty designs from which to choose.

Social conditions have changed so radically within recent years that one must have, of necessity, some kind of a frock for afternoon, and this can be used also for the restaurant and theater. The spotted muslins, crepes, etc. are excellent for the purpose, as are also the figured foulards, which were never so handsome as now. Pongee is coming into its own again and there promises to be a continuance of the vogue for the reddish browns, handsome dull blues, greens and natural shades, which were so much liked last season.

A spotted silk of inexpensive design is among the prettiest of the frocks designed for Southern wear. It is so typical of the demand for chic simplicity that it will be sure to be among the spring favorites. The skirt has a deep fold of plain silk matching the background of the dotted material, which in this instance is dawn grey figured with gentian blue. The simple bodice is trimmed with a band of its own material, which is carried around the figure about the bust line, while buttons and fine braid add to the effectiveness of the decorative scheme.

The frock of crepe or of sheer stuff with straight or slightly draped skirt weighted down to clinging lines despite its slight fullness and with some simple shoulder and sleeve drapery forming the corsage above the empire girdle is charming if well handled, and the satin fourreau with empire tunic of sheer material has innumerable phases.

The empire lines have gained general acceptance for both afternoon and evening frocks, and this opens the way for delightfully chic and youthful effects, though it opens the way also for extravagance of truly first empire audacity. Simplicity—sweet simplicity—is not the exclusive feature of the debutant's frocks by any means, for her old sisters, and even her mother, if she be youthful and comely, may and does go in for the simpler effects.

Some of the best models of pongee are designed for matrons who like to keep pace with their daughters as far as being smartly gowned is concerned. A design in natural color, has the skirt draped with a sort of panel effect that extends above the waist line at the front and is smartly stitched down to the bodice. The effect is very much like the panel idea which made it possible for gowns of ever so many parts to be called "one-piece" frocks a season or two ago, but nothing has ever yet appeared that looks better.

An apron tunic is what they call this latest arrangement, for the front is narrowed away to almost nothing. The bodice is finished rather in Gibson than in the prevailing kimono effect at the shoulders, but it is handsome and the trimmings of dark satin at the neck and sleeves make a splendid contrast with the clear, soft tones of the pongee.

The kimono sleeve retains its vogue and is much used both in woolen, silk and lingerie frocks, though for tubbing purposes it is an abomination and not as successful as linen or softer materials. And by the way, linen frocks and materials multiply in the shops, the soft ramlie being first favorite, and the one piece linen frock modeled more or less upon the lines of the one-piece silk or serge frocks, as generally worn under fur coats this winter are extremely pretty. Like the winter models they are very simple, straight and narrow in line, usually a trifle short of waist and elaborated only by some smart bit of trimming about the throat and as a sleeve finish, a bit of braiding. In linens, however, these simple little frocks have the advantage of color schemes and contrasts more varied than dark tones of the winter models.
