

TALK COMPROMISE IN PAPAL ELECTION

Cardinals Take Two Ballots Without Reaching Choice to Succeed Pius X.

[BY LEASED WIRE.]

ROME, Sept. 2.—Two ballots have been taken for a successor to Pope Pius X, without any selection being made. On the first ballot the votes were scattered. On the second, Cardinal Peter Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, led with thirty votes, while Cardinal Ferrata, secretary of the College of the Holy Office, received eighteen, and the other nine went to various candidates.

As there were fifty-seven in the conclave, and as a two-thirds majority is necessary to elect, all the candidates fell short of the necessary thirty-eight.

On account of the rivalry between Cardinal Maffi and Cardinal Ferrata, it may be necessary to elect a compromise candidate, and if such is the case it is declared Cardinal Giacomo Falcondi, a naturalized American citizen, and former apostolic delegate to the United States, may be chosen.

Among the fugitives who came into Boulogne, was a French woman of good family. She had two babies in her arms. She was ready to drop from fatigue. Her clothing was torn and her face strained with tears.

"I tried to get to Paris," she said. "I felt I would be safe there. How long I have been trying I do not know, for time does not count in these dreadful days. They told me I might get through from Abbeville. I tried, but failed. I had no money and no food. Some soldiers taking pity upon us, gave us food. It was stale and coarse, but I never tasted anything so good."

WATER CARNIVAL BRINGS HIGH DIVER

The Rice & Dore company has gathered for its show a marvelous aggregation of aquatic performers. There is Joe Flory, the high diver, whom no height has ever frightened; there is Charles Sodenberg, champion diver of Sweden and more at home in the water than on land; there is Captain Harvey, who dives off the high ladder with his clothing completely enveloped in flames. Captain Harvey is one of the few men in the world fortunate enough to be sure of his job as long as he wants it. In fact, none of the high divers with the show have much competition nor find many men trying to scarf on their jobs.

Artistic Acrobats.

Then there is Charles Bishop, acrobatic trapeze performer, who does stunts in air and water, well backed up by several other divers, both men and women. The talent of the gentler sex is ably headed by Miss Inez Farnell, well entitled to the honor of being champion woman diver of the world. With her works Adelaide D. Young, who dives backward, Kitten Blanchard who does a high dive and a score or more other young women equally skilled.

GAS FLARES UP BURNING MRS. STRATE

When she waited too long to light the gas after opening the burner, Mrs. James Strate, 519 North Nineteenth street, was badly burned about the face today. Mrs. Strate turned on the gas but neglected to light the match until a quantity of the explosive had been admitted into the room. When she scratched the match a tongue of flame leaped into her face, burning the skin, eyebrows and hair. The burns are not serious.

Servian Foes Subdue These Austrian Guns

This howitzer type of field gun has proved its deadly effect in explosive shell throwing for the Austrians, but in reports of numerous captures by Servian and Russian troops lend doubts of its mobility. The French-trained gunners of Servia have silenced numerous such batteries also by more accurate fire and the guns have fallen into the hands of the enemy.

WIRE ELECTROCUTES VALPARAISO WORKER

Contact With Live Wire Sends Eleven Thousand Volts Through Man.

VALPARAISO, Sept. 2.—Harold Miller, 20, was electrocuted, and R. J. Cory, superintendent of the Valparaiso Lighting company, was terribly burned today when a wire which they were pulling over a crossarm came in contact with a high tension wire.

A number of men who went to their rescue, narrowly escaped death before the electric current could be put off at the power house in Michigan City.

Cory was believed dead when picked up, but a physician, through the aid of a reviving method, brought him to consciousness. He was badly burned, but it is believed he will recover.

Miller was the son of Prof. E. S. Miller, formerly of the city schools.

Eleven thousand volts of electricity passed through his body.

LAPORTE, Ind., Sept. 2.—The sixty day poll of Indiana just completed by the Democrats, Progressives and Republicans, shows more doubtful votes than at any previous time in the history of Indiana politics according to party leaders, who visited this city today.

Congressman Barnhart, Democrat, of this district, said in a letter from Washington, that it will probably be impossible for any of the Indiana delegation in Congress to leave Washington for campaign work. Every effort is now being made by State Chairman Korbly and National Command Taggart to bring President Wilson to Indiana for at least three speeches.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Atlantic fleet will remain off Vera Cruz and Tampico indefinitely. Decision to this effect was reached at a conference today between Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Rear-Admiral Frank Fletcher, Rear-Admiral Fletcher declared that it would be dangerous to America to move the fleet or offer to withdraw any part of her ships from Mexican waters. Secretary Daniels agreed with him and the order accordingly was issued.

Ten Thousand Parade the Streets During Cool Day Without Fatigue.

[BY LEASED WIRE.]

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—Not more than 20 of the 10,000 G. A. R. veterans who were in today's parade were forced to retire from the line until the march was completed. The weather was ideal, cool breezes blowing strong enough to counteract the threatening rain.

After the parade the veterans adjourned to their various headquarters to rest and spent the afternoon in reminiscences. Tonight a huge campfire meeting will take place at the Armory, when the battles of fifty years ago will be fought over again.

The business session will be resumed Thursday. The Boy Scouts were barred by Commander-in-Chief Gardner from taking part in the parade.

REFUGEES DESCRIBE GHASTLY SHAMBLES

Tell of Fire, Pillaging and Bloodshed Along Vast Line of Battle.

[BY LEASED WIRE.]

BOULONNE, Sept. 2.—A refugee from the front describes the scenes as follows:

"The sound of battle seemed never to die out. By day columns of smoke arose from battlefields and burned towns. By night the red glare of burning forests and of artillery bombardment shines against the sky. Amiens is almost empty of its civilian population. Soldiers guard the streets to prevent the town from being pillaged.

"The fighting between St. Quentin and La Fere opened Saturday morning. The Krupps of the German invaders, dragged forward by straining, weary horses, were turned against the battle formation of the allies, and immediately the might ordinance of the growing in reply.

"There was a lull on Saturday night, while the artillery men slept on the ground behind the batteries. Early Sunday morning the guns were again thundering. Soon the forest was a roaring conflagration, and the fugitives were again in flight.

YOUNG CRUMP SAFE WIRES U. S. CONSUL

A cablegram was received today through the state department from the consul at Calais, France, stating that Clifford C. Crump, of Greensboro, Ind., had arrived safely. No further particulars were given outside the fact that he was out of funds to return to the United States.

It was thought by his family that he had returned to South America on the Sierra Nevada, on which boat he had expected to sail. This boat is now in the port of Penambuco, Argentina. On what boat he sailed to France is not known. The family will send funds to the stranded young man through the treasurer of the United States, acting with the consul at Calais.
