Hog Values Are Due to Reach High Level

Bearish Campaigns of Packers When Prices Reach $7, Have Been Successful for Some Time, But With the Return of Eastern Shipping Demand, Values Should Work Upward.

When hog prices reach $7 or thereabouts the packers become bearish and insist on sellers making concessions. Such a campaign has been successful for some time, but it looks like the market will get away from them shortly.

Curtailed outside demand, due to government restriction, has been a great help to the packers in their endeavor to hold values down below $7, but in the near future, undoubtedly early next week, the eastern buyers will be back in the trade.

Then prices are certain to advance while other western markets may suffer a setback, as shippers who usually prefer Chicago and are now buying elsewhere, will gradually place their orders there.

There may be a wider spread between prime light butchers and heavy packing stock, and country buyers should keep this fact in mind when operating at home.

Present prices are generally 40 cents under the high point of the year, but stand 35 cents above the low spot. Packers have been buying prime 225 to 275 pound offerings freely of late at $6.75@6.90, but in a few days sellers expect the bulk of this class to land above $7.

Chicago receipts the first three months showed nearly 361,000 increase compared with the same period last year, while at the six leading western markets, including Chicago, the combined increase for the corresponding time was over 1,166,000. To this was added nearly 400,000 more at other leading markets of the country.

Supply figures thus far this year favor the bearish side, but most traders claim that the big runs have been recorded, and with farmers busy from now on with spring work, offerings will be of much smaller volume.

Buyers argue that if the farmers did not have many hogs on hand the quality would not continue so good with corn selling at a high figure. However, the packers have been buying freely on all breaks and, as they have big stocks of provisions on hand, it seems as though higher prices will develop.

WHEAT CLOSES LOW; CORN FOLLOWS SUIT

CHICAGO, April 8.—Wheat closed with losses of 1 to 1 1/4c for May, 1/4c for July and unchanged to 1/4c lower for September. There were reactions and advances late in the session on short coverings, because of an over-supply condition. The seaboard reported 20,000 bushels of wheat taken there by exporters, but there were no sales reported of this grain at Chicago. Settlement on wheat was bearish; corn closed 1/4c to 1/2c lower, while oats were up 1/4c. Both of the coarse grains reacted from the low levels. Cash sales of corn were 130,000 bushels, and oats 200,000. Hog products were higher on small offerings and a good demand.
