Pullman Cars.

The Pullman car goes back to the year 1858. That year George B. Pullman arranged with the Chicago and Alton railway for a couple of its day coaches, which he fitted up as sleeping cars. The first car was ready for use in September, 1858. This car was a low deck one, with rods running up and down at the end of each berth. The upper berth was pulled up on the rear side by a rope and pulley, and the front of the berth slid up on these rods and fastened with an iron catch. The lower berth was made out of the two seats turned together. Thus humble were the first Pullmans which are now so palatial in their arrangement.

The Drum Major.
The dignitary known as drum major was not generally recognized in the English army till the close of the reign of Charles I. Corporal punishment up to the time of William III. was executed by the provost marshal and his deputies, but afterward the drummer was entrusted with the task. Among the records of the Coldstream guards is an order that "the drum major be answerable that no cat has more than nine tails." In 1661 a drum major of the army received 1s 6d. pay per drum—London Mail.
