

ENGLISH DUCHESS TO QUIT COUNTRY

Her Grace, the Duchess of Marlborough, Snubbed by Court and Husband.

London, June 13.—The news that the duchess of Marlborough, now owned by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, is being prepared for occupancy this summer gives her friends here the belief that the duchess of Marlborough is to quit England and make her permanent home in her native country.

There is ample ground for this belief. The coming coronation ceremonies will emphasize the fact that the American duchess is excluded from the court of King George and Queen Mary. Whereas at the last coronation she was one of the canopy bearers for the queen, in the coming ceremonies she will have absolutely no part.

Only a few persons know the facts behind the exclusion of the duchess of Marlborough from court. The following account is given by a person closely associated with the diplomatic service in London.

During the sixteen years of Consuelo Vanderbilt's incumbency her lot has been one of distress, disappointment and disgust. This season the climax of her unhappy career in England has been capped by the complete banishment from the court.

Good friends have rushed to the side of the American, but their work is futile against the influence of Buckingham palace, and the duchess's own place—Sunderland house—is a social mausoleum in these days of royal disfavor.

Almost from the day of her wedding in St. Thomas church, New York, the multimillionaire's daughter has endured the snubs of an indolent husband. Most courageously she made the best of the situation and brought her two sons into the world without announcing her domestic sorrow.

Goaded by her gentleness it was the mildness and sweetness of his wife which goaded the duke, and finally the duchess tried other tactics. Like the heroine in the comedy the duchess beamed on the various charming cousins of Marlborough and apparently gave no heed to her husband's comings and goings.

It was at this point that the duke did the unpeppable things which cost him so many friends. The duchess is very deaf and the duke would forever make scathing remarks while she was present and unable to defend herself. Blenheim developed into a hotbed of ill temper, and the ducal quarrel broke down the health of the duchess.

It was at the final fight that the duchess of Marlborough, lashed to fury and her pride aroused, made the statement which so unjustly gave her husband the whiphand.

"You don't think I'm attractive, I may not be to you, but to your cousins—Freddie Quest for instance."

This little outburst of hurt vanity was repeated by the duke to his aunt, Lady Sarah Wilson, who never had liked the duchess of Marlborough, or her mother, Mrs. Oliver Belmont.

The Marlborough scandal was repeated to King Edward, whose efforts to avoid a public washing of linen was bound to be heeded. He tactfully requested the duchess to avoid litigation and she consented for a while.

Years ago, the king, then the prince of Wales, had been displeased when the Vanderbilts sought to buy Marlborough house, the town house now occupied by Queen Alexandra, but he had overlooked this presumption when the duchess proved so ornamental and accomplished a figure in London society.

It may have been the old rumor; it may have been the duchess's disobedience in putting her case into lawyer's hands, but it is more likely that when Lady Sarah repeated to the king the boast of the duchess that he turned against the American girl. He was "fed up" on the thrilling Marlborough case. He did not want the

Free for Stomach and Bowels

We are in receipt of letters from Mrs. Eva Gaskins, 304 Madison St., Topeka, Kans., and Mr. P. H. Gavelas, Wagoner, Okla., as well as many others, telling about the wonderful results they have secured in the cure of their stomach and liver troubles by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

This remedy, as all readers doubtless know, has been before the public for a generation and is now being more extensively used than any other remedy for stomach, liver and bowel complaints. According to reliable testimony, it seems to be a very quick and lasting cure for constipation, indigestion and dyspepsia. Liver trouble, biliousness, headaches, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar disorders, it is a liquid with tonic effect, and so mild and gentle in action that a child as well as a grown person can take it, in fact, it has no equal for children, women and old people.

It arouses the flow of gastric juice, and by a peculiar action trains the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with. A free sample bottle can be had for trial by sending your address to the doctor, for in this way Mrs. Gaskins, Mr. Gavelas and many others first learned of the cure. Later, when satisfied it is the remedy you need, do as others are doing and buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy is a bill of exchange. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. J. C. Caldwell, 24 Caldwell building, Cincinnati, Ill.

I received relief from using the first box, and continuing, I used four in all, and was cured. There is nothing too strong for me to say in favor of Mi-O-Na. reputation of Anglo-American marriages besmirched.

Edward's One Bad Break.

There was a meeting of the Knights of the Garter at Windsor castle and the duke of Marlborough was expected at the banquet. Then the genial King Edward did the one thing which showed a lack of tact. Her grace was not invited. In the public lists the duke of Marlborough's name stood without his spouse.

It was the cruelty of the blow that determined the precedent to the duchess's disadvantage. The snub of Edward barred her from the court for all time. It has been explained that the present sovereign have no personal dislike to the duchess but that they must uphold the decision of the seventh Edward.

In vain does the marceriness of Blandford, the duke's mother, associate herself with Consuelo. In vain do the dowager duchess of Roxburgh and the high-souled Lady de Ramsey give their support to the ill-treated wife of their heartless nephew. It is the 'rigid court decree which eliminates the duchess of Marlborough. Her recent evening party was a gathering of loyal friends rather than a brilliant soiree.

The American ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid continue to be kind to her grace and the duchess of Roxburgh and the countess of Granard are equally considerate but so long as the gates of the palace are closed to this duchess her position is one of extreme humiliation.

Bargains in Shirts.

Mr. Rag Picker, purchasing agent for the Raggle Paper Mills, is getting some big bargains in shirts. He pays one-half cent a pound for shirts which originally cost from fifty cents to ten dollars apiece. His business will continue so long as women use cheap, strong, yellow socks composed of products which eat fabrics and make the hands sore.

Hewitt's white Easy Task soap works without injury to the clothes and saves them from the rag picker.

At Local Theaters

At the Murray.

"Fine show—too much for the money—but that's one of Murray's characteristics," are the exact words spoken by a Main street business man as he wedged his way out of the crowded Murray theater yesterday afternoon. It is very true that Mr. Murray always gives the best the vaudeville market affords, trusting to the people of Richmond to realize what they are getting. He has made no mistake in framing up this week's show at the Murray.

Two clever comedians are the Haas Bros., original in all they do, and finishing up with some very fast work on the bars that gets them the well merited applause.

Agnes Edmunds sings song after song with unequalled success and promises to be a good drawing card for the week.

Harry C. Rego, the harpist, is the artistic hit of the bill. With utmost skill and fine touch he plays the most difficult selections upon the harp, and is always ready to respond to requests for the favorite melody of any patron.

Erin's Isle proved to be one of the biggest surprises ever sprung upon a Richmond audience. Manager Murray had promised a big scenic sensation, but no one was prepared for the magnificence of the setting. Enough can not be said about it, suffice it to say it is the most beautiful thing you have ever seen in vaudeville. The solo work is in the capable hands of Miss Anna Shaw, a pretty girl with a sweet voice, graceful ways and the magnetism of youth.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Manager Murray has secured the Motor Speedway Races films.

AUTHORS AS A RULE ARE POOR HUSBANDS

History Relates That Many Wives of Novelists Were Made Miserable.

Among the many unhappy marriages of great writers a rather conspicuous example is that of Edward Bulwer Lytton and Rosina Doyle Wheeler. Miss Wheeler was cultured, educated, vivacious and beautiful when she married the novelist.

But, the honeymoon over, her husband took her to a lonely country house and shut her completely out of society. He insisted upon her hunting up references and copying his manuscripts. Lady Lytton's life was a long and terrible tragedy.

In course of time she became embittered against both her husband and the son, the "Owen Meredith" of literature. She survived her husband ten years and died friendless and un-mourned.

A marked contrast to the gloomy life of the Lyttons is the bright and happy life of the Kingsleys. Charles Kingsley, the distinguished clergyman and author, traced his spiritual regeneration to the sustained efforts of Fanny Grenfell.

There was a long courtship of five years and perhaps no wedded life ever more thoroughly attained to the true blessedness of the marriage bond than that of Charles and Fanny Kingsley.

Dante was married to a notorious scold, and when he was in exile he had no desire to see his wife although she was the mother of his six children.

Dr. Samuel Johnson's wife was old enough to be his mother, but he continued to be under the illusion of the wedding day, when he thought he had married one of the most beautiful women in the world. When she died at the age of 64, he being only 43, he mourned her loss as irreparable.

Lord Bacon enjoyed but little domestic bliss and "loved not to be with his partner." Dryden "married discord in a noble wife." Addison sold himself to a crossgrained old countess.

Shelley's first marriage was unfortunate, but his second was a model of domestic happiness. Moliere was married to a wife who made him most miserable. Rousseau lived a most wretched life with his partner. Steele, Sterne, Churchill, Coleridge, Byron and Charles Dickens have been recorded in history as "indifferent husbands."—Literary Bureau.

LIGHTNING LIFTS BED COVERS; TWO UNHURT

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—Lightning which struck the home of Mrs. S. E. West, 772 Arundel street, lifted the bed clothing from the bed on which Mrs. West and her 14-year-old grandchild, Robert Adkins, were sleeping, without injuring either of them.

The bolt destroyed the chimney, tore holes in the walls of three rooms and broke plastering from all parts of the house. It did not set fire to the place, however, and the damage will not exceed $10.

When the storm started about 11 o'clock the boy went to his grandmother's bed and said he did not like to sleep alone. He crawled under the covers and fell asleep. The crash of sound, which accompanied the bolt, awakened Mrs. West and the boy and covered both of them with soot and plaster. They found the bed clothing against a wall in an opposite corner of the room.

WHAT IS THE ODOR ANDERSONITE-BEER

Anderson, Ind., June 13.—"It smells like old times," said a citizen, as the odor of beer was wafted from a newly opened saloon to the street. "It has been more than two years since the smell of beer lawfully permeated the air here."

Anderson was "dry" here for two years, but saloons are legally doing business now. Madison county became "wet" yesterday, when forty-eight saloons opened for business under licenses granted last week. No licenses were issued until 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The county treasurer collected a city license fee of $500 in addition to the county fee of $200 from each saloon keeper in Anderson and Alexandria collected the fees for those cities. More than $30,000 was paid for saloon licenses at noon Monday. By noon, twenty-one saloons were opened in this city. Others were delayed by not getting their fixtures installed.

Ten of twelve saloons opened at Elwood, six at Alexandria, one in North Anderson, one at Gilman, one at Florida and two at Frankton yesterday.

A CLEANLY AGE.

Twentieth Century Ideas Incline Toward Sanitation and Preventives. Nowadays scientists believe that in cleanliness lies the secret of prevention of diseases.

To prevent a disease, remove the cause. Just as unclean habits breed many diseases, so careless habits will breed dandruff. Improper use of another's brushes, combs, etc., will surely cause dandruff, and in time will just as surely cause baldness.

It's microbial infection, nothing more nor less.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, and causes hair to grow luxuriantly. Herpicide is absolutely free from grease or other injurious substances.

LOCUSTS ATTACKED PHYSICIAN IN AUTO

Woodbury, N. J. June 13.—Dr. H. H. Clark of this city came near being eaten alive by locusts. Having a call out on the fairway road, he took a short cut through Almonesson. As he drew near the head of the lake in his automobile he heard what he thought was a locomotive whistle, but knowing there was no railroad there, he stopped his machine and found the noise was made by locusts.

Driving on the doctor came into the thickest of the millions of the insects, which flew on him until he was covered. He says inside of a moment fully 1,000 had alighted on him and his machine was covered. They bit him about the face and even through his gloves to his hands.

Stopping his machine again, the doctor attempted to shake the locusts off, but they wouldn't shake, and for a moment he was in a quandary. Finally he started his machine and ground the insects by the hundreds and this made the car skid some. He finally got out of the dilemma and rushed on to his call, but he did not return that way.

THE SHIP'S COURSE.

It Started the Salt Water Sailor on Lake Michigan.

The skipper of the H. W. Oliver was in a reminiscent mood as he sat in the hotel window watching the many theater lovers wade through the mud on their way to the brilliantly lighted entrance.

"That long, slim fellow there reminds me of the watchman I had on the ship last year," he said. "He was city bred, but when he came on board the ship would not admit he was anything but a salt water sailor. I first saw him on the fo'c's'le slushing down the deck. I asked him where he came from."

"I just blew in from salt water," he replied, and I knew in a minute he was handing me bunk.

"He was so willing to show he knew everything that we fixed up a joke on him when he was casting the lead up on Superior in a fog. The mate left him casting on the fo'c's'le, calling the depth and tasting the butter to place the location. In the end of the lead there was tallow to catch the soil on the lake bottom. By the soil we could tell where we were at."

"The new watchman heaved the lead. The mate stepped forward and when the lead came over the side substituted one which he had heated to red-hot color in the furnace at the place where the tallow was placed."

"How deep is it?" I cried.

"About five fathoms," he answered.

"What's on the butter?" I called.

"He brought the lead to his lips, touched his tongue to the hot tip and jumped a foot in the air, dropping the lead on the mate's foot."

"Great heavens, captain, stop the ship!" he bellowed. "We will all be in hell in five minutes."—Milwaukee Free Press.

Red Blood For Pale People!

A big supply of red blood corpuscles is what helps to make any man or woman have a healthy, pink complexion and cherry red lips. Resort to paint and powder are totally unnecessary and besides that, are harmful. Three grain hypo-nutrient tablets, if used regularly for several months, seem to create a greatly added number of millions to the red and white corpuscles of the blood, and not only improve the color, but add increased flesh to the thin and frail body. These tablets promote assimilation, absorption and digestion, and this splendid aid to nature's forces transforms the complexion and figure. They are prescribed by physicians, but being of a perfectly harmless character, self-administration is being followed by many, who obtain them direct from any well-stocked apothecary shop.

WILL CHEAPEN COST OF ELECTRIC POWER

Wonderful Discovery Means Light at One-Fiftieth Present Cost.

Paris, June 13.—A remarkable discovery, which, it is believed, will make a revolution in electric lighting, is announced by a young French scientist, M. Dussaud, and is making a great sensation among experts. By its means it is asserted that illumination can be produced at one-fiftieth part of the cost at present necessary.

M. Dussaud's invention consists partly in the repeated interruption of a low voltage current for a fraction of a second each time. At each cut-off the lamp rests for an infinitesimal period, so short that the eye receives the impression of continuous light, but long enough to allow the filament to cool. Combined with this intermittent current small lamps about an inch in diameter are used, with a filament of tungsten, which offers very little resistance to the current, and yet gives a light thirteen and a half times greater than any of the lamps now on the market.

The consequence of the alternate heating and cooling of the filament is that the lamp remains practically cold, the surface never rising above forty degrees centigrade. It can therefore be placed as close as is desired to the condenser of an optical instrument, thus enormously increasing the light.

With a low current a light of ten thousand candle power, it is said, can easily be obtained with a suitable instrument. Cinematograph films of the standard size can be made to throw a picture sixteen feet square, while if the image is kept to its present dimensions it is so brilliant that it can be shown in broad daylight.

The new light is claimed, will replace magnesium in flashlight photography, while in medicine it serves the purpose of the X-Rays in some cases—the cold lamp nabbing the hand for instance, to be placed close against it, when it becomes perfectly transparent.

A number of patents have been taken out, and the new apparatus will shortly be placed on the market at a low cost.

M. Dussaud has already many ingenious inventions to his credit, including a sound magnifier for the deaf, an improved phonograph and a cinematograph for the blind.

BOLT ENTERS ROOM WHERE WOMAN SLEPT

Jottstown, Pa., June 13.—During terrific storm a bolt of lightning knocked a hole through the wall of Dr. W. H. Eck's house, crossed the bedroom of Miss May Rhoads, a sister-in-law and following the steam pipes, knocked pictures from with metal frames from the walls. A portion of the brick wall on the west side of the mansion was demolished. Hundreds of dollars' worth of damage was done by the bolt.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and closes, so that the air cannot reach the eardrum. When this occurs, the hearing is lost. If left untreated, the hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A CURIOUS ANIMAL.

The Sea Cucumber Can Part With and Replace its Organs.

Among the curious animals which inhabit the sea we may take the holothuria, or sea cucumber, so called from its resemblance to the cucumber. When this animal is attacked by an enemy it does not stand up and fight, but by a sudden movement it ejects its teeth, stomach, digestive apparatus and nearly all its intestines and then shrivels its body up to almost nothing. When, however, the danger is past the animal commences to replace the organs which it has voluntarily parted with, and in a short time the animal is as perfect as ever it was.

Dr. Johnstone kept one in water for a long time, and one day he forgot to change the water. The creature in consequence ejected its intestines and shriveled up, but when the water was changed all its organs were reproduced. Although the animal is not eaten in Europe, it is a favorite with the Chinese, and the fishing forms an important part of the industry of the east. Thousands of junks are annually used in fishing for trepang, as the animals are called.—London Tit-Bits.

Cows That Never Drink.

The "wild cow" of Arabia, in reality an antelope, the Beatrix oryx, is said never to drink, which is probably correct, for unless these animals can descend the wells they can find no drinking water for ten months in the year. There is no surface water, and rain falls but precariously during the winter. Only once during my journey did I find a pool of rainwater, caught in a hollow rock, and even this I should have passed by without knowing of its existence had not my camels sniffed it from a distance and obstinately refused to be turned from going in that direction. These antelope, however, are provided by nature with a curious food supply, especially designed as a thirst quencher. This is a parasite which grows on the roots of the desert bushes and forms a long spadix full of water and juice. The antelope dig deep holes in the sand in order to get at these.—Wide World Magazine.
