If Sheriff Steen imagines his expose of Mr. Horch's illiterate letters are interesting to the reading public, he is greatly mistaken.

Too the small mentality the duties of a county sheriff require, Mr. Steen has added the physical accessories of big feet, big ears, and a broad chest;
these are probably the chief assets in his possession which qualify him for the office.

It cannot be contemplated that Mr.
Steen would be the stellar attraction
in a body of college professors.

Mr. Voter of Wayne county, will you vote for a man who would violate the confidence of business letters, simply because of mis-spelt words,
and hold them up before the public,
in derisive ridicule, that the garbage
gatherers of scandal might fatten upon the unfortunate ignorance of a fellow-man?

Mr. Steen, if you continue your correspondence with the "Dutch," don't make a joke of yourself, and abuse the decency of your office by publishing private letters; it does not indicate good breeding or business intelligence on your part, and the public does not want that kind of literature.

How to Wash Windows

There is a wrong way to wash windows and a right way too. This is the right way: Choose a time when the sun is not shining on the glass.
Take a brush and dust the window inside and out, washing all the woodwork inside before touching the glass, which should be washed slowly in warm water and a dash of ammonia.
Do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners. Wipe dry with a soft piece of cotton cloth. Polish with old newspapers.

It costs $8,000,000,000 a year to feed the American people.

Wilson's Trust Record.

When Mr. Wilson was a candidate for the governorship of New Jersey, he promised the people of that state that if elected, he would deal with the trust situation.

In numerous speeches in his campaign, Mr. Wilson discussed the trust question and declared what he was going to do to the corporations if elected. He was elected, and carried with him the lower house of the legislature, which was Democratic more than two to one. In his first message to the legislature, January 17, 1911, Governor Wilson renewed and made more emphatic his promise to deal with the New Jersey trusts. He described corporations as organizations which had "slipped out of the control of the very law that gave them leave to be, and that can make and unmake them at pleasure."

Eighty per cent of the modern American trusts are incorporated in New Jersey and are subject to its laws. They depend upon the state government for their powers and their life, both of which may at any moment be cut off if the state government sees fit to take such action. Section 4 of the New Jersey Corporation Act provides as follows:

"The charter of every corporation, or any supplement thereto or amendment thereof, shall be subject to alteration, suspension or repeal in the discretion of the legislature, and the legislature may at pleasure, dissolve any corporation."

But this is not all. There is a provision in the criminal statutes of New Jersey which affords a remedy that Mr. Wilson has repeatedly described as most effective to meet the evils of the present situation. The New Jersey legislature of 1911 stood: House, 42 Democrats, 18 Republicans; Senate, 11 Republicans, 10 Democrats.

In a speech at Trenton, New Jersey, reported in the Philadelphia Record of May 5, 1912, in which Governor Wilson described how he had secured the enactment of certain reforms in New Jersey, he said: "What followed was easy. The power in both parties that had held a legislature back from doing what the people of the state demanded, was broken and the legislature moved forward with zest. These acts passed the legislature with surprising, with refreshing ease, though one house was Democratic and the other Republican."

Governor Wilson's present excuse that the "Republican majority in the legislature made revision of corporation laws impossible," is thus flatly contradicted by Governor Wilson's repeated boasts that he had secured the legislation which he described at that session "With surprising, with refreshing ease."

The New Jersey legislature of 1912 stood: House, Republicans 37; Democrats 23; Senate, Republicans, 11; Democrats 10—the legislature being thus Republican in both branches. In a speech at Camden, New Jersey, reported in the Philadelphia North American, of May 19th, he referred to the Republican legislature of 1912 as having been "docile." The official minutes of the session of 1912 show that Governor Wilson made no effort whatever to secure any trust or corporation legislation, during that session, despite the fact that he had a "docile legislature," with which to deal.

Not only did Governor Wilson fail either to advocate corporation legislation or to assist in securing the enactment of the Donnelly and Colgate bills, but he vetoed the grade-crossing bill, which had been enacted in direct fulfillment of the promises of both parties in their platforms of 1911, and of his own promise on the stump.

Under the New Jersey statute Governor Wilson has had at all times during the year and ten months of his governorship, the power to direct the Attorney-General of the state to proceed to the enforcement of the ample laws already on the statute books, and never once has he lifted a finger to do a single thing toward the fulfillment of any of his promises.

The Truth Has Come Out.

It is now positively known to the entire world that the Steel Trust, the Morgan interests, and the entire Wall Street crowd are back of President Taft's candidacy and against Col. Roosevelt. It is a significant fact that at the last moment the truth has come out and that is, that all the Morgan interests headed by J. P. Morgan himself and his son, and H. C. Frick and others who are the controlling influence in the Steel Trust, are now and have been all along secretly against Roosevelt's candidacy.

The Republican National Committee has steadily refused to make public any of its campaign contributions until only a few days ago, when under the federal law the Republican committee was forced to file a statement in Washington. This statement was only filed on the very last day and then reluctantly to comply with the law.

The list of contributors as made public shows that they were made up largely of Wall Street men, bankers, capitalists, and corporation people generally. Among the principal contributors are Andrew Carnegie, J. P. Morgan and Co., H. C. Frick, Geo. F. Baker, at least five directors of the United States Steel corporation finance committee.

This absolutely justifies the charge repeatedly made by Col. Roosevelt that Wall Street was back of the Taft campaign, and shows why the Taft managers have refused to publish lists of contributions heretofore. It also gives the lie to the statement of Mr. Hillis that the Steel corporation, through Mr. Perkins, was backing the Roosevelt campaign.

The testimony before the senate investigating committee, a few days ago brought out the fact that Cyrus H. McCormick, president of the International Harvester company, had contributed to the Wilson pre-convention campaign and that when the contribution was offered Governor Wilson himself passed on it and said he was in favor of accepting it.

The contribution in question has just been returned to Mr. McCormick, not by the Democratic National Committee, but by Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge, of New York.

It will thus be seen that Governor Wilson was perfectly willing to accept direct contributions to his pre-convention expenses from the president of the Harvester company, and keep it, until, first, the purpose of the contribution had been accomplished, viz., Mr. Wilson's nomination; second, until the fact of the contribution was disclosed by an official investigation, when an arrangement was made for a private individual to return it.

The investigation also has shown that another contribution was made by Mr. Jones, a director of the International Harvester company to the Wilson pre-convention campaign, but up to date, no return of this has been made.

The point of all this is that in place of the International Harvester company supporting Col. Roosevelt, it has been secretly supporting Governor Wilson.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in ill ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic oxide gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intense pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. Whatever the cause, there's just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing this: It has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

THE FATHER OF A FLOWER.

Of all the flowers of earth what is choicer than the American Beauty rose?

But—Do you know the man who created that beautiful thing is a lonely, disappointed, hopeless old man who has scarcely where to lay his head?

Specific details are lacking, but it is known that because of lack of money to promote the culture of the Beauty and to exploit it others stepped in and reaped the fruits. Tens of thousands were made, of which the original grower got none.

Today the bent and shabby father of the flower walks the streets of Washington seeking an occasional job from some prosperous florist who knows his history or goes hungry.

Meantime his rose riots in every conservatory over the earth.

He is a gentle old man of refined tastes, quiet ways and sensitive nature. And it is characteristic of him that he should refuse to touch or care for an American Beauty.

The gorgeous bloom is not for him. Though he dreamed it into being, it serves only to remind him of a life's disappointment and the ingratitude of mankind. It is to him—as if the thing created had turned away from its creator.

And so—While his flower flourishes everywhere in the gardens, adorns the bottoms of countless happy brides, cheers the bedside or lifts its blushing face in the midst of luxury and love and laughter, its shabby old maker goes about desolate and forgotten.

It is the way of life.

True it is, but shameful! Shameful it has always been that genius should have to climb other men's stairs for its meager dole; shameful that "Paradise Lost" should go for a few pounds and that Edgar Allan Poe in his penury should get but $10 for "The Raven."

True, and shameful, that the creator, the discoverer, the inventor, the maker of worth or beauty should be cheated of the pay for labor.

We live and enjoy because of somebody's suffering and sacrifice. We owe infinitely more than we can ever repay.

We remain forgetfully in the use and reish of a thousand things which have cost us nothing.

And who of us, when he is dead, shall have given to the world a heritage of perpetual beauty such as this poor old gardener of Washington?

Sore Throat Not a Trifling Ailment

Almost every one has had sore throat, will have it again. It is one of our most common ailments and, because, in itself, is not fatal, is too often looked upon as a small matter, requiring little or no attention. On the contrary, it is a very serious condition because every person with Sore Throat is in danger of Tetanus, Quinsies, Diphtheria and other serious maladies. In fact these diseases are almost invariably preceded by Sore Throat. The air we breathe, the food we eat, the liquids we drink, all pass through the throat, and if that is diseased infection may be carried to every part of the system. To cure a Sore Throat often means to prevent Diphtheria or one of the other more serious throat diseases. Curing Sore Throat is TONSILINE'S special mission. It is made for that—advertised for that—sold for that one purpose. TONSILINE is the one and only Sore Throat cure which is sold over a large part of the United States.

TONSILINE is so well and so skillfully prepared as a Sore Throat cure that the first dose gives decided relief, and a very few doses cure. Remember—Sore throat is Nature's danger signal. Keep TONSILINE in the house and be on the safe side of Sore Throat. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

Vapor Treatment For Catarrh

Colds and Coughs

The HYOMEI vapor treatment is especially recommended in stubborn cases of chronic catarrh of long standing, but remember that the inhaler should be used daily as usual.

This treatment only takes a few minutes time before going to bed. Pour a scant teaspoonful of 3-yr's HYOMEI into a kitchen bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that arises.

You will be surprised at the results of this treatment; it makes the head feel fine and clear.

This method is also used to break up the worst cold in the head over night.

A bottle of Booth's HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-mei) costs 50 cents at Leo H. Fife's and druggists everywhere. Complete outfit which includes the little pocket inhaler $1.00.

No stomach dosing; just breathe; it is guaranteed to end catarrh and all diseases of the breathing organs.

Booth's HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-mei) is Australian Eucalyptus combined with Listerian Antiseptic that destroy catarrh germs and soothe and heal the sore membrane.

SLEEPING IN CHURCH.

It Used to Be Rudely Interrupted in Olden Times in England.

One John Rudge is on record as having bequeathed to the parish of Trysull, in Shropshire, England, 20 shillings a year to be paid to "a poor man" employed to go about church in summer to keep people awake.

At another English church, that of Acton, in Cheshire, it was the practice during the middle of the last century for one of the churchwardens to proceed through the church during service with a huge wand in his hand where with if any one of the congregation were observed to be asleep he was instantly awakened by a tap on the head.

In Warwickshire a similar custom prevailed. A warden bearing a stout wand shaped like a hay fork at the end stepped stealthily up and down the nave and the aisles, and whenever he saw an individual asleep he touched him so effectively that the nap was broken, this being sometimes accomplished by the application of the fork to the nape of the neck.

A more playful method obtained in another church. The warden went about during service carrying a long staff, to one end of which was attached a fox's brush and to the other a knob. With the former he gently tickled the faces of the women sleepers, while with the knob he bestowed a sharp rap on the heads of male offenders.—Exchange.

Many Persons are Glad that there is A Gate of Kisses in this City

There are gates and gates in Richmond but none is better known than the "Gate of the Kiss" at the Union Station. More kissing is done in front of the sign "Richmond" than all other places in the city put together. Travelers come and travelers go, and in fifty per cent of the cases a kiss precedes or follows.

Some of the kisses are sad, some heart-breaking, some perfunctory, some indifferent, some glad; some mere "pecks;" others are of the soul-clinging variety; some reverential; some deceitful and some are the first or last the recipients will ever get. This gate is the real "gate of the kiss," and it is well named by employees and attaches at the station.

Among other gates is the Gate of Tears. Do you know it? If not, you will some time—or a similar one. Its sentinel is Death—it is Death that swings this gate open and shut. And the traveler who enters here never returns to console those once so dear to him. It is the last gate that ever swings open to mortals and he who enters leaves care behind—the gate of Earlham, Lutheran, St. Mary's or St. Andrew's.

The forbidding padlocks and spear-topped pickets on the Gate of the Lost

Hope, holds out little comfort to the woman or man who is forced to seek entrance. As it swings open to receive he or her it seems to say to the entrant: "The law of compensation is paying you back in your own coin." As the hinges creak in closing and the lock snaps to place there is the end of hope, at least for a time—and the beginning of the jail term.

An Essay on Man.

The following composition on men is credited to a little girl:

"Men are what women marry. They drink and smoke and swear, but don't go to church. Perhaps if they were bunnies they would. They are more logical than women and also more zoological. Both men and women sprang from monkeys, but the women sprang further than the men."
