

FRESH VEGETABLES ARRIVE ON MARKET

New Potatoes, Green Beans, Cucumbers, Onions and Radishes Obtainable.

THANKS TO WEATHER

Richmond markets are a riot of fresh vegetables. The unusual warm winter has enabled the southern gardeners and northern greenhouse vegetable producers to market their crops early, new potatoes, strawberries, green beans, cucumbers, celery onions and radishes can now be obtained from the grocers and commission men.

The first supply of new potatoes are quoted at 30 cents a small measure which to the average housewife would mean approximately 3 cents each. The marble like tubers have been shipped from the south in small quantities.

Strawberries High.

The quotations in the strawberry markets remain stationary, 45 to 50 cents a quart according to quality and conditions of shipment. Up to this time the shipments of strawberries have been of the highest order owing to the fact that the berries have been packed in ice and transported in refrigerator cars. The market for berries is steadily increasing.

Owing to the fact that the winter has been exceedingly cold, the strawberries have been able to gather the bark and place it upon the market. Already a few bundles of bark have been on the list of quotations at 10 cents. This is rather early for sassafras but the quality of the bark is equal to later gatherings.

Red radishes are also now being shipped in Richmond in large quantities. The market is steadily rising. The radishes bring 5 cents a bunch while the onions command a price of 3 for 10 cents.

The grape fruit supply is gradually increasing. At this time but few cases of the fruit can be obtained by the commission men. The orange market is steady. The California Navels are rapidly taking the place of the Florida fruits. The quality of the Navels is much better at this time than in previous shipments.

Apple Market Steady

Small shipments of all the usual spring vegetables are expected if the weather continues warm but if should a cold spell set in then the early spring markets would be delayed about three weeks or a month.

The apple market is remaining steady with quotations similar to those of last week. The shipments of the western and southwestern fruits are becoming more numerous and the western product is commanding higher quotations. The New York State supply is still keeping a pace with the demand.

BURLESON CHANGES COMPLICATE RATES

Post Office Officials Perplexed Over Parcel Post Rules.

"With all the changes, parcel post rates are becoming so complicated it will not be easy to figure them soon. Under the latest order of the postmaster general, you can send four pounds of third class or printed matter to Chicago for 32 cents. Add a few sheets of paper and make it five pounds, and it costs you only 14 cents."

This was the comment of Lawrence A. Handley, superintendent of mails at the Richmond post office, when asked about Postmaster General Burleson's order making third class matter over four pounds shipable by parcel post. Four pounds or under is sent at a cost of two ounces for one cent, while more than four pounds goes at the regular zone rate.

Since January 1, when the rates were lowered and weights increased, parcel post matter has increased in volume. The average weight of parcels has more than doubled since October. The average weight then was two pounds to the package, while last week's average was four and one-half pounds to the package. There is every probability that the average weight of parcels will increase still more in Richmond, as many number of merchants are adding mail order departments to their stores.

A change announced two months ago will be effective March 1 on books weighing more than eight ounces. Books will go at parcel post rates instead of third class matter.

The local office has not yet received a parcel weighing the maximum of fifty pounds. However, a short time ago, a forty-seven pound package was received. Several parcels of steel bars weighing twenty pounds, the maximum from that zone, were received from New York.

Republican voters chose their delegates to the district convention last night and named their precinct committeemen at meetings held in various parts of the city. Only one ward chairman was elected, that being in the Eighth, where Ben C. Hill was chosen.
