THE STATE PRESS.

EVOLUTION OF THE VOTER.
Never in the history of a political campaign has the old "father-to-son" idea of voting been exploded to such a great extent as it has during the present epoch-making crusade of the rival parties. Time was when the man born south of the Mason and Dixon line felt that he was a real bolter if he voted anything but the straight Democratic ballot. Again, in the North, as well as in other sections of the country, a great majority of the votes were cast for a certain party because it was a tradition of the family to vote that way. "Father and grandfather voted that way, why not the next generation?" was the argument.

But times have changed, and more than ever the son is becoming a free thinker, and is voting his own convictions. One of the chief reasons for the change in the old custom is that the educational advantages of the youth of today are far less restricted than even so late as twenty years ago. The tables are turned, generally speaking, and the son with the present day educational advantages and closely in touch with the issues of the campaign has just as much influence through the process of reasoning over the parent as the family tradition argument. In fact, with the more enlightened class, the latter argument has practically ceased to be of any value.

There is a natural progressive tendency on the part of not only the young man, but the elder voter as well, to better the economic conditions of the country. There is a general difference of opinion as to the best remedy to better these conditions, but the feeling of unrest is universal. Here is where the free thinking comes in—the young voter, generally speaking, has had the proper training to make his own decisions.

In the polls which have been taken around the state it has been proved that in the ranks of the Progressive party are many of the first voters. The young vote is an important factor in any election, and these free thinking young voters may decide the issue on Nov. 5. The evolution of the American voter is a great progressive movement in itself.—Muncie Star.

How Should the Workmen Vote?

The laboring man before he casts his ballot for either Roosevelt, Wilson or Taft should carefully consider the labor record of these three candidates. Labor has for years been demanding the square deal. It has been demanding legislation which will benefit the workman and the members of his family. This year labor has a golden opportunity to bring about the reforms it has so long insisted on, and labor must not overlook it.

But who is the candidate for president labor can rely upon to fulfill its demands? Is it Wilson? Is it Taft? Is it Roosevelt?

We will consider first Mr. Wilson, from the standpoint of the wage earner.

In the first place Mr. Wilson is the chief executive of New Jersey, a state known as the "mother of trusts," and the trusts have rarely proved themselves the friend of labor. Mr. Wilson advocates the elimination of monopoly, but as governor of New Jersey he has not lifted a finger to enforce the trust policy he preaches now as a presidential candidate.

Mr. Wilson stands on a platform which advocates free trade, and free trade throws the American workman into open competition with the cheap labor of Europe and Asia, and such competition spells minimum wages and mere existence for our wage earners.

As a historian Mr. Wilson has frankly expressed his hostility to union labor, and has stated that labor is a commodity that can be purchased in the open market.

Of course Mr. Wilson, as a candidate for president, now expresses the greatest admiration for labor. But judging him from his record before he became a presidential possibility, is he a man who can be trusted by labor in the highest office in the gift of the American people?

We will now direct our attention to Mr. Taft. How does he stand in regard to labor?

Just a few months ago Mr. Taft, in an address delivered in New York city, emphatically opposed the initiative, referendum and recall, the effective weapon the Progressive party proposes to place in the hands of the American people, the majority of whom are workers. Mr. Taft saying that the masses could not be intrusted with the management of this government. Quite complimentary to the American workman!

Mr. Taft favors government by a privileged minority. Can such a man be trusted by labor as chief executive of the United States?

Mr. Taft was the man who signed the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, which has been the greatest factor contributing to the existing high cost of living. Did he show his friendship to labor by approving such a measure?

We will now consider the labor record of Col. Roosevelt.

Did the seven years he served in the white house prove him friend or foe to the wage earner? Is he justified in appealing to the support of the working classes in this campaign?

We believe that any man who has followed the career of the Progressive leader cannot for one minute doubt that he has always had the best interests of labor at heart. As chief executive Mr. Roosevelt by sturdy fighting compelled congress to enact legislation which was the most beneficial received by labor in a decade; he created a cabinet office to look after the interests of labor; it was through his powerful influence that the pure meats and pure foods are now to be found on the tables of rich and poor alike; he interfered in a great strike, the ill effects of which were being felt all over the nation, and through his efforts a compromise was reached which greatly benefitted the striking workmen; and last, but far from least, it was Theodore Roosevelt who first began preaching the doctrine of civic and social reforms to the American workers, and through the crusade he inaugurated and perpetuated the American people were brought to realize that their government was no longer representative; that it was being governed by political machines operating solely for the benefit of a privileged few. For this splendid work he earned the title of "Anarchist" from the great monied interests and their subsidized press.

Now Theodore Roosevelt is the candidate of a party whose platform has been constructed around the homes of the workers of this nation. The beneficial legislation now demanded by labor and the weapons necessary to keep the control of the government in the hands of the people are to be found in that platform and the Progressives have selected the most powerful man in public life today to put this reform program on the statute books.

We believe labor can make no mistake in supporting Theodore Roosevelt.

He has been tried by fire and found true.

He has been the faithful friend and powerful champion of the people in the ordinary walks of life.

He understands them and sympathizes with them.

He has studied their wants and needs at first hand, not from the judge's bench or from books in the seclusion of a college library.

Theodore Roosevelt does not believe the American workman cannot be trusted with the management of this government, nor does he believe that the American workman is a "commodity to be bought in the open market."

Consider gravely the qualifications and the records of these candidates before you make a choice, Mr. Workman, and then vote for the one who will serve you best. It is a matter of vital importance.

care taken of the books. Mr. Beveridge stated that the average cost in his incumbency ending July 1, is nothing short of astounding. In some of his recent speeches Governor Hanly gives the figures and they are startling.

Governor Marshall during the first three years and a half of his administration exercised executive clemency eight hundred and forty-one times. His three predecessors, Mount, Durbin and Hanly, in twelve years, exercised executive clemency, all of them, only 379 times. In other words Governor Marshall in three and a half years exercised executive clemency twice as many times as his predecessors in twelve years, and more times, in addition than Governor Mount exercised that high power during his entire administration. The Press has before remarked that Governor Marshall's abuse of the pardoning power amounted to a scandal, and these figures prove that contention.—Muncie Press.

SCHOOL BOOK COST.
Mr. Beveridge's figures on the cost of school books in Indiana and in free book states, given in his speech at Vincennes last night, would seem to find some corroboration here. A well known local educator stated to the News a few days ago that in his opinion the annual cost of books per pupil in Connersville was about $2 in the common schools and $4 in the high schools, much depending on the

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, dinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must bear in mind that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

GREEK RED CROSS APPEALS FOR AID

The following appeals have been received in this city the last few days:

Dear Sir or Madam:

With the commencement of hostilities between Greece and Turkey the demands upon the Greek Red Cross, heavily taxed already by the general mobilization of the army, are daily growing larger and the Society is becoming dependent to a very great extent upon the aid of those who sympathize with the sufferers in this inevitable struggle.

At the request of the governing body of the Greek Red Cross in Athens, we make an earnest appeal to the generosity of the people of the United States to send us contributions to enable us to strengthen the important and arduous labors of the "Red Cross" and to assure its continuance. Small or large sums will be equally thankfully received. Every dollar helps. Every contribution will be acknowledged by our treasurer, Mr. A. P. Ralli, care Raill Bros., 15 William Street, New York City, to whom kind subscribers to our fund are requested to forward their remittance.

Yours respectfully,

D. N. Bostassi,
Consul-General of Greece, Chairman.
C. Papamichalopoulos,
(Manager Panhellenic Union.)
A. P. Ralli,
Treasurer & Secretary of Committee.

This Is My 55th Birthday

EARL OF ESSEX.

The Earl of Essex, head of one of the most illustrious of English families, was born October 24, 1857, and succeeded to the title upon the death of his grandfather in 1882. The family name is Capell. The first Lord Capell was beheaded by the followers of Cromwell for his loyalty to Charles I. Another ancestor, Sir Giles, was knighted for his valor in the French wars by Henry VIII. The present Lord Essex received a military education and for many years served as an officer in the Grenadier Guards. To Americans he is perhaps best known as the husband of the beautiful Countess.
