

MEDICAL DISTRUST DUE TO IGNORANCE

People Should Know How Human Anatomy Is Constituted Says Lee.

New York, March 21.—Dr. Frederick C. Lee, professor of physiology at Columbia university, opened the Jessup lectures on scientific features of modern medicine at the Museum of Natural History with a "Sketch of the Normal Human Body." It is Dr. Lee's conviction that whatever distrust of medical potency may now exist arises largely from ignorance of the human body and the present status of medical science.

"In accepting the Jessup lectureship," he said, "I was influenced largely by the thought that through it I might perhaps be of service to both the medical profession and an intelligent public by telling the public something of what medical leaders are doing."

"Notwithstanding the swift progress of medical science we frequently meet with a distrust of the efficiency of medicine, a feeling that the physician knows far too little concerning disease and its cure, and a tendency to turn toward strange cults, making fair promises. Such distrust is as old as medicine itself. I do not believe that it is justified. Doubting is indeed an entirely legitimate form of mental exercise. The man of science who is not a doubter has no claim to honorable standing. But not all doubts are equally estimable. There are those that betray much knowledge and those that betray little."

"The ignorance of the human body among many persons is extraordinarily great. It is strange to find that, though reasoning men and women, who were born with their bodies, who have clung to them in sickness and in health, for better or for worse, who have used them for every variety of human service, and yet hold themselves utterly aloof from a knowledge of bodily affairs. I suspect that we have here an inheritance, through many generations of the medieval notion of the vileness of the human body, a notion which is out of keeping with the enlightened science of today. This science shows within ourselves wondrous mechanisms and adaptation which ought to arouse a man's admiration if he possesses a truly aesthetic sense."

Dr. Lee gave a sketch of the human body, covering its composition anatomically and chemically, and a survey of its functions, stopping now and again to suggest the lines which future research will take where mysteries still "lure and baffle." He tried to give his audience some conception of the wonderful complexity of the human organism. He illustrated it at one point by describing just what it means to contract one's biceps voluntarily and added laughingly:

"We may, in our bewilderment, well wonder why a mere innocent contraction of the biceps does not bring in its train an attack of nervous prostration. Seriously, this great complexity is not appreciated. Gay critics, the anti-thesis and the anti-thesis, grow impatient with medical science and turn to others who profess to work successfully with simpler methods. But those to whom they turn are utterly unfamiliar with the complexities of the human body and its functions, complexities that are way beyond the anti-thesis and the anti-thesis."

There is no more interesting proof of the Indian's adaptability to modern ways than that the military stations of the west have lost their former importance. At the present time there is not a single army post maintained east of the Missouri river for fear of an Indian outbreak.

At Local Theaters
At the Gennett
Nothing so entertaining and pleasing as Alex. Story's "As Told in the Hills" has been seen in recent years. Although interesting and extremely thrilling at all times, the play is not one of the kind that depends on cheap sensationalism for its effect and in its strong climaxes there are no absurd situations that in real life would be impossible. Clean and refreshing comedy is a prominent feature in the play and a generous number of good specialties are introduced with effect. It will be seen at the Gennett on Monday March 27.

At the Murray.
One of the main attractions at the Murray theater for the next five days is the Downy, Willard and Swain trio, presenting the comedy playlet entitled, "A Call on the Doctor," which is so full of comedy that it has made a hit wherever it has been seen. The three characters in the playlet are an old physician, who is hard of hearing, his stammering office maid and Mr. Maurice Downey as McGuire from Clondyke. The last is an Irish character that is not exaggerated or overdone but handled in the most artistic manner. His two assistants, Mr. Swain and Miss Willard, are both clever artists. It is an offering different from the usual vaudeville playlet.

A PENNY EARNED.
Ever notice how some folks skimp? Yet they so on using strong, greasy, yellow soap full of rosin and lye. They waste more than they save. Hewitt's Easy Task Laundry Soap is a real saving. It gets out the dirt in half the time, and so white and pure it can't injure the finest fabrics. Still it costs no more than the harmful imitations. Ask any grocer.

CHILDHOOD LOVERS UNITED IN WEST

Nashville, Ind., March 21.—There is a bit of the romantic in the life of Mrs. Emma Gavin a Rushville woman who was married to Leroy Stone, the sweetheart of her girlhood, at Seattle, Wash., recently. Miss Emma Leis, that being Mrs. Gavin's maiden name, met Miss Rosamund Stone, while a girl, and their friendship became strong. Miss Lewis went to Jackson, Mich., to visit Miss Stone, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stone, Leroy Stone, a nephew of Mrs. Stone's became deeply attached to Miss Lewis.

Miss Lewis returned here, where she married John Gavin, a cigarmaker, who died a few years later. In the meantime Miss Stone and her relatives moved to Tacoma, Wash. Last May, Mrs. Gavin went to Tacoma to be Miss Stone's guest. Leroy Stone, in the meantime had gone to Sequim, on the Olympic peninsula, and, learning that his sweetheart of the earlier days was at Tacoma, he invited his aunt and her guest to visit him. The invitation was accepted. At Sequim the romance of many years ago was renewed and Mrs. Gavin plighted her troth to the lover of her girlhood. The romance culminated in the marriage. Mr. Stone is a wealthy ranch owner.

TELLS OF BURGLAR ATTACK AFTER SHOCK

Terre Haute, Ind., March 21.—At the end of a week of semi-delirium and illness, following the double invasion of her home by a robber, Mrs. Frank Teel, wife of the banker, is able for the first time to tell of the second appearance of the man. She says she was alone in the house the afternoon of March 11, when she heard somebody downstairs. She called her husband over the phone, which was upstairs, and was telling him of the presence of some person in the house when the intruder came up behind her. She says the burglar reached over her shoulder to cut the telephone wire with a pearl handled knife, but that she struck his hand and knocked the knife free. Then he seized her by the shoulder and dragged her from the phone, after which he cut the wire with scissors. When she told her story a search was made for the knife. It was found caught in the drapery on the stairs.

The night of March 10, when no one was at home, a robber took jewelry owned by Mr. Teel, worth hundreds of dollars, but did not take $40 in money, or Mrs. Teel's jewelry, which was on the same dresser. The police are without clues.

The late shipments of soft coal during last year totaled 18,406,469 short tons, indicating a gain of 35 per cent. over the figures of the preceding year.

GOVERNMENT PLUMS

$800,000 Worth Listed in
New Directory.

Washington, March 21.—Tyler Page, clerk to the committee on accounts of the house of representatives, has destroyed prospect of peace of mind for the newly established majority of that body by the compilation of a report published convenient vest pocket form showing that there are $800,000 worth of jobs to be filled at the bidding of the Democrats, beginning with the next session of congress.

The trouble is that the Democrats can not find a way of dividing these spoils. There are already a hundred applications for each place, and the little red book has had the effect of calling the attention of new members to the plums on which the old members have long had their eyes.

The scramble for places bids fair to swell the pockets of Washington hotel keepers when the new congress convenes. Democrats all over the country not only want jobs, but many have announced that they will come to the capital in an endeavor to get them.

A subcommittee of the committee on ways and means is trying to reduce the number of jobs by about one-third.

A BLOOD TAX.

Payment by a French Town to Spain
For an Ancient Crime.

Seven hundred years ago some shepherds of the valley of Llançà, in Navarre, were murdered by shepherds of the valley of Baraton, in Bearn, the crime taking place on the high pasture lands of Atlas, in the Pyrenees. It would have been difficult to bring the murderers individually to justice, and the Spaniards were preparing to make war upon the valley from which the French murderers had come when the French villages proposed that peace be maintained at the price of a yearly tax or tribute, to endure for all time, and this proposition was accepted.

The payment of this blood tax—originally three white mares, but later three cows of a particular breed and color—has been made ever since, the custom (it is nothing more) having survived even the great wars in which both France and Spain have engaged and the storm of the French revolution. Yearly the representative men of the two valleys meet on the frontier at a certain stone remote from any town and go through the ceremony of presenting and receiving the cattle. The order of procedure, which is elaborate and impressive, is fixed by a document bearing the date 1375, though the tax was paid a hundred years prior to that time. The received mares, cows and payment are duly attested and deposited in the archives of the Roucals.—New York Tribune.

The Sanity of Paris.
The French live within their means and by a sense of economy wholly unknown to us manage to save and retire to enjoy whatever fortune has stored up for them. Says F. Berkeley Smith in Success Magazine. To them France is sufficient. They voyage rarely and gamble less. The spendthrift or the man who plunges on the bourse, the races and the gaming table is regarded by the masses in the light of a rogue and a fool. The Parisians work hard enough for their leisure, but they never eliminate it nor allow their work to encroach upon their traditional daily vacation, as luncheon, the appetit hour, dinner and fete days. They work, not to amass millions and die in harness, but to save enough to give their daughter her dot, without which she may never marry; start their son in his chosen trade and have enough income left to retire before they are too old to enjoy their freedom.

A great, big barrel of herring sells here for $12 to $15. Delicacies stores and housekeepers have a way of soaking the salt out of these and fixing them up with vinegar, all manner of spices and some other things nice, the shopkeepers retailing them for from 5 to 10 cents apiece.—New York Press.

FAMOUS NOVELISTS.

What Some of Them Did Before They Took to Writing.

Among those novelists who studied law we have Fielding, Scott, Charles Reade, Wilkie Collins, Blackmore, Washington Irving, George Meredith, Robert Grant, Henry James, Anthony Hope, Rider Haggard and Owen Wister. Journalism, which Mr. Kipling once defined as the one legitimate branch of the profession, is represented by Dickson, David Christie Murray, William Black, J. M. Barrie, Marion Crawford, George W. Cable, Stephen Crane, George Barr McCutcheon, Frank Norris, Richard Harding Davis and David Graham Phillips. The navy and merchant marine have given us Smollet, Captain Marryat, Pauline Cooper, Clark Russell, Joseph Conrad and Morgan Robertson. Artists and architects include Thackeray, Dr. Maurier, Hopkinson Smith, Robert Chambers, Thomas Hardy and William J. Locke. Medicine and theology are not so well represented. Under the former head we recall for the moment only Smollet (naval surgeon), Holmes, S. Weir Mitchell and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle; under the latter, Sterne, Charles Kingsley, Henry van Dyke, Edward Everett Hale, Ian MacLaren, Ralph Connor and Thomas Dixon. College professors who have either given up their chairs to become novelists or have found time for occasional novels in the midst of their other duties are Sir Walter Besant, Robert Herrick and Brander Matthews.—Bookman.

U. S. GOT MILLIONS FOR ITS COAL LAND

More Revenue From Proper
Classification—Many Withdrawals.

Washington, March 21.—Many billions of tons of coal contained in the vast area of coal lands in the west consisting of more than seventy million acres are owned by the United States government according to announcement of the United States geological survey. Some tracts are of immense value, containing beds of the highest grade coal in veins from thirty to forty feet in thickness.

By a new method of selling this coal land, the government will gain an enormous amount of money. The old way was to sell the coal lands regardless of value, at $10 an acre, if more than fifteen miles from a railroad, or at $20, if within that limit.

Now the geological survey measures the coal in an acre and the land is sold on a coal tonnage basis. As a result coal lands have been priced as high as $400 an acre and in one tract at $500 an acre.

During the last year the geological survey classified by individual forty-acre tracts, 8,527,166 acres with a value of $560,815,081. This, added to the results of former work, gives a total of 13,480,548 acres classified as coal lands with a valuation of $637,619,418. By the old method these lands would have had a valuation of $216,289,942, which shows a net gain to the government of nearly $420,000,000.

All proceeds of coal land sales are deposited to the credit of the irrigation "reclamation fund."

Scheme Remarkably Accurate.
The scheme under which this geological classification and tonnage valuation has been worked out is remarkably accurate and scientific. The best evidence of its adequacy is the ready acceptance of the tonnage estimates and valuation by the coal land purchasers. In addition this administration has withdrawn $62,140,548 acres of probable coal land as a result of geological field examination and has restored to agricultural entry eighteen million acres found to be noncoal in character.

Another public fuel resource in whose conservation Uncle Sam is taking an active interest is oil. The geological survey estimate reported two years ago to the national conservation commission of the oil contained in the

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. G. G. Luken and Company, Special Agents. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

California deposits alone places the figure as high as 3,500,000 barrels, although this is admittedly conservative. Careful geological examination has been made of the western oil fields, and public oil land withdrawals now aggregate 3,796,572 acres in California, Oregon, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico, Colorado, and Louisiana.

Water power withdrawals during the last two years cover 161 streams in twelve states and include 1,403,054 acres.

It is in connection with the discovery and classification of phosphate land, however, that the geological survey has contributed most, notably to the farming interests. Phosphate is a necessary plant food, being coequal with potash as a fertilizer. The world's supply of phosphate is very limited, but fortunately the largest known deposits have

A big supply of red blood corpuscles is what helps to make any man or woman have a healthy, pink complexion and cherry red lips. Resort to paint and powder are totally unnecessary and besides that, they are harmful. Three grain hypo-nutrine tablets, if used regularly for several months, seems to create a great added number of millions to the red and white corpuscles of the blood, and not only improve the color, but add increased flesh to the thin and frail body. These tablets promote assimilation, absorption and digestion, and this splendid aid to nature's forces transforms the complexion and figure. They are prescribed by physicians, but being of a perfectly harmless character, self-administration is being followed by many, who obtain them direct from any well-stocked apothecary shop.
