8567—A CHARMING NEGLIGEE

No more graceful home jacket could be devised than this pretty model developed in figured China silk. The simple shaping is developed by shoulder and underarm seams, the fullness falling in soft folds from below the tucks that are taken up on each side of the center front. The tucks in the back extend to the waist line, and a belt of the material encircles the waist giving that trim look, so essential to a garment of that kind. If preferred the sleeves may extend to the wrist, completed by straight cuffs. Lawn, flowered dimity, cotton crepe, cashmere and albatross are all suitable for reproduction. For 36 inch bust measure 3 3/4 yards of 36 inch material is required. Sizes from 32 to 42 inches bust measure. A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in stamps or silver.

(Fill out Blanks in pencil and send to Pattern Dept., Richmond Palladium.)

Thought He Needed Them. Miss Amelia Austin listened with breathless attention to Mrs. Amasa Hunting's radiant account of the doings of James Hunting, her husband's younger brother, who had left Woobrook-in-the-Hills in his youth and had become a millionaire.
"Where is Jim this summer?" Miss Amelia inquired at the end of the recital.
"He has gone abroad for baths," replied Mrs. Hunting.
"I ain't one mite surprised to hear that," Miss Amelia said. "His mother never could make him wash his neck."

A Generous Jury. A certain sergeant charged with killing a man was tried for murder. After the evidence was in and the speeches made the jury retired to deliberate. Presently word came that the jury had agreed and had framed a verdict. The judge ordered the jury into the courtroom and asked for the verdict.
"We find," read the foreman, "that the defendant is guilty of murder and assess his punishment at ninety-nine years and life imprisonment."
"Go back and write another verdict," ordered the judge.
Presently the jury returned with the verdict of life imprisonment.
The sergeant shook hands with all the jurors.
"He seems pleased," said a bystander to the bailiff. "Why is he shaking hands with the men who convicted him?"
"Why?" was the reply, "he is thanking them for taking ninety-nine years off his sentence."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

An Irish Duel. The annals of the Emerald Isle bristle with incidents of dueling in which Irish humor, if not at all times Irish bravery, is conspicuous. On one occasion Sir Jonah Barrington fought a duel with a barrister named McNally. The latter had one leg shorter than the other and because it was his habit when in a hurry to take two thumping steps with the short leg to bring up the space made by the long one he was nicknamed "One Pound Two." McNally could get 25 one of his bar to fight him, so he challenged Barrington, who good naturedly exchanged shots in Phoenix park.

The baronet hit his opponent in the braces, then called the "gallows," and feared he had killed him. When the result was made known one of the seconds shouted, "Mac, you are the only rogue I ever knew who was saved by the gallows."

FELL ON HIS PILLOW.

Then Came a Joyous Time For the Skating Rink Patrons.

When Mr. Homer Davenport was a boy roller skating reached Silverton. In his book, "The Country Boy," he tells of his plan to learn without getting hurt, as he thought falling about the skating rink was no joke. He borrowed a pair of overalls of the stoutest man in the village and a long pillow from his mother's bed and believed the game as good as won when he entered the door of the rink.
I lowered the pillow into the seat of the overalls after I had put them on and then got a boy to hold the pillow up against my back while I put my vest over it, and I dived out into the thick of the skaters. To my astonishment, I didn't fall. I leaned back and tried to fall once to see how it would be, and I really couldn't. I'd been skating fifteen minutes when I did fall, but fell forward and slammed my hands on the floor.

An elderly lady, who had had some troubles of her own that afternoon, skated up to me and told me she thought perhaps we went at it too fast. So we were leaning against the wall, talking over the scientific points of it when I gave the audience a rare treat.

While leaning there, talking, all at once my feet, that were close together, started and rolled out toward the middle of the room. I don't think I bent a finger, but I fell exactly like a tree, and lo and behold, the pillow burst. It must have been five minutes before they got through laughing all over the house. In that time the feathers were so thick they followed in a boiling streak after every skater.

The manager declared a recess of ten minutes while they swept out the hall, and at this point came another big laugh, as after three men had been sweeping twenty minutes they hadn't got over three feathers out into the street.

Some fellow suggested sprinkling, so they did, but most of them were in the air and wouldn't come down to be sprinkled, so they had to close the rink for the afternoon.

The manager of the rink tried to collect damages from my father, and I think there was a compromise made.

Not Familiar With the Quotation. "Ah, Mr. Blinks," said the fair one lightly, "I see you wear your heart upon your sleeve."
Mr. Blinks looked bewildered and hastily pulled down his cuffs.
"I guess maybe it was my red handkerchief you noticed," he lamely remarked.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

News From Surrounding Towns

EATON, OHIO.

Eaton, O., Feb. 1.—John Schell, after having been off duty for several weeks, because of an attack of appendicitis, has returned to his work in the Ideal barber shop.

Wilbur Nelson has resigned his position with the Eaton Lighting company.

Much complaint is heard regarding the extremely bad condition of many of the streets in Eaton. The result of having been torn up to allow the construction of a storm and sanitary sewerage system, together with the heavy rains of the past several days, the mud on several of them is at least one foot deep. North Maple is generally conceded the worst in the city.
