HIS STOMACH TROUBLES OVER.

Mr. Dyspeptic, would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Barker, of Battle Creek, Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion, and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over." Sold by all dealers.

Charity Concert.
Tickets are selling rapidly for the charity concert to be given on Sunday afternoon, January the 12th, at three o'clock in the Murray Theater. The object, the starting of a fund for a Wayne County Tuberculosis Hospital, is interesting, the public which is awakening to the necessity of such an institution. Madame Lawrence, former harp soloist with the Thomas orchestra, and J. Louis Shenk, the well known concert baritone, will give a program that will appeal to musicians and laymen alike and the affair promises to be a success from every point of view.

The Murray.
The current bill at the Murray has proved such an unprecedented success that the management has deemed it necessary to give two matinees upon Saturday of this week that the many school children of Richmond may have an opportunity to witness a performance of the celebrated Mother Goose Girls. This pretty playlet deals entirely with Nursery Rhymes and is one of the few vaudeville entertainments that appeals directly to the children. Upon Saturday afternoon the children will have full sway. Miss Irene Huyck who is deeply interested in children will offer extra features for their amusement upon Saturday afternoon. Miss Huyck, in "Nursery Rhymes" is "Little Boy Blue" and her efforts to make the hearts of all children glad is always a great success. Saturday afternoon at the Murray the children will be "King Of All They Survey."

Household Economy

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add $\frac{1}{2}$ pint of warm water and stir about 5 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put $\frac{1}{2}$ ounces of Pineal (50 cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy, ready made for \$2.50. It keeps perfectly.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold, usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect, and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pineal is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gallic acid, and all the salient pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pineal and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated but never equalled.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pineal, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pineal Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

QUININE? NO! PAPE'S BEST FOR BAD COLD.

First Dose of Pape's Cold Compound Ends Gripe Misery.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Gripe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this wonderful Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Gripe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or aid after effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—accept no substitute—contains no quinine. Belongs in every home. Taste nice—acts gently.

the world of which to break oneself, observed Primrose the other day.

Take the inveterate theatergoer for instance. He will go to the theater whether a show is good or bad, and nine times out of ten he doesn't care a rap about the performance—he has merely gotten the habit of going out between each act. He must get up and leave the auditorium whether he is thirsty or not. I made the remark to Mrs. Dockstader, seeing her at church the previous Sunday accompanied by her husband, "I see you have brought him to time at last."

"Yes, he went with me," she answered "though he much prefers fanning with the boys."

"But did you note how he disgraced me?"

"No! how?" I asked.

"Why, when the rector read the portion from the Acts of the Apostles insisted upon getting up and going out after every act."

The Murrett.

The much asked for and long looked for has arrived. It is a Kay-Bee feature and comes in the form of a two reel war drama dealing with the Civil War. It is perhaps the most thrilling war story that has ever been thrown upon the screen. Marvelous scenes of battle are shown in which two brothers are arrayed against each other. One brother believes the other dead, and marries his wife. The man returns and, unknown to them, extricates them from a dilemma and departs without revealing himself. Countless soldiers are seen in bitter struggle, bombs are seen bursting, men drop from galloping horses. The story is pathetic and acted in a touching manner. The thrilling situations are frequent and are strictly in keeping with the famous Broncho features. In conjunction with this extraordinary feature, a powerful drama entitled "The Girl And The Inventor" will be presented.

QUEER BURIAL SERVICE.

How Adaman Islanders Protect Their Dead From Evil Spirits.

Strange is the burial service among the Adaman Islanders. It is the custom of the islanders to drop the bodies of their parents into the sea at the end of ropes and leave them there until nothing remains but the bones, which they then gather and hang from the roofs of their huts.

It is a common custom for a relative to sit by the hour and watch the bones of some relative. This is the way they have of showing their love and respect.

The bodies are treated in this fashion so that the evil spirits cannot tease and pinch them. All that is left are the dried bones, and these are placed high so that if the evil spirits wander into the huts they will have a hard time to find them. If a bone is carried away it means some bad spirit has seized it, and this means that some terrible calamity will befall the family.

In the Katanga district of central Africa when a chief and his wife die there is great feasting and celebrating. Some of these festivals last three or four days. After the bodies are laid to rest with dancing and rejoicing because they are going to rule over a higher sphere their relatives and friends do not depart until they leave one or more chairs and a supply of clothes. This is done because the souls are expected to come out and wander about their graves.—Chicago Tribune.

Helping Father.

It was Sunday afternoon, and the curate, calling unexpectedly to visit a member of his flock, found him out in two senses.

The gentleman's young son came to the door and announced his father's absence. "He's gone to the golf club," said he casually, and then, reading perhaps some shade of disapproval in the person's eyes, he extenuated thus: "He's not gone to play golf, you know, not on a Sunday; only to drink beer and have a game of cards."

Having thus cleared his father's character, he shut the door on the dumfounded cleric.—London Answers.

White Robed Blacksmiths.

Extraordinary precautions are taken by the Korean blacksmith before he attempts to show any Korean horse which is noted for its bad temper and likely to flourish its heels if not securely tied up first. Slight of one of the small ponies trussed up to the heavy timber framework is ludicrous, however, and in a way may be termed "horseshoeing on the safety plan." White costumes would look out of place for a blacksmith's use almost anywhere else, but in Korea all men wear white garments.

Young men also wear their hair screwed up in hard knots on the top of their heads as a sign they are married.

LITTLE ATTENTION

Given the Pupils in the Seventh Grade.

That there is not enough attention paid to pupils of the seventh grade in the township grammar schools and the students when they reach the third year of high school become discouraged if they see that they cannot graduate with their class is the consensus of opinion of the township trustees who held their monthly meeting yesterday.

The meeting of the trustees was called in an effort to ascertain the reasons why so many students leave school after they have reached the seventh grades in grammar school and the third year in high school.

Another reason attributed to this is because when students reach the seventh grade they are beyond the age which compels them by law to attend the sessions.

There has been gradual increase in the per cent of students who attend high school from the grammar schools each year since 1907. This was very encouraging to the officials.

The reason for the negligence in the seventh grade the trustees decided was because the seventh and eighth grades are together in the township schools and eighth grade students are given more attention because the older class is being prepared for high school. Time which should be devoted to the education of the seventh grades is taken up by the class above that grade.

STAMPING A LETTER.

A Swindler's Way of Doing It Brought Him to Grief.

"Whether a man is a criminal or a law abiding citizen, he ought to take the pains to stick his postage stamps on exactly straight," an old detective said. "If he is straight he won't lose anything by it, and if he is crooked he will gain. When I was in the government service the first thing I found out about a man under suspicion was the way he stuck on his stamps. One of the cleverest swindlers I ever landed was tracked through his postage stamps.

"After you put a stamp on a certain way for a little while it becomes second nature, and you stick it on that way unconsciously. That was what that man did. All his stamps were stuck on diagonally, leaving a little triangle of a certain size at the corner of the envelope. He was a slippery fellow and had eluded vigilance for months.

"One day I happened to be loitering around a postoffice of a country town, where I had gone on another trail. The mail came in, and through the little window I watched the postmaster sort it. Presently I spotted an envelope with the stamp stuck on in that triangular fashion. I got the postmark, hiked back to that town and nabbed my man. If he had put his stamps on straight probably he never would have been caught"—New York Times.

Rousseau on Show.

Rousseau created a sensation when he visited England in 1766. "Rousseau and his Armenian dress," wrote Lord Charlemont, "were followed by crowds as long as this species of admiration lasted he was contented and happy. Garrick not only gave a supper in his honor, but played two characters specially to please him. Rousseau was highly gratified, but Mrs. Garrick declared that she had never seen a more unpleasant evening in her life, the philosopher being so anxious to display himself and hanging over the front of the box so much that she was obliged to hold him by the skirts of his coat to prevent him from falling over into the pit."

High School Notes

By Benton Barlow

It was found Wednesday morning in the Richmond High School chapel, cigarettes, much to the surprise of the faculty and speaker. The method employed to ascertain who were the cigarette smokers was to have every one close their eyes, and for all smokers to hold up their hands, but not a hand was seen.
