

DENNIS LAUDS FARMERS CLUB IN MIDDLEBORO

Columbian Club Hears Lecture on "Bacteria and Disease" and Outlines Winter's Work.

"The Columbian Farmers' Association is one of the finest things I have ever seen in Wayne county. There ought to be such farmers' clubs all over the county," was the expression of Professor D. W. Dennis of Earlham college after delivering a lecture before the members of the club at the Columbian school house last night.

"Those people up there are just full of enthusiasm and are the most progressive farm people I have seen anywhere," said Professor Dennis.

Professor Dennis used the stereopticon lantern to illustrate his talk on "Bacteria and Disease" showing slides of bacterial life, and its effect both on human and animal life. Hog cholera was touched on by the speaker, and the causes of the disease brought out. Slides from the Panama canal district were shown to illustrate the sanitary precautions that are taken there to efface disease.

Give Musical.

A short musical program was given including several selections on the piano by Miss Pittman, and a solo by Ruth Nolte. At the close of the program a luncheon was served.

The Columbian Farmers' Association was organized one year ago, by former County agricultural agent, A. D. Cobb, and in that time has doubled its membership. Weekly meetings are held and talks given by members of the club on practical farm questions. Outside speakers are secured from time to time. The club has also organized a Ladies' Auxiliary which has taken up a special course of domestic science study.

Members of the club have purchased a piano for the joint use of the club and the school. A reading table and magazine exchange have been installed. Another feature is the bulletin board on which members advertise farm produce and livestock for sale.

This winter the club expects to hold a series of lectures given by speakers outside the club membership. Speakers from Purdue will be on the program from time to time.

SCANDAL REVIEWED IN COURT RECORDS

Another result of a scandal of three years ago, was produced in circuit court today when Mary Swain entered suit against Frank W. Swain for divorce. Evelyn LaFuse, then of 228 North Twenty-first street, was named co-respondent.

The Swains were married nineteen years up to the time of their separation in 1912. Mrs. Swain also declares that her husband was an habitual drunkard during much of this period.

E. M. Brewster, of Rockland, Me., has on his farm white blue berries. They are like the ordinary blueberry in every respect except the color.

This Dainty Actress Gets Back to Nature

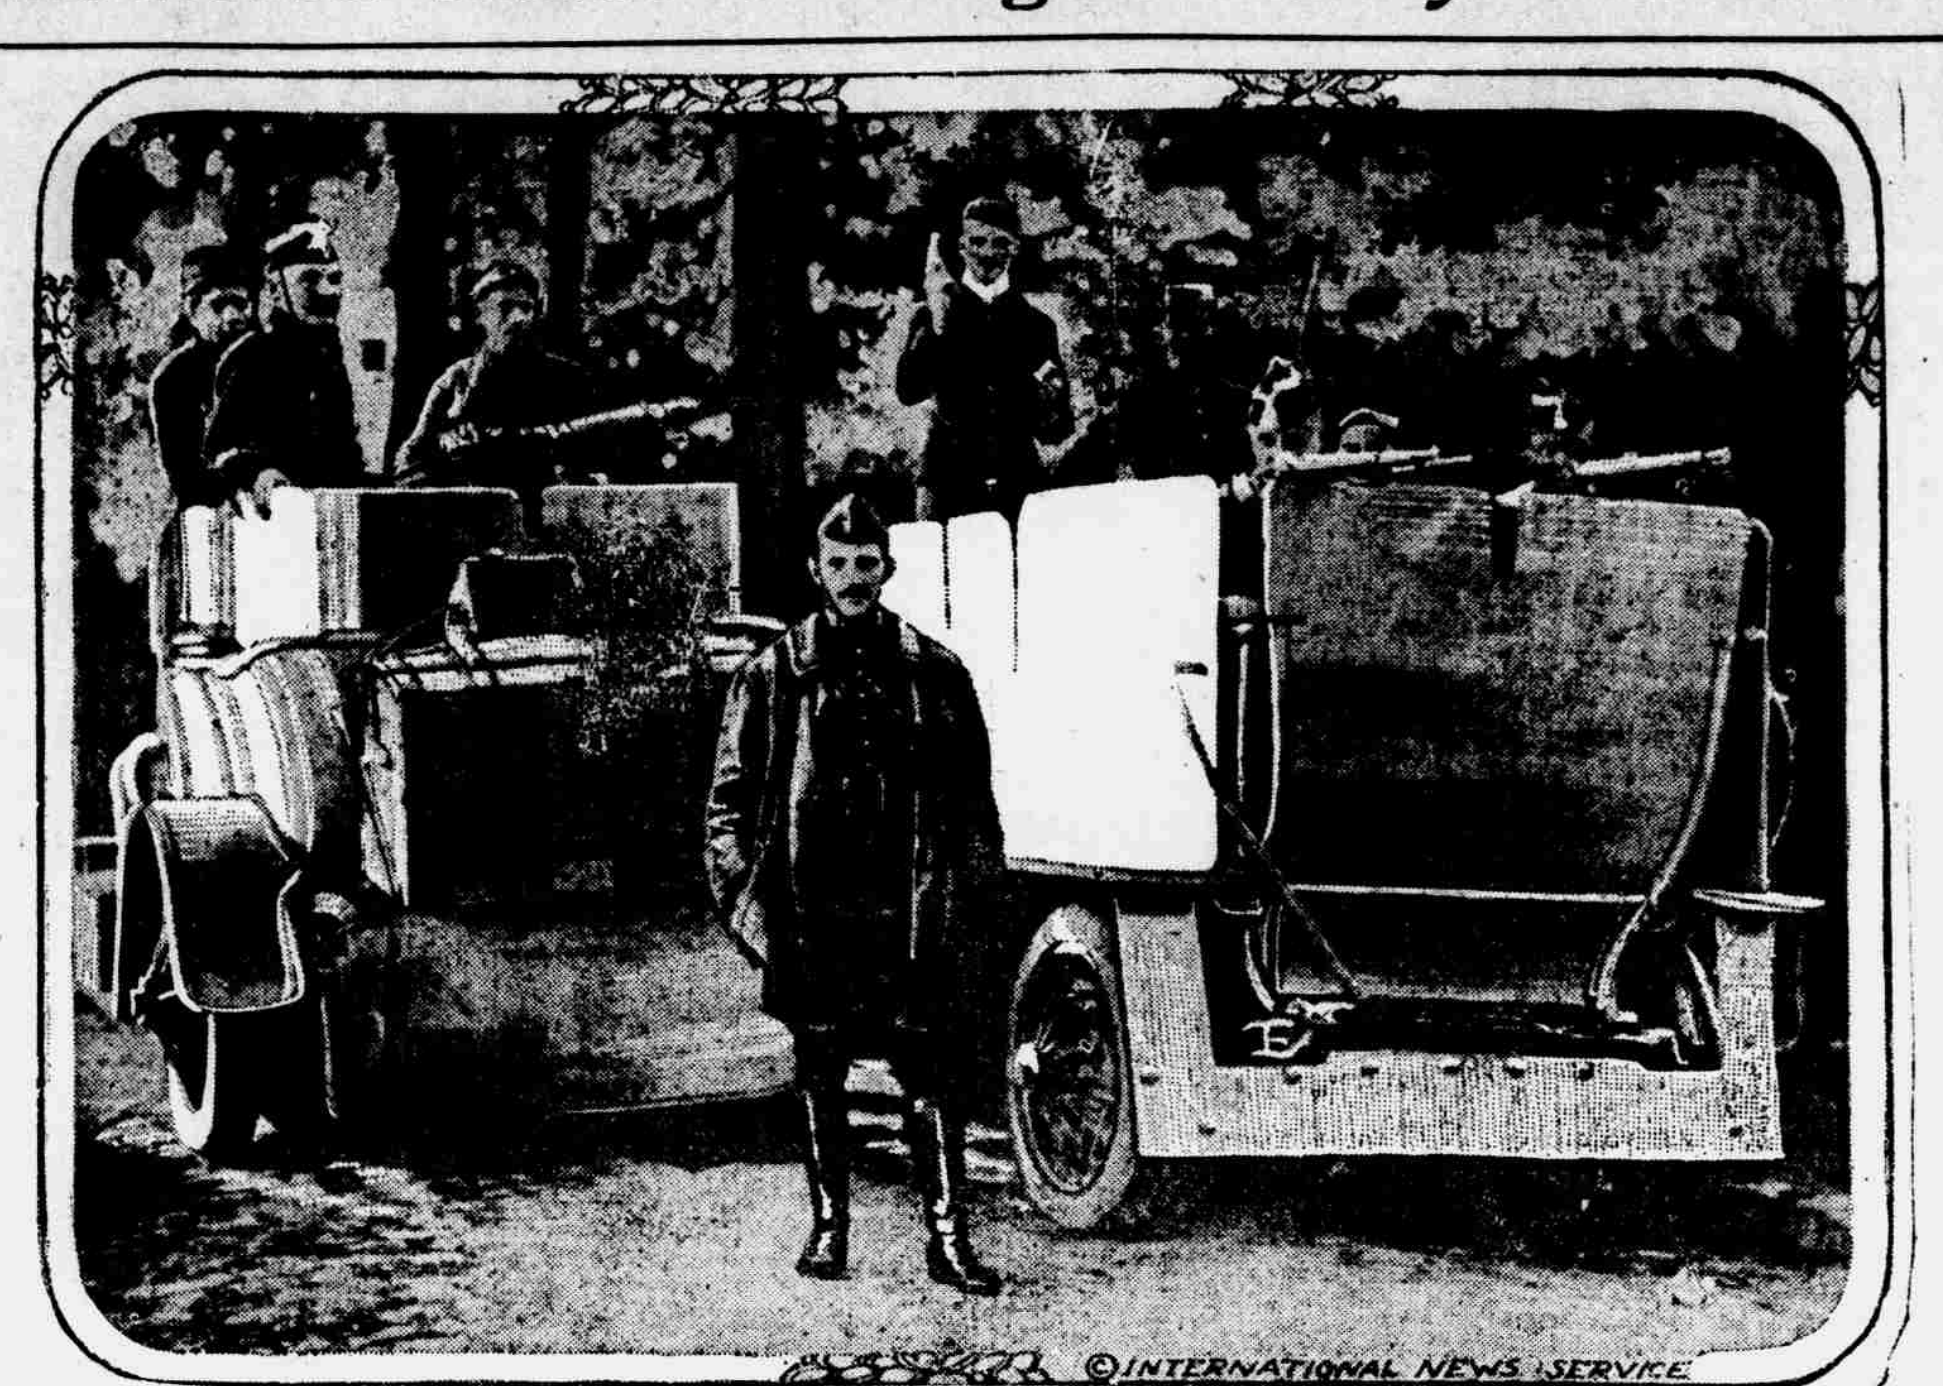

MARGARITA FISCHER, the Beauty-Mutual star.

Margarita Fischer, star of the Beauty-Mutual motion pictures, usually is seen in evening garb or fashionable morning or afternoon attire. She is so very pretty that her personality is associated with the delicate things of life rather than its rigors. But she has a habit of doing the unexpected and doing it so well that one suspects that, after all, it is just what one had expected.

Now her pretty pink arms are scratched and her ankles and toes are scarred because Harry Pollard, director of the Beauty-Mutual Company, has staged a one reel picture in which Miss Fischer appears as a child of the rocky waste. Under the name of "Neda," which gives the play its title, the charming little woman plays opposite Mr. Pollard, with Joseph Harris as an old man of the mountains.

When she returned to the calm and comparative ease of the Santa Barbara studios Miss Fischer vowed that whatever back to nature work she henceforward would do would be done in a Persian garden or on a terraced lawn or on one of those million dollar play toys that euphemistically are known as country estates. No more foot mountain work for her!

Civil War Veterans Meet at Cambridge

Nineteenth Indiana, Fourth Battery, Company D of 101 Infantry Held Thirty-fourth Annual Reunion and Review Past—Fifty Old Soldiers in Gathering.

CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., Oct. 10.—The thirty-fourth annual reunion of the Nineteenth Indiana and Fourth Indiana battery, and Company D of the One Hundred and First Indiana infantry was held Thursday at the home of Jefferson Graves. Fifty veterans of the Civil war were in attendance of whom eleven were members of the Nineteenth, four of Company D and one of the Fourth Indiana battery.

The town was decorated with the national colors, and there was a preceptible quickening of the step and brightening of the eye as the gray-haired veterans passed through the streets to the Graves home, where the house and grounds were beautifully decorated with flags, bunting and flowers.

Boy Scouts Serve.

A boy scout was stationed at the entrance of the grounds, to spy out the foe, but the friend, and welcome him as he entered the "camp." After greetings mess was served, not limited rations, but a bountiful supply of substantial food, served by the ladies of the W. R. C.

After the meal was over and some time passed in the stirring of the host called "Attention," while an interesting program was given and business transacted.

The W. R. C. gave its salute, followed by the reading of the minutes of the previous year by H. C. Wood of Knightsbridge in the absence of Lieutenant Rheinhammer of Winchester, acted as secretary.

Elect Officers.

Captain Sanford Fortner of Noblesville, was elected president for the coming year; J. C. Burton, Noblesville, vice president; Lieutenant Rhinehamer, secretary, and J. N. Conklin assistant secretary.

Mrs. Conklin gave an interesting sketch of the battery. Letters were read from comrades absent, and several speeches were made. Rev. W. M. Holoopeter gave a short talk on the significance of such an occasion, the many events which conspired toward its making, and paying tribute to the soldier who was and is such in the broadest sense.

Report was made of one death in battery the past year, that of Henry Taylor of Hagerstown.

Reference was made to the honor conferred upon Mr. Graves, when the president and congress voted him a pension medal for bravery shown in the Spanish-American war, when in the face of open fire he rescued a comrade, the medal conferred in the presence of the army.

As the shades of night appeared the "boys" took up the march, to meet again the first Thursday and Friday in October, 1915, at Noblesville, with the Seventy-fifth regiment and the One Hundred and First infantry.

Visits Home.

Fred Wright of DePauw will spend Sunday at home.

Captain Fortner of Noblesville attended the reunion Thursday, and also visited his cousin, Miss Emma Pitchard.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Callaway and daughter, Frances, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Callaway, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mosbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Doney spent Thursday evening in Richmond, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hall.

Has the Stuff In It.

"There is a reason why your medi-cine has the confidence of the people and is successful," remarked a prominent physician the other day.

"IT HAS THE STUFF IN IT."

No truer word could be uttered by any one regarding Dr. A. B. Simpson's Vegetable Compound, as it contains the best elements known to medical science for its purpose, and the proportion of each one has been the study of half a century.

To eliminate all poisonous and obstructive matter, to stimulate, invigorate and regulate the innermost organs of the human body, and purifying or relieving the blood of its deadly accumulation.

Such is its purpose, and in so doing covers a wide range of disease and disorders.

Contagious Blood Poison, (Syphilis), Scrofula, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions on Skin and all manifestations of impure blood, yield quickly to this treatment. Contains nothing harmful, and as a general regulator or that "all run down" rheumatic condition, has no equal.
