

AUDIENCE DESERTS "KING OF KOKOMO" IN LOCAL THEATRE

King and Retinue Find Richmond Atmosphere Too Cool and Start for East—Eaton Next Stop.

The King of Kokomo," or rather the one who saddened many a heart last night by attempting to perpetuate the alleged comedy lines of the title part of the ill-fated musical show of that name at the Murray theatre, awoke this morning to find the world was a tragedy and a cold, stingy proposition.

With his contract for performances at the theatre tonight and tomorrow night canceled, and as shy of cash as the star boarder at the poor farm, he fled himself forth this morning and met his hired hands, principals and chorus, on the postoffice steps.

"I have the first good news for you since we started forth from Rushville three days ago," quoth the manager. "We are going to get something to eat. A lodger brother has staked all of us to a breakfast." With chattering teeth the crowd stamped for the nearest restaurant. There were quite a few girls in the aggregation, most of whom wore their hair in braids down their backs.

Audience Scores K. O.
"The King of Kokomo" gave its premier performance in this city last night, and the audience gave it a knock-out. Literally speaking, the crowd arose en masse and walked out right while the second comedian was singing what was supposed to be a seemingly funny song.

The manager asked a certain lodger secretary to slip him, under the good of the order, two ten-cent notes so the "King of Kokomo" could be inflicted upon an unsuspecting and neighboring public at Eaton, O., but the lodger secretary has a warm spot in his heart for Eaton and declined to produce. He compromised by offering to stake the entire troupe to breakfast this morning, and the offer was promptly accepted. The company is composed, for the most part, of Rushville young people. If they can get home again, they intend to work for a living.

WAYNE SENDS FOUR TO ROAD SESSIONS

Wayne county is placed on record with the state highway commission as being opposed to the operation of the three mile road law, as far as the county highway department represents the county.

Superintendent Jones returned today from Rushville where he took part in the heated discussion over the three mile road law. The discussion was less heated, Mr. Jones said, because almost all the participants were opposed to the law.

There were four Wayne county men at the meeting, Mr. Jones and three of his assistants, Edward Doran of Wayne township, Frank Clark of Center township, and Albert Wilson of Washington township.

The permanent chairman of Sixth district meetings is Maurice Douglass, representative from Shelby county, who is well known in Wayne county.

Mr. Jones said that resolutions were passed asking for the following changes in laws relative to highway maintenance and construction:

Repeal of the three mile road law.

Amendment of the auto tax law making the tax payable to the county and leaving all of the money in the county where it is paid instead of pro rating distributing throughout the state.

Passage of a law giving people right of a referendum vote on the abolishment of the highway commission.

WHITE'S BAD HABITS CAUSE BANISHMENT

Man Denies All Failings Except Use of Liquor and Morphine.

Emery White was banished from Richmond into blackest West Virginia. The police are tired, keeping track of him. Emery said he was a well meaning sort of a fellow and had only two bad habits, he drank whiskey and ate morphine. Outside of that he had no bad habits.

White was three times arrested for drunk, once serving a jail sentence. Yesterday he stole eight eggs from a grocer. He said he did not remember doing this as he had probably bitten into an overdose of morphine.

"Well, you get out of town or I'll send you down so long that it will cure you of the morphine appetite," said the mayor and Emery beat it.

Joshua Wilson, ex-Confederate soldier, arrested for vagrancy, was also permitted to leave town on his promise to continue on his way home to Tennessee. "Son," he said to Prosecutor Reller, "I'm seventy years old but I can still find my way about. Never was in trouble before until I started to beat my way from San Francisco to Tennessee. I've been arrested seven times on this trip. Seems like I can't drink whiskey anymore. If I take ten or twelve drinks it goes right to my head."

33 PERSONS SAVED WHEN SHIP STRIKES WEST COAST ROCKS

Fifty-six Persons Aboard Ill-Fated Vessel Going to Pacific Coast.

[BY LEASED WIRE.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—Thirty-three of the fifty-six persons aboard wrecked schooner Hanalei were saved from the vessel late today. After making a dozen unsuccessful attempts to shoot a line over the doomed ship, Captain Nelson of the Golden Gate life saving station, gave up the attempt at 3:30 this morning, and notified Captain Cary of the Hanalei, by wireless that the only chance that remained for his passengers and crew was to take to the water and try to reach shore. Captain Cary replied that all hands had been notified and were preparing to leave the ship.

More than a hundred men were waiting on the shore to assist in the rescue of those who are fortunate to reach land. The ship was only 900 feet out, but the space between it and shore was a chardron of swirling foam and sharp rocks. Two sailors who tried to swim it with a line during the night were drowned. Among the thirty-three passengers were many women and one baby.

The ship's back was broken, the superstructure washed away and she was rapidly breaking up. The Hanalei, an independent line steamer, was wrecked near Duxbury reef on the Bolinas shore yesterday afternoon in a dense fog in which she is thought to have lost her bearings. Five members of a life saving crew from Fort Point, whose boat capsized, and who were supposed to have been drowned, were reported early today to have been dragged aboard the Hanalei.

At 2:30 o'clock this morning, Captain Norman Nelson of the Golden Gate life saving station, reached the scene of the wreck with a life gun.

The difficulty of throwing a line across the ship was increased by the fact that it was rapidly going to pieces on the rocks.
