WORLD'S RECORD FOR STEALING CHICKENS

Suffolk, Va., March 13.—County constable Harrell returned from an important man hunt, bringing with him Elias White, declared to have broken the world's record for stealing chickens.

According to the authorities here White has to the knowledge of the police stolen at least one thousand chickens, taking them a handful at a time when opportunity offered.

When White was apprehended at last he put up a fierce fight for his liberty and not until the plucky constable had yelled lustily for help did he succeed in landing his man in a cell. It is said that hundreds of witnesses are in readiness to testify at White's trial.

Never fails to Gadsby—That fellow Nocsad is a regular fortune hunter. Raynor—Well, he's a mighty poor shot.—Judge.
