Handley's Farewell

And now I'm going to leave you for a job in bankers' row. Where some people seem to figure that the milk and honey flow. But where people who are posted, say you work to beat the ball. And you never have a "look-in" at the famous promised land.

It is yet an open question as to where's the softest snap. And you can not find it startin' in your face from any map. But it's all a dream of roses, and we know it every one. Yet we're all the time a strivin' till the race of life is run.

And they tell me, those who've been there, that you look back with regret. To the friends and fellow-workers whom you're always lovin' yet; It's the land of over yonder where the other fellows stay. An' we always want to stop there, if it's only for a day. But no matter where I finish, folks, I don't mind tellin' you that I never will forget you till my span of life is thru.

al employees have ever held. The basement of the postoffice was used as the banquet hall. The tables were between banks of American flags and bunting. The attendance was almost unanimous, only three being absent. Decorations were prettily arranged. Special lights were installed. Growing plants in full bloom and bouquets of cut flowers covered the center of the tables.

Postmaster is Toastmaster.

The banquet was served by Walter Dennis. Each person was served with a half spring chicken, which was one of four courses. Punch and cigars completed the banquet.

Postmaster Beck acted as toastmaster.

Henry Deuker, the new superintendent of mails, Frank Wilson, and the retiring superintendent of mails, Mr. Handley.

A contrast was shown in the attendance at the banquet and the attendance at the first banquet attended by Mr. Handley and his successor, Mr. Wilson. Both started in the postal service at the same time. There were then fifteen employees, less than one-third of the present force. There were nine carriers, five clerks and the postmaster.

Writes "Spasm."

Mr. Handley was presented with a cut-glass water set as a farewell gift of the employees. He then dedicated to the "Federals" a short poem, which he said was the last "spasm" he wrote as a postoffice employee. The poem heads this article.

CAMPBELL TO LEAVE STATE REFORMATORY FOR DETECTIVE WORK

On his arrival in Richmond today from New York city with a man who had violated his parole from the Jeffersonville reformatory, two and a half years ago, Ray Campbell, parole agent and identification expert of the reformatory, and one of the foremost American criminologists, announced that he had tendered his resignation and would retire from the state's service as soon as possible to engage in the detective service business at Indianapolis with William Rafferty, another former employee of the reformatory.

Campbell, who has been a frequent visitor to Richmond and is well known here, is an authority on every phase of crime and the identification system he has established at the reformatory is regarded as model by all American penologists. He was the first man to establish the finger print identification method in the central west.

"The parole system," Mr. Campbell said today, "as operated in Indiana, has been, as a whole, a satisfactory success. Some men have been released who should have been confined but for every such case there have been ten other men paroled who have been completely reformed by such humane and intelligent treatment."

"Most of the young men we receive are not naturally bad, by that I mean they are not perverts or degenerates. They are the boys who have been the victims of bad companions and denied proper home surroundings."

Campbell is returning to Jeffersonville a man named William Bender, sent up from Allen county on a burglary charge and who violated his parole. He located him in New York, where he had been making a living selling cocaine.

PARIS NOW READING HEAVY LITERATURE

PARIS, June 16.—This city is reading much more than it did a year ago, especially the population is less numerous by several hundred thousand. Statistics of the municipal lending libraries show that the number of books taken out in the first four months of this year was over 13,000 more than the figure for the corresponding period of 1914.

The quality has changed, too. There is a slump in fiction. In the first six weeks of the war nobody bothered to read romance. After the battle of the Marne the demand for fiction increased, but still remained under the average. Science and history, especially military history, are now the favorites, while there is great call for books on Russia, England, Servia and Italy.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Benjamin F. Trueblood was elected president of the Alumni association of Earlham college yesterday afternoon at the annual meeting of the association. Alvin E. Wildman was elected vice president; Carrie L. Charles, secretary; Barbara Beckman, treasurer and Robert Study, trustee.

A motion was passed that an expression of the appreciation of the alumni association be extended to Elbert Russell for his work at the college.

The Old Students association met in the afternoon in the library with Allen D. Hole presiding. A new constitution was adopted. The matter of sending out news letters was discussed and it was decided to continue the plan. All persons ever enrolled at Earlham or the Friends' Boarding school, all persons officially connected with either institution or their husbands or wives, are members of the association. The association will hold its annual meeting during commencement week. The following officers were elected: President, Enoch Harvey; vice president, John Parker; secretary, Marion White Charles; treasurer, Benjamin Johnson.

RESENTS "HELL-CAT"

Alleging her husband, Mont White, called her "hell-cat" as a name, Lucy White entered suit in circuit court today for divorce. She declared she has been subjected to humiliation for several years because of unjust charges made against her by Mr. White. She says he deserted his family in April, 1914, and has failed to make provisions since. The Whites were married in Eaton in 1889. They have six children, four of whom are not of the class of 1904, was the first speaker.

Scarcity of Ships.

"War is an international nuisance. Nearly every neutral nation finds new domestic problems thrust upon it and old problems made more difficult. Business is deranged and expensive readjustments were made necessary while commerce with foreign nations is seriously interrupted. Fluctuations in prices abroad are reflected in the markets of the United States, a fall of one cent in the price of cotton means tens of millions of dollars to our producers and merchants. Freight rates and insurance premiums have been increased to cover the greater risks incident to war."

SELLS REAL ESTATE

The sale of real estate owned by the Richmond Brick company to Richard Sedgwick for $12,697.23, more than two-thirds of its appraised valuation, was reported today by the receiver of the company, Albert W. Gregg. The company was thrown into receivership by a suit for $13,000 filed by the First National bank. It is understood the increase in value of the real estate in the past twelve years will prevent very big losses by members of the company.

DR. DENNIS AND PROF. TRUEBLOOD HONORED BY ALUMNI OF EARLHAM

Graduates Heap Praise on Popular Instructors and Give Prof. Russell Rousing Ovation.

Fitting honor was paid Dr. D. W. Dennis and Prof. William N. Trueblood by the alumni of Earlham college last evening at the quincentenary banquet, which was attended by over two hundred members of the Alumni association. Both have taught at the Quaker college for more than thirty years, and both are members of the class of 1874.

The banquet was the concluding feature of alumni day at the college. Prof. Robert L. Sackett, formerly of the Earlham faculty, who for a number of years has been a member of the faculty of Purdue university, presided as toastmaster. In his introductory remarks he mentioned the great service done the college alumni by Dr. Dennis and Prof. Trueblood, and his remarks were elaborated by each of the seven speakers who followed.

Needs Alumni Backing.
The great importance of an active alumni to the progress of a college was the theme of Prof. Sackett's remarks. He said that a college that does not have the support of its alumni shows its weakness as a moral force. The alumni, on the other hand, should be an incentive to the present students, he said.

William Dudley Foulke responded to a toast on the subject, "And Kings." A novel method was used by the banquet committee in assigning subjects for the various speakers. Each speaker was given a few words from a poem. Mr. Foulke paid a high tribute to the two men who were the honor guests of the evening.

"Dr. Dennis holds a unique position in the scientific life of Indiana," said the speaker. "He is an authority on trees and birds, and because of his hundreds of lectures given in all parts of the state, this state owes him a great debt, which she can never pay."

Laud Prof. Russell.

A tribute was paid to the work of Prof. Elbert Russell as head of the Biblical department, who has resigned to accept a position with Johns Hopkins university. After remarks by Prof. Russell, and he addressed the members of the alumni, thanking them for the honor shown him.

PAY HEAVY PREMIUM FOR SCHOOL BONDS

The greatest demand for school bonds in Wayne county in a number of years was shown yesterday when ten bidders tried to purchase an issue made by the Wayne township advisory board. J. F. Wild and company of Indianapolis presented the successful bid, offering accrued interest to date of delivery and a premium of $212.35 over par. Seven of the bidders were Indianapolis banking and bond purchase companies. The issue is of par value of $12,870, four and one-half percent interest paid semi-annually and are non-taxable. The average life of the bonds is five and one-third years.

The bidders were Indiana Trust company, Miller and company, J. F. Wild and company, Breed, Elliott and Harrison, Meyer Kiser bank, E. M. Campbell's Sons and company, Fletcher American National bank, all of Indianapolis, and Second National bank, Dickenson Trust company and John L. Kempton of Richmond.

NAME MARTHA DOAN DEAN OF WOMEN OF QUAKER INSTITUTION

Earlham Trustees Postpone Naming Successor to Elbert Russell as Head of Biblical Department.

Miss Martha Doan, sister of Mrs. Alan D. Hole, has been appointed by the trustees to succeed Miss Elizabeth Conrad as dean of women at Earlham college. She will have charge of Earlham hall and in addition, she will have classes in chemistry. Miss Doan comes from Vassar college, where she has been an instructor in the chemistry department. She received her A. B. and A. M. degrees at Earlham in 1892. She taught in Purdue university before going to Vassar.

Another announcement was made by President Kelly to the effect that Miss Edna Johnson, of Richmond, who has been substituting in the place of Prof. John Rae, who had received a leave of absence for this year, will be given permanent position teaching ancient languages. Mr. H. E. Whiteside will also be connected with the classical department and will teach Greek next year. Prof. John Ree returns to the year's leave of absence which he spent at Yale university.

Name No Successor.

The successor to Prof. Elbert Russell, who leaves for Johns Hopkins university, was not appointed by the board at its meeting yesterday. His successor will be appointed some time this summer at a special meeting of the board.

Prof. Markle who has been spending a year at Chicago university where he will receive his doctor's degree this year, will resume his duties in the science department next fall. He will be in charge of the botany department and Dr. Binford will be at the head of the zoological department. Dr. D. W. Dennis will confine his work to lectures and extension courses.

No successor was appointed to the position held by Miss Gladys Bassett, as head of the girls' athletics. It is probable that her successor will also be appointed by the board this summer.

CALL FOR 300,000 MEN NO SURPRISE TO BRITISH PEOPLE

LONDON, June 16.—Lord Kitchener's latest call for 300,000 more men did not surprise those who have been watching the latest developments in recruiting. The number may look comparatively small after the government vote of a 3,000,000 army, but the men are wanted at once to form new divisions over and above the weekly inflow of 20,000 or 30,000 recruits. It is now being said in authoritative circles that if the 300,000 do not come forward of their own accord they will be drafted.

Up to now the best of Britain's young manhood has pressed forward with alacrity, too often to be treated with official neglect and left to the tender mercies of mercenary contractors, who have worked the canteen at full profit while supplying the minimum of food.

These defects in organization have become known, and they account in no small degree for the problem of the youth who is labeled "shirkers."

There are 176 packs of foxhounds in England and Wales.

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

(Toilet Helps.)
You can keep your skin free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone and in using it you need have no fear of marring or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. Then spread on the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone.—Adv.
