CROUP CONQUERED

Every Mother Should Read and Remember This

In any home where a child has a tendency to croup, a bottle of HYOMEL (pronounce it High-o-mel) should be kept constantly on hand.

A sudden attack of croup with difficult breathing and extreme distress is apt to come on at any time.

The course to be pursued is plain. Send for your doctor at once, and in the meantime drop 20 drops of HYOMEL into a bowl of boiling water, and hold the child's head over it, cover with a towel or cloth, so that only the air filled with Hyomel vapor is breathed.

This method of treatment has saved many a child's life, and mothers of croupy children should see to it that HYOMEL is always on hand. Full instructions for prompt relief of croup is in each package.

A 50c bottle of HYOMEL is all you need in treating croup. This is known in all drug stores as Extra Bottle Hyomel Inhalant. Leo H. Fine and drug gists everywhere sell it. Breathe HYOMEL. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup, sore throat, bronchitis, coughs and colds, or money back.

HOME-MAKERS' CLUB.

The following from Cambridge City will be of interest:

The members of the Home-Makers' club entertained at the pretty country home of Mrs. A. F. Sutton, Wednesday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Jennie Morris, and Mrs. Lydia Willets, both of whom are to be April brides. The roomy old house was beautifully but simply decorated in pink and white, the draperies in both library and parlor being festooned with pink and white hearts. Large white hearts bearing scenes from domestic life were much in evidence throughout the rooms, while on the door between the living room and the library, was fastened a large heart, bearing this inscription: "The royal road to matrimony is through the secretarship of the Home-Makers' club."—three secretaries of this club in succession, having yielded to Cupid's wiles. During the afternoon, slips upon which were written words of advice to wives concerning the management of husband, were read by the guests, affording much amusement, after which a loaf of bread upon a daintily carved tray was placed before Mrs. Morris, with the injunction that she cut it, while Miss Willets gave a practical illustration in the art of darning. The color scheme was also shown in the refreshments which were prettily served—the bride's table occupying the center of the room, and upon which was placed a bowl of beautiful pink and white tulips. Seated at this table were the brides-to-be, Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, and Mrs. Anderson Toms. Mrs. Toms read a parody in invitation of the wedding scene from Ahabath, while eight guests read an apt quotation from the dainty pink and white heart, which she kept as a favor.

MISS HARVEY ENTERTAINED.

Thursday afternoon Miss Alice Harvey entertained the members of a card club at her home in East Main street. Bridge was played at three tables. The favor was presented to Miss Margaret Sedgwick. SO NEAR EASTER, TOO

Indianapolis, March 31.—The supreme court Thursday ruled that a husband may cause his wife mental torture by writing accusations and drawing pictures on eggs and leaving said eggs where she could find them. The decision was in the case of Dr. William H. Stewart and wife, of Oakland City, in which the former was charged with putting the egg to a new and novel use.

The Stewarts were married in 1870, and became the parents of six children, four of whom are living and grown. The evidence indicated that their domestic life was not one sweet, blissful song.

It was testified that while Mrs. Stewart was away the doctor amused himself by visiting the hen house and drawing pictures and writing messages on her eggs. The eggs were displayed so that the wife and her children could find them.

The wife then sued for divorce, charging cruel and inhuman treatment. She told about the pictures and messages on the eggs, and the court sustained her, granting the divorce. It decided that she was entitled to $7,866 alimony and $500 attorney's fees, whereupon the husband appealed to the supreme court.

In its decision the latter says: "In this case, after nearly 40 years of wedded life, after appealing had borne to her husband six children, there is flaunted in the face of a virtuous wife in the presence of her children a charge calculated to cause more exquisite mental torture than any other which fiendish ingenuity might devise; under the circumstances here this is cruel and inhuman treatment within the meaning of our statute."

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, March 31.—Easter, with its delightful revelations of spring fashions, its bewildering surprises and spectacular displays is rapidly approaching and the fashion shops are overflowing with the most tempting and enchanting displays of feminine finery for the bonnie Easter tide. Easter parade will be a thing to be remembered.

A survey of the situation shows that one-piece dresses hold the first position among spring fashions. Except for the lingerie frocks, most of these are elaborate garments, suited for evening and dressy afternoon wear. Simpler gowns are seen in serge, panama, satin, crepe, voile. These fabric are capable of every modification, from a simple and inconspicuous walking dress to an elaborate robe for evening wear.

Black and white combinations are looked upon with favor, and so are blues, in every shade from navy to Copenhagen, grays, tans and soft browns, violets and, as a novelty, mignonne green. Red is little seen except as trimming touches on dark-toned models, and other bright colors are used in the same way.

The distinguishing features of the one-piece gowns of the present style are wide collars, draped fichus, incroyable revers, panel sashes and peasant sleeves in three quarter and elbow length. Vivid shades are, as a whole, favored, but veiled with chiffon to soften them, or revers and collars are covered with lace so that only the edge of the real fabric shows.

Skirts are still narrow, as in the suite, though not extremely so. The average width, it might be said, is 2 1/2 yards. They are plain gored, with bias folds, bands or pleated flounce at the bottom edges, or have a short tunic effect finished with kilts to the hem, or are in long tunic style with straight band or pleated flounce finish, or in double tunic mode, giving the appearance of a double skirt. The broad, straight panel sash, attached to the shortened waist line, and falling about to the knees, is quite modish. In tailored gowns these panel sashes are of the fabric itself, and are bound with braid. In dressier effects the model is shown in ribbon, satin or chiffon.

In nearly all the new suits the favored trimming is braid, especially the wide braid, which sometimes forms the collar, cuffs and revers, and trims the skirt as well. Panels of braid coming down the front and back of the jacket, and continued in the same way on the skirt, are distinctly the thing. Narrow braid is also very
