

WOMEN DESERTING CHURCHES, SAYS WRITER JOHNSON

Author of "Salamander" Sees Men as the Real Worshipers of Future; Females Agnostic.

Women are becoming agnostic. Girls are going too fast. Men will come closer to the church during the next generation, but women will drift away.

Women are going to throw all conventions to the wind. The revolt of the fair sex is going to be social, industrial and moral.

Church pews will be deserted by women in the next generation and worship left to men, according to Owen Johnson, nephew of Henry U. Johnson, an attorney of this city. Young Johnson is author of "The Salamander."

In a daring interview the author discussed the so-called feminist movement and made the striking declaration that women are becoming agnostic.

Men Long Out of Church. "Men have long since slipped out from under the influence of the church," he said. "Being naturally orderly human beings, acting with forethought, they have come to see that they could establish little religions of their own in their own minds. Since then, they have been questioning many of the things the previous generation accepted as religious truth."

The women are now assuming the same attitude. They are becoming agnostic. They have ceased to stand in awe and fear of the church. This is, of course, the type of the adventurous Salamander—girls like those who play the leading parts in my story. Women have been for centuries a benevolent little parasite. The new American girl is beginning to assert herself.

Girls Going Too Fast. "But the trouble is that they are going too fast. You can't run the rails across the subway until the rails are down. The women for the most part are not ready for this revolt against convention. If they succumb to the influence of the Salamanders there is going to be havoc."

"How are you going to stop them?" was asked. "The men are going to stop them, if they are stopped," replied the author. "We men are going to see that it will be necessary for us to get back under the mantle of religious faith. We are going to see the need of setting an example for our wives and daughters. I predict that the next generation will see the men closer to the church than they are now, and the women will be just as much farther away. They are going to throw all customs and conventions to the four winds. They are going to attempt to make their revolt complete. It will be social, industrial, moral in its scope. They will carry it into their fashions and their modes of dress."

CLUBS FEDERATION ENDORSES SUFFRAGE

Resolution for Right, After Hard Fight, Reaches Floor and Receives Votes.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The resolution providing for an endorsement of woman suffrage was adopted by the Twelfth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs today. The resolution was placed before the convention by the executive committee at the opening of today's session and after a brief debate the delegates voted to adopt it.

The resolution was drawn up by Mrs. J. A. Leach of Kentucky and was considered "a landmark in the suffrage resolution." It admitted in a guarded manner that the general proposition of suffrage is all right in its way, but does not bind the convention to it nor will any concerted action by the federation follow its passage. Many of the resolutions merely are an effort of the federation officers to compromise with the suffrage leaders in order to prevent any outbreak.

The resolution was drawn up late last night and shortly after 7 o'clock this morning was presented to the members of the resolution committee who put it into shape and reported it out ready for a vote on the convention floor.

"It is a most conservative resolution," declared Miss Helen Boswell, head of the political science committee. "Its passage means that the convention as a body approves of suffrage, but it does not mean that the General Federation of Women's Clubs is pledged to aid the work."

Many suffrage leaders expressed disappointment at the tone of the resolution. They had hoped to force the introduction of a resolution providing for unqualified endorsement.

CROP OUTLOOK GOOD

Indiana Farmers Garner Big Wheat Harvest.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 13.—Crop conditions in Indiana are the best this year, according to the opinion of local grain men who have been following the situation closely. With the beginning of the wheat harvest in the southwestern part of the state this week, the conclusion has been reached that the harvest will be one of the largest ever gathered in Indiana. H. E. Kinney, a local grain expert, predicts that the crop will exceed the government estimate of 40,000,000 bushels by fully ten per cent. The stand of corn throughout the state is said to be almost perfect. The hot weather of the last few weeks has materially aided the crop although it has damaged oats.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD LEAVES SICK MOTHER TO BECOME SON OF CALIFORNIA COUPLE

Little Walter McGee, five years old next month, the only child of Mrs. Minnie McGee, 1032 North H street, who is a helpless, bedridden victim of rheumatism, is a greatly excited youngster. He is to leave mother, perhaps, forever, and become the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Cook, who live at Glendale, Cal., near Los Angeles, and he is to make the long trip to his new home in far-off California, tagged like an express parcel, all by his lonesome. Railroad officials have agreed to deliver the child safe and sound to Mr. and Mrs. Cook.

It is a great surprise Mrs. McGee is to make, this separation from the curly haired youngster whom she fairly worships. "But," she said to Miss Florence Benner, city visiting nurse, "I have no future to offer Walter. I will never be any better, so my baby must go where he will be properly cared for and grow up to be a fine man."

Then she kisses his face with all the intensity of mother-love, and smiles very bravely.

Miss Benner to Help. "Mother," Walter asks, "who will help you when I go? Who will wash your face and bring you water?"

"Miss Benner, dear," replies Mrs. McGee. "She will continue to help mother."

"Will you, Miss Benner?" the youngster asks the nurse, turning to her for reassurance, "because if you won't I will stay with mother."

He is told again that mother will be well cared for in his absence, so very happy and contented, he prattles joyously of the long trip in the "choo choo" train, not knowing that his anticipated pleasures are real tragedies to the helpless woman who helps him in her bed listens to him, unable to take him in her arms and cuddle him.

Visit California. Last year Mrs. McGee and Walter went to Los Angeles in hope that her condition might improve. Instead her condition became worse so, with her son, she returned to Richmond. While in California, Mr. and Mrs. Cook became infatuated with mischievous little Walter and lately they have been writing Mrs. McGee to send the boy to them, promising him a good home until manhood. Mrs. McGee has finally decided to make a mother's supreme sacrifice and Walter, with his long ticket pinned in his pocket and a large tag tied to his coat is to go alone to his new home.

Mrs. McGee has no money to pay the child's fare to California, and she has not asked the Cooks to meet this expense, so Miss Benner has agreed to raise the necessary $35.55 by subscription. The Penny Club, one of two other organizations that help individuals have promised to contribute. Others who desire to do so can communicate with Miss Benner at the Commercial Club.

Members of the D. A. R. G. A. R. and a few citizens attended the presentation exercises in Glen Miller park at four o'clock, when the organization gave a large flag to the city.

Mrs. Clara Ingram Judson made the speech of presentation when the flag was unfurled on the Glen Miller flag-staff. As the breeze caught the new flag, Mayor Robbins made a short address, thanking the members of the D. A. R., in behalf of the citizens of Richmond.

Flag day was observed in Richmond today to some extent, although it is not until tomorrow. No general interest has been taken in the day in Richmond as in other holidays. A number of dwellings are usually decorated with flags and bunting.

The stars are the only distinctive feature of the American flag. The charming story which credits Betsy Ross with making the first flag of stars and stripes is still accepted by historians. When Washington suggested the six-pointed star, she demonstrated the ease with which a five-pointed star could be made by folding a piece of paper and producing one with a single clip of the scissors. Some writers are of the opinion that both stars and stripes in the flag were derived from the coat of arms of the Washington family, but this theory is not generally held.

Congress Action. The official adoption of our first flag was in 1777. On June 14 of that year the Continental Congress passed an act providing that "the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white on a blue field, representing a new constellation." The 13 stars were arranged in a circle to symbolize the perpetuity of the union of the States. Vermont was admitted to the Union in 1791 and Kentucky in 1792. It was felt that these two new States ought to be recognized on the flag, so in 1794 Congress passed an act making the flag 15 stars and 15 stripes.

This remained the flag of the United States throughout the War of 1812, until there were 20 States in the Union. In 1816, an effort was again made to modify the flag so that all the new States would be represented on it. To be continually adding stripes would make the flag very awkward in shape and appearance, so after arguing the matter for two years, Congress decided to return to the original 13 stripes and one star for each State. Congress has never determined the arrangement of the stars nor the shape and proportions of the flag, and there has been great variation, especially in the grouping of the stars. There are still many who believe that the symbolic circular grouping of stars should be restored.

Drop Union Jack. As the colonists gradually became converted to the idea that independence from the mother country was necessary, they began to modify the flag, first by leaving off the Union Jack and using only the 13 horizontal stripes. The modified flag was not always red and white, but regularly consisted of combinations of two colors selected from red, white, blue and yellow. The final modification was the replacement of the Union Jack by the white stars on a blue field.

POINCARÉ'S FATE HANGS IN BALANCE

PARIS, France, June 13.—In a desperate effort to save his political life, President Poincaré appealed today to René Viviani, former minister of instruction, to form a cabinet to succeed the ministry which resigned yesterday. Upon the success of Viviani, who is a Socialist, will probably depend the political fate of President Poincaré. If he is unable to form a new cabinet or if he does succeed in making up a ministry which is forced from office, President Poincaré will undoubtedly be forced to surrender to his political enemies.

The gravest political situation of the present century faces the government of France. In addition to the dissension over the three-year military law and other governmental policies, the national treasury is empty and the governments is not in a position to borrow more money.

CHEMICAL NO GOOD AS TRASH REDUCER

The receipt of a letter from G. B. Young, health commissioner of Chicago, has defeated the hopes of the board of public works that the reduction of garbage by a chemical process, the invention of a Chicago man, might to a great extent solve this vexatious question in Richmond.

Previous to the receipt of Mr. Young's letter the board members had read an article in an engineering magazine endorsing the new disposal plan. City Engineer Charles wrote a letter to its inventor, who replied that by his system three times the amount of garbage collected in Richmond could be disposed of and the by-product would have a commercial value.

Then came the letter from Dr. Young, stating that the chemical process had not been proved altogether satisfactory. He said it was not a simple process and that its economical result might prove disappointing. So the bothersome garbage disposal question still remains unsolved in the hands of the board of works members.

ATLANTA, Ill., June 13.—Mrs. J. H. Thompson died here today after falling forty days in an effort to gain relief from indigestion.

FIND BALLOON CREW Pilot and Aide Drop in Forest.

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 13.—Pilot John Perry of St. Louis, and his aide, G. Y. Morrison, of the balloon Million Population, one of the entrants in the Aero Club of America race which started from here Thursday, were found in a forest south of Oregon City today, according to advices received here. The balloon was struck by lightning while flying over the Cascade Mountains and Captain Perry was injured.

No trace of the balloon Springfield and Kansas City III has been found. The last of the homing pigeons sent out with the balloons when the race started, arrived here today badly bruised, but a message which had been tied to the bird had been lost.

PRESENT CITY FLAG

SELL 2,000 FLAGS FOR RELIEF WORK

W. R. C. Members Meet Success in Campaign to Raise Funds.

"Won't you buy a flag?" This was the plea of members of the W. R. C. who were conducting the sale of miniature flags at all strategic points in the city today.

Knowing the proceeds of the sale were to be used for relief work among members of the G. A. R. and others reached through the organization, men, women and children heeded the call. Dimes, nickels, quarters and half-dollars found their way into the little cash boxes to bring cheer to the men who long ago sacrificed their health for their country.

Before noon the committees had placed the little flags, which brought a thrill of patriotism, on more than two thousand persons, and were calling for more. Reports of the sale will be made to officers of the corps Monday.

BALTIMORE POLICE WATCH MILLIONAIRE

BALTIMORE, June 13.—David Meredith Reese, Jr., the wealthy man from whose house boat, the Florence, pretty Ella C. Winter sent to her mysterious death a week ago, is under police surveillance today in the fashionable Walbert apartments, where he lives.

Acting upon instructions from the state attorney the county sheriff and two detectives established a close surveillance today with the report that no trace of them could be found. Members of the searching party declared that no one could have survived the intense sulphur fumes. The crater is now more than a quarter of a mile long. The second terrific eruption in twenty-four hours began at 9 o'clock this morning and continued for three hours. Ashes fell as far away as Mineral, 17 miles from the scene.

PELKEY DEFEATED

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 13.—Arthur Pelkey, the Massachusetts heavyweight, who knocked out and killed Luther McCarthy at Calgary, Alberta, last summer, was defeated by Sam McVey, the negro heavyweight, here tonight. McVey had all the better of the battle and in the fourth round put Pelkey to sleep with a terrific knock-out blow.

STEVENSON BETTER

CHICAGO, June 13.—Adlai E. Stevenson, former vice president of the United States, was reported slightly improved today. He was able to partake of liquid nourishment for the first time in three days. Cooler weather was principally responsible for his rally, physicians declared.

SUE FOR REPAIRS

George Schultz, well known among the sporting blood of the city, failed to pay for repairs on his automobile, amounting to $325.21. Today the Pilot Motor Car company entered suit in circuit court to collect the bill. They say Schultz had his machine re-enameled and overhauled by them and that they cannot collect for their time and work.

Schultz was formerly an officer in the Reliance Foundry company.

Mediators Discuss Plan of Mexican Government

BY LAURENCE TODD, Staff Correspondent of International News Service.

MEDIATION HEADQUARTERS, Niagara Falls, Ont., June 13.—Having signed an agreement that President Huerta shall retire and be succeeded by a government that will be recognized by the United States, mediators today took up the second, delicate point in the negotiations: The form which this new government shall take and whether it shall be inducted into office by appointment at the hands of Gen. Huerta or by simultaneous proclamation by two warring factions of the republic.

This is the second half of the first plank in the mediator's original plan, should an understanding be reached before the night and the settlement is reduced to writing, there will be taken up tomorrow the third and all important point—what man shall be provisional president and who shall be the cabinet heads?

Welcome to Rebels. The mediators have made it plain that they will welcome the sending of delegates from the revolutionist party at any time under terms of an armistice. They believe that the appointment of representatives who shall merely talk privately with the American and Huerta delegates would also help in hastening the agreement. But they are convinced that the United States will give its consent here to no scheme which in the end will be rejected by Carranza.

The Mexican delegates have attempted to secure an agreement upon the date at which provisional government is to be created. They want it placed in power as soon as possible—perhaps within a very few days.

The Americans don't believe that an election can be held until the latter part of August and that the establishment of a provisional government is not essentially a matter for haste. Two weeks probably will be allowed from the date of the signing of a protocol.

The form of government may be either that of a provisional president, chosen here or a provisional president and four cabinet chiefs, all of whom shall be selected in the mediation conference and two of whom shall represent the Huertista party.

In the plank already adopted is included provision that the laws of Mexico shall remain unchanged during the term of office of the provisional president and all executive offices in the republic shall be filled anew at the election to be called this year.

BOY HYPNOTIZED TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

GARY Lad Imitates Bicycle Rider Until Police Arrest Man Exerting Spell.

GARY, Ind., June 13.—Arthur Tracy, 18 years old, who has been hypnotized by Prof. Griffiths and who for more than twenty-four hours lay on his back and moved his feet in imitation of a bicycle rider, was brought out from under the spell today after the professor had been arrested and threatened with violence by angry citizens.

Tracy was hypnotized Thursday night by Griffiths who gave the boy the illusion that he was riding a bicycle. The spectators were greatly amused and Griffiths refused to awaken him, finally transferring the boy with his feet still peddling to a public show window.

Members of the Woman's Club protested to the police and six officers carried the boy to the police station. Griffith refused to awaken him and it was necessary for two policemen to hold the boy's legs for eight hours. Mayor Johnson then personally arrested Griffith and only after threats of personal injury had been made against him did he consent to release the boy from his hypnotic state. Griffith will be charged with child cruelty.

Griffith recently hypnotized Baltimore Nelsens, the prize fighter, and made him dance and sing before a large crowd of spectators.

FARMERS TAKE TRIP TO STUDY ALFALFA

Thirty-five Make Third Tour With Agent Cobb and Beavers.

Scientific farming methods have taken deep root in Harrison township in the past two months since the farmers of the community have become interested in county agent work. Yesterday a successful alfalfa tour marked what is believed to be a new era in community life of the farmers.

Five automobiles, carrying twenty-five farmers led Jacksonburg yesterday and at the first stop the crowd was increased to thirty-five. J. C. Beavers of the state extension department, an alfalfa specialist, and County Agent Cobb made short talks.

At a night meeting attended by about sixty-five farmers Mr. Beaver again spoke and Mr. Cobb made an address on the difficulties to be overcome by a farmer in raising alfalfa in Wayne county. Mrs. Cobb spoke on taking advantage of the opportunities presented in the home for the study of home making or home economics.

A. A. Lindley, president of the organization said he believed that success is the only outlook for the club. He and other members will make up a year's program of instructive speeches and features of amusement. The farmers also expect to increase community spirit through their organization.
