G. O. P. Progress

Strange as it may seem even to the man who only takes an ordinary interest in public affairs, there are some people living in Wayne county who believe that the legislature still elects United States senators.

Apparently certain Republican leaders in various parts of the state are satisfied that this false impression should exist. Mr. Beveridge has in his possession a copy of a Republican paper published in Evansville which solemnly declares that the legislature is still vested with this power. He is displaying it to large and interested crowds all over Indiana.

The Battle Is On

Wayne county is the battle ground of the congressional candidates this week and next. While Mr. Russell is urging his election on the sane, intelligent and popular principles of the Progressive party, P. J. Lynch, the Republican nominee, will be busily engaged advancing argu-

GERMANS WITHOUT BLAME FOR INVASION OF BELGIUM

BY H. METZDORFF.

Referring to the article of William D. Foulke in your paper of October 8, 1914, I beg to say a few words, as these lines indicate that German's invasion of Belgium is blamed by the whole world.

All the northern states of Europe don't blame Germany for this step—Denmark, Sweden, Norway. I did not read or hear that Spain, Italy, the Balkan states had anything to say in this question, less than to blame Germany. Russia, England, France expected the invasion and Belgium prepared for it. It was no surprise for the last four states that Germany in case of war with France would march through Belgium, hence the preparation to defy such step—the forts of Liege, Namur, Antwerp have been modernized with French and English money. The Belgian general, Brialmont declared long before the war, "that he is convinced that Germany will be forced to violate the neutrality of Belgium," so he did all he could but failed to get the necessary money. Only later with the help of the Prince of Wales, later King Edward, he succeeded and could modernize the fortresses. Maubeuge, at the frontier of Belgium and France, has been supplied with English ammunition in the year 1913, as the French ammunition don't fit for the English guns. This shows clearly that last year already England and France prepared for a war with Germany, waiting for an excuse.

According to German newspapers, the German government had proof that the Belgians agreed in case of war to let the French and English troops pass the Belgian border and that French officers were in Liege, before the war, helping to direct the defenses of these forts. Belgium was not defenceless but was prepared, hoping for the arrival of French troops.

Papers Here Howl.

The only nation, or rather the newspapers of that nation, who did make a howl of the violation of Belgium's neutrality was the United States of America, who wilfully or ignorantly printed just one side of the question, that is—against Germany. This surely don't show the much boasted "fair play of the United States."

Mr. W. D. Foulke did not say that Germany did sign a treaty of neutrality with Belgium but merely that Germany was present at the Hague tribunal, because he knows that Germany never signed such a treaty, but since that time the political conditions of Europe changed and we don't have Prussia but Germany, just as we have Indiana, which don't make treaties with foreign nations, but the United States of America; therefore in the sense of a treaty, Germany did not break the neutrality of Belgium and I doubt if that Germany would have done it, if she had such a signed treaty. When, therefore, the German chancellor in his speech says: "We violated the international law," etc., it simply means that Belgium was not yet in war and therefore a neutral land and to cross it, would mean a violation of her neutrality. But Germany did know that France was ready to break the neutrality of Belgium and had her permission to do so, because that French aviators and officers came through Belgium without being arrested by Belgium, thus breaking the neutrality herself. That was not an afterthought but considered before Germany marched her troops into Belgium. Before this was done, Germany asked permission to enter Belgium guaranteeing her integrity; Belgium declined and in declining she did know that this means war with her and she had to take the consequences of the war.

Offers to Arbitrate.

Even after Liege had been taken, Germany was willing to arbitrate with Belgium again and to make every concession possible and to remove the German troops as soon as the war with France would allow it; Belgium declined the second time August 13, therefore she has no right to complain if Germany treats her as an enemy.

But Mr. Foulke, why did you not give the full speech of the chancellor? I think whoever reads the whole, that part of yours you published would not sound so awful in connection with the other parts. But to prevent for later any misinterpretation of that speech when time comes for peace talk, I have to add from that speech: "We ments to the voters why a man who entered into an alliance with Jim Watson to defraud one of their honored and deserving fellow citizens of the nomination is of congressional calibre. And Mr. Gray, the Democratic selection, will find it strenuous work convincing Wayne county people that his demagogic procedure has been real statesmanship and that his advocacy of "pork barrel" measures, the casting out of the civil service and his use of the Congressional Record for campaign advertising stamp him as a man who can be depended upon to champion good government.

A Frank Confession

In a recent speech, John L. Rupe of Richmond called attention to the fact that there are now outstanding bonds to the extent of $32,000,000 for building three-mile roads in Indiana. These are being added to at the rate of several millions a year, and some of the bonds are being paid off. But the amount is constantly growing. It is a most expensive way to build roads and it seems that a better way could be devised. The interest charges on these bonds average $15,000 per year for each county in the state, and the payments on the principal, if the bonds are the ten-year kind, is an additional $35,000 so that the average cost per county for these roads is $50,000 per year. This is in addition to the regular road tax. —New Castle Times.

But, Mr. Chambers, this is one of the laws your party "points to" with so much "pride." Truly an indiscreet utterance for the Democratic district chairman to make.

Furthermore, the Progressive platform calls for the repeal of the three-mile road law and the establishing of a constructive state road system in the interests of true economy and efficiency.

Editor Palladium—The series of articles with reference to the European war and its causes, contributed by Mr. Foulke, and replies by Mr. Huff and Mr. Dunning are, unfortunately, not in keeping with the spirit of neutrality advocated by President Wilson. At this time when our pilot is steering the ship of state through a very rocky channel, we should do nothing to shift the ballast.

It is a true patriotism that prompts the Germans to uphold the cause, a lover's lane, the communion table of one of the grand old cathedrals or the village church.

Let us love those who love the fatherland, for it is from such as these that we learned to love our country. Let us do all in our power for peace and let history fix the blame. Let us have peace, even the peace that passeth understanding.

UPSET STOMACH

Everyone Knows WHEN He Has Sick Stomach, But Very Few Know WHY They Have It.

Next Time Your Stomach Is Out of Order Try USOLINE.

Sour Stomach, Belching, Bloating, Bad Breath, Heartburn, Indigestion and Dyspepsia are nearly always accompanied by an unsettled condition of the bowels—by constipation.

Then you take a "dose of pills" and give yourself a painful, violent purging. What's the consequence? You know from past experience that cathartic drugs simply aggravate the trouble, and that you have to keep on increasing the dose or changing to more powerful drugs.

There is no permanent relief, no cure. Now listen to the new method adopted by the greatest authorities on stomach and intestinal diseases—"Internal Lubrication" with USOLINE, the purest, most perfect mineral oil in the whole world. It's crystal white, has no odor and no taste.

You take a spoonful at night, it passes down the throat, through the stomach, and into the bowels, soothing and healing the passages as it goes.

There it softens the congested, accumulated mass of poisonous wastes, lubricates the bowels and causes the movements to become smooth, painless, regular and natural.

Then there is no more constipation, the whole process of eating, digestion, assimilation and elimination becomes healthy, and you feel like a new man, a new woman.

Nothing but a mineral oil, USOLINE, will answer the purpose. Olive Oil is nearly all absorbed before it can reach the lower bowel, and too much of it has a bad effect on the liver. A mineral oil—USOLINE—is not a food. It's only a healing lubricant, and all of it passes through to where it's needed most, in the lower bowel. There are imitations, but no other USOLINE.

Imported and re-refined by OIL PRODUCTS COMPANY, New York, and Trade-Mark is shown by druggists generally.

Also, and for a large bottle, ask for a box, $6.00. Ask or write for printed matter.
