

DEMANDS CARE OF ALL GROCERS AND BUTCHERS IN CITY

Dr. King, County Health Officer, Says Goods Should Be Screened.

FIGHT DUST AND FLY

Orders Will Be Strictly Enforced During Months of July and August.

In making an inspection of the groceries and meat markets of the city, County Health Officer J. E. King is leaving notices that all berries, green groceries and meat be covered or screened to protect such products from dirt and flies. This order will be strictly enforced by Dr. King during the summer months as it is during July and August that typhoid fever germs are most dangerous.

Conditions Improving. A state wide crusade has been started by the state board of health against flies, dust and disease germs. Dr. King is engaged in making an inspection of all meat markets, and grocery stores in the county, although for the past several weeks he has been at work in Richmond exclusively. He has found that the conditions in this city and in the county are much improved since he made his last inspection.

The usual number of pamphlets is being issued by the state board of health against the house fly which is most detrimental to health during the summer. In these pamphlets, a warning against the house fly is issued and the public is instructed to safeguard its health by keeping flies from eatables and from the homes. The next step is the extermination of the fly as far as possible. This, the state board says, is most easily accomplished by destroying fly breeding places, such as decaying eatables, trash piles, dumps, and filth in which flies breed most easily.

At this time in the year, the typhoid fever germ is most active and the conditions for its development are better than at any other time. These germs may be carried to food or water from almost any source but the commonest carrier and spreader of typhoid fever germs is the house fly.

A List of Don'ts.

In connection with his work of inspecting the groceries and meat markets, Dr. King has issued a few "don'ts," some of which follow:

Don't buy berries from a dealer who keeps them exposed to the dust and not properly protected from the flies.

Don't buy ice cream cones from the street vendors who do not have them properly protected from dust and flies.

Don't buy meat and pastries that are left exposed on the counters without proper coverings.

Extra precautions should be taken by all vacationists who are going to some of the less frequently visited lakes and rivers as to the water used while on the fishing trips. Many times the fisherman or vacationist drink impure and unhealthful water while on such trips and later, when he returns home, he develops a bad case of typhoid fever or other kindred disease.

ALCOHOL CAUSE OF HEAT PROSTRATION

County Health Officer Says Liquor Affects the Heart.

Ninety-nine per cent of the heat prostrations are indirectly the result of the use of intoxicants, according to County Health Officer J. E. King. Alcohol affects the heart and the general system that the body is unable to withstand the heat," said Dr. King.

Errors in diet is another thing that causes prostrations, said Dr. King. No one should drink ice water and all other cold drinks with their meals, he says. Between meals lemonade, limeade and grape juice may be drunk without fear of consequence and are refreshing to the system. During meals ice drinks cool the stomach and prevent digestion.

FORMER STUDENTS RECALL FORMER DAYS AT EARLHAM

WAS FOOT BALL PLAYER.

One of the oldest men attending the Earlham Homecoming today was Timothy Wilson, age 82, who was a student in the institution while it was still the Friends' Boarding School in 1847. He and Morris M. White, a Cincinnati banker, attended during the first term, when the west wing of Earlham hall, and the foundation for the rest of the building were the only things marring the natural beauty of the campus. Mr. Wilson was the star football player of his school days.

"I was always a first choice," he said. Football in those days he went on to explain was different. The ball was an inflated pig skin which the boys kicked about with all the energy they possessed.

Two boys chose sides, the ball was placed in the center of the field, and they all rushed in. The result was a number of sore shins, but no one cared so long as none of the players violated any of the rules, there being very few.

HILL CARRIED NOTES.

Enos B Hill of Carthage whose school days were in '61-'62, says that he was a privileged character. He was allowed to have his desk in the girls' class room. He thus became a messenger for the older boys who were looking longingly upon the girls.

"I carried their notes for them, and in return they paid me with apples which the boys slipped into an orchard west of the campus and secured.

"When I couldn't be found they passed them through a hole in the wall, which had been cut with jack knives."

FURNISHED GIRLS APPLES.

W. J. Hatt, '58-'59, of this city, also had experiences in which apples and girls figured.

"We boys used to go to the orchard over west, there, and bring home a lot of apples. That was when the boys' rooms were on the upper floor and the girls' room just underneath.

were on the floor below and never knew anything about it."

Then pointing to the rock which was placed on the campus in '77, Mr. Hatt stated that he learned his first speech on that rock when it stood in the woods back of Earlham Hall.

"When I had to learn my first declamation, I went into the woods, and stood on the rock reciting it. I took my cousin along to tell me when to make gestures. But when I got up before the teachers I forgot all my gestures."

HEARD OF ASSASSINATION.

The most striking experience of all was that of Ruben B. Peele, '64-'67, who said, "I was sitting in the old south class room of Earlham Hall, when some one came in bringing the word that Lincoln had been killed. I shall never forget the feeling that came over me when they announced it. The next week when the funeral train passed through Richmond, we all went down to see it."

COMPLETED EDUCATION.

Mrs. Mary Posey Sands first came to Richmond in '48 when her father came to build Earlham Hall, but the money gave out, and they moved away, coming back again to complete it in '53-'54.

She and her sisters were in school at the same time, after being kept out for a year because they had no birthright. At that time only students were accepted whose parents were Quakers, and hers were not. Finally members of the school board granted the three sisters the privilege of attending. Mrs. Sands' sisters are Mrs. Frank M. Jones and Mrs. Jennie Hardy, both of Milton.

First Stay Overnight.

In the class of '49 was Rufus Davis of Knightstown, aged 86, who was the first student to stay overnight at the Earlham buildings.

How Notes Were Passed. Oliver Test, '48-'49, of this city, also confessed to a knowledge of the location of the split in the wall.

"The boys' recitation room was on the south side of the west wing of Earlham hall, and the girls' on the north. They were separated by a thin partition, covered with paper. "The boys and their knives did the rest, making a fine place to pass notes."

REV. HINSHAW MAY SECURE A PARDON

It is Said, However, That Neighbors Oppose His Release.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 24.—The state board of pardons will recommend a pardon for the Rev. William E. Hinshaw, alleged wife murderer, from the state prison at Michigan City, unless unexpected developments arise. Two of the three members of the board are said to be in favor of the pardon.

It is reported, however, that Governor Ralston will refuse to grant the pardon or even to parole Rev. Hinshaw. The minister was sent to prison nearly twenty years ago after a sensational trial. He was paroled seven years ago, but was sent back to prison by Governor Hanly because of trouble he had with the wife of an official of Wabash county.

Some of Rev. Hinshaw's former neighbors in Hendricks county, where the murder took place, are opposing the pardon.

RAILWAY TRAVEL IN SYRIA.

They Have a Free and Easy System on Some of the Roads.

They have a curious way of managing some railways in Syria. Weary of much riding, a party of travelers on their way to Beirut resolved one day to go by train. They arrived at a primitive station, but could find no station master.

Presently, however, one of the camp followers arrived, looked about and, spying a small red flag lying on the platform, made off with it along the line. When a train came in the man waved his flag, the engine driver pulled up, and the travelers got in.

Later, while the train was puffing on its way, the guard came along the footboard and issued the tickets, carefully noting down the names, nationality and occupations of the passengers. Two stations farther on they got out, and here there was not only a station-master, but a porter, and the latter stayed with them all day in an orchard till the camp arrived, meanwhile feeding them with honey from the comb.

Where else, one wonders, could such a charming railway system be found?—Wide World Magazine.

HOUSE ADVISED ON AN ECONOMY PLAN

Rep. Fitzgerald Urges Curtailing of Reckless Spending by Congress.

WANTS LIMIT FIXED

Advocates Increasing Appropriations Committee Membership to 50.

(National News Association)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Rep. Fitzgerald of New York, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, in the house today declared that two things would have to be done if government appropriations are to be kept within the normal limit: the secretary of the treasury should be compelled to revise the various estimates of government departments submitted to congress, and congress should be deprived of the power to augment any request for money or to originate legislation imposing obligations upon the treasury.

"Such is the rule in Great Britain and in Switzerland," said Fitzgerald, "where this system has been developed to its highest perfection."

Wants Bigger Committee. Fitzgerald advocated the creation of an enlarged committee on appropriations which should have control of the granting of all monies but should have no power to legislate.

According to Fitzgerald's view the tendency to tack legislation on appropriation bills is dangerous and has bad results. He urged that the appropriations committee be increased in membership to fifty and that its membership should include the chairmen of the committees on financial affairs, naval affairs, post offices and roads, foreign affairs and Indian affairs. Fitzgerald's suggestion is that the appropriations committee actually fix the amounts of money to be granted the various government bureaus but that other committees may retain the power to decide upon the scope of the needs of those departments.

BOTH THINK WOMEN SHOULD WEAR THEM

Let Gentle Sex Don Trousers to Avoid Handicap, Wise Doctors Say.

(National News Association)

CHICAGO, June 24.—Women's greatest handicap is pretty clothes. If a woman's clothes are pretty they may lead to her downfall. If they are not pretty they keep her back in the race with man in business and professional fields.

These things were related to the national convention of neurologists and alienists by Dr. Albert Stern, of Indianapolis, and Dr. H. R. C. Norris, of Enderlin, N. D. The two doctors agreed that the only thing to do was to clothe women in trousers.

"It is the woman who dolls herself up to attract attention who falls," said Dr. Norris. "Girls who are simply gowned seldom are tempted.

Dr. Stern said: "We should remove from our statute books the law forbidding women to wear male attire. Then when a woman grows tired of her sex, when she finds she has no chance for a husband and a home, let her cut her hair, don trousers and earn a living, competing with a man on an equal footing."

The Budding Financier. Probably the late J. P. Morgan's first attempt at finance took place in Boston. His school teacher gave him money to buy erasers. Young Morgan was gone a long time. When he returned he handed the teacher the erasers and some change.

"What's this for?" asked the teacher. "I gave you just enough to buy the erasers."

"Oh," returned young Morgan, "I went around town until I could find a place to buy at wholesale."—Detroit Free Press.

Perpetual Motion.

"What a lively baby," said Flaherty. "Have ye had his picture took yet, I dunno?"

"Not yet," said Fogarty, the proud father. "We tried to, but after an hour's lost labor the photographer referred us to a movin' picture studio."—Lippincott's.

California's Rider

MRS. E. P. MILLER.

The distinction of being the champion woman endurance rider of California is claimed by Mrs. E. P. Miller, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Miller and her motorcycle are familiar figures in the endurance tests which abound in California. And, to back up her claim she has a number of medals won in contests in which she competed on even terms with men.

In ordinary touring, Mrs. Miller rides easily great distances in California and surrounding country, having the advantage of the year-round riding season. She finds the exercise, incident to motorcycling, of great benefit, and the out-of-door air exhilarating. Health and pleasure are combined. Thus when an endurance contest is staged she is ready for the more strenuous test imposed on the riders.

A Quaint Description.

You get some swift conversations without intentional listening, says the London Chronicle. Two alert young women sat side by side in one of those cozy armchairs for two thoughtfully provided by the Tube Railway company. Mutual interests were discussed. "What do you think of that new girl in your office?" asked the one. "Oh," replied the other, "she's not bad, but—well, she's the sort of girl whose sister marries a policeman and then doesn't live with him."

OKLAHOMA MAN PROUD OF EARLHAM COLLEGE

That the fame of Earlham College, Richmond's highest institution of learning, is spreading from one coast to the other, is the emphatic statement of I. S. Hinshaw, graduate of Earlham in 1903. "I tell you that one hears Earlham on every side," declared Prof. Hinshaw. "In Oklahoma, Earlham stands among the first of colleges. I certainly am proud of my alma mater."
