Biggest of Cannibal Banquets.
Probably the biggest cannibal orgy on record is one of which Miss Beatrice Grimshaw tells in her book "The New Guinea." "In 1853 a ship-load of Chinamen was being taken down to Australia. The vessel was wrecked upon a reef close to Ross Island (New Guinea). The officers escaped in boats, but were never afterward heard of. As for the Chinamen, numbering 326, the natives captured them and put them on a small barren island, where they had no food and no means of getting away. They kept their prisoners supplied with food from the mainland and every now and then carried away a few of them to eat until all but one old man had been devoured. This one succeeded eventually in getting away and told something of the story, which seems to have met with general disbelief. True it is, however, on the evidence of the sons of those who did the deed."

A Memory Revived.

Political torchlight parades, political barbecues and political notification meetings are as antiquated as the flintlock musket.

The growth of independent voting has sounded their doom. They served their purpose well in the days when partisan spirit ran high, when men placed party above government, and principles, but when the party was regulated to its proper position the frenzied American campaign clamor was silenced, the torch lights flickered and went out and the singing of the glee clubs became a memory.

Of all parties the Republican is the only one which still clings tenaciously to the old campaign methods—clings as tightly to them as it does to rotten principles, thread-bare issues and corrupt political bosses. The Republican lives in yesterday. He fondles old traditions as a mother does her new born babe, and the price that once invincible party is paying is its own life.

Richmond people last night witnessed a Republican revival of an old campaign standby—the torchlight parade, with brass bands, glee clubs and drum corps. It was complete in every particular save one—the mile-long line of cheering partisans.

Back of the gold-braided bandmen and the industrious members of the drum corps marched probably one hundred unenthusiastic men still loyal to their once grand party, and the majority of these marchers came from a neighboring city.

"That is something like the way we used to do it," remarked an old man on the curb to a youth at his side, who gazed curiously at the spectacle.

The Perfume of the Farm.

Judging from the sarcastic note of an "Amused Farmer's Wife," appearing in the Indianapolis Star, Dr. Hurty, official pulse feeler of Indiana, in a rabid moment must have accused the farmers of not being, we will say, fragrant.

"Yes, Johnny, 'the farmers stink' now, but when you used to come to our house to stretch the wrinkles out of your belly, oh, how sweet they smelled them," writes Amused Farmer's Wife.

Right you are, Mrs. Farmer's Wife. They smelled then and they smell now of lucious pumpkin pies, of new mown hay and green pastures wet with dew, and fried chicken, and "fodder in the shock."

What sensitive and peculiar noses some people do have.

Meat Inspection.

It is quite evident the federal government cannot be prevailed upon to again detail a man to act as meat inspector for this city. At the present time the city is employing a competent man, a veterinarian, as inspector, but the 1913 budget does not contain an appropriation for his salary.

It is understood that some members of council favor the employment of a layman as inspector and the present inspector is only being retained from month to month until some decision on the important question has been reached.

There are a great many Richmond people who are opposed to the proposed plan of employing a layman as inspector on the ground that a layman is not competent to pass reliable judgment on carcasses examined.
They maintain that only a veterinarian can accurately detect dangerous diseases common to live stock, and it seems their position is well taken because the government meat inspection rules and regulations require that a man be a veterinarian before he can receive appointment to the service, and the city ordinance expressly stipulates that local inspection of meats shall be done according to the rules and regulations of the federal government.

If a layman is employed by the city as inspector obviously it will be necessary for council to repeal or amend the meat inspection ordinance.
We dispute the wisdom of either course.

If the citizens of Richmond are to have the benefit of inspected meats, let us have inspection which equals the standard of the United States government, or have none at all.

This is My 35th Birthday

CARL HAYDEN.
Carl Hayden, who has the distinction of being the first congressman sent by the new State of Arizona to the national house of representatives, was born in Tempe, Arizona, October 2, 1877. After graduating from the Normal School of Arizona in 1896 he attended Leland Stanford, Jr., University, where he distinguished himself as a member of the football team.

Upon his return to Arizona after completing his university career young Hayden succeeded his father in the presidency of the milling company that years before had built the first flour mill in Arizona. His public career began ten years ago with his election as treasurer of his home county.
Following this, he was twice elected sheriff, and upon the admission of Arizona to Statehood last year he was the Democratic choice for delegate-at-large to Congress and ran neck and neck with Senator Ashurst for first honors as a vote getter.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, BUT DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS."

Give your stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels a thorough cleansing without gripe or nausea. Ends headache, biliousness, indigestion and constipation.

This wonderful fruit laxative acts as a liver and bowel cleanser—tonic—not as an irritant. Its action is natural and gentle—no gripping. It is positive and prompt—no waiting.

If your stomach is sour and filled with vile gases, your head aches, or you are bilious, nervous, dizzy, half sick, your tongue coated, your thirty feet of bowels clogged with waste not properly carried off—don't wait. Surely take a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs to-night, and in the morning all constipated waste, sour bile, gases and poisons will move on and out of the system, gently but thoroughly—no gripping—no nausea—no weakness. In the old days people let these matters run until they needed a large dose of physic, then they took something severe, like castor oil, salts or cathartics, that meant abuse to the bowels. These are the days of the gentle and natural—the days of Syrup of Figs. This way you are not drugging yourself. Syrup of Figs being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics can not cause injury.

MANY CHEMISTS MEET

(National News Association)
LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 2.— Many chemists of world-wide renown are now in Louisiana, fresh from their international convention at Washington, and will spend tomorrow at the sulphur mines near this city. These mines produce the sulphur of the United States, and so extensive are the deposits that it is said the entire world could be supplied. The existence of the sulphur bed was discovered some twenty years ago during exploration for oil, but no successful method of mining it was discovered until ten years ago. The sulphur lies 400 feet underground and is covered by 200 feet of quicksand. The mining is now conducted by a patented process which consists of melting the sulphur underground by forcing super-heated steam and hot water into the surface by means of compressed air. After the sulphur cools off at the surface it hardens and is broken up into blocks for shipment.

First Wage Laws.
The first wages fixed by parliament in England date back to the year 1350, under Henry III. The wage was ridiculously low. Haymakers had but 1 penny a day; master carpenters, masons, tilers and other roof workers had not more than three pence a day. By 1444, under Henry VI, and 1495, under Henry VII, matters had considerably improved. Carpenters, masons, bricklayers, tilers, carvers and joiners getting from five to six pence a day. So late as 1855 farm laborers received only 3s. 6d. per week, the other workers faring not much better.
—New York American.

Ambition of a Henpecked Man.
"I don't know that I desire to rule my wife. I used to feel sometimes as if I wished to, but I have got over it," confessed skimp little Mr. Hennepeck to the friend of his boyhood, "but once in awhile I do kind of have an ambition to be as hoarse as she is."
