Premiums for Speed

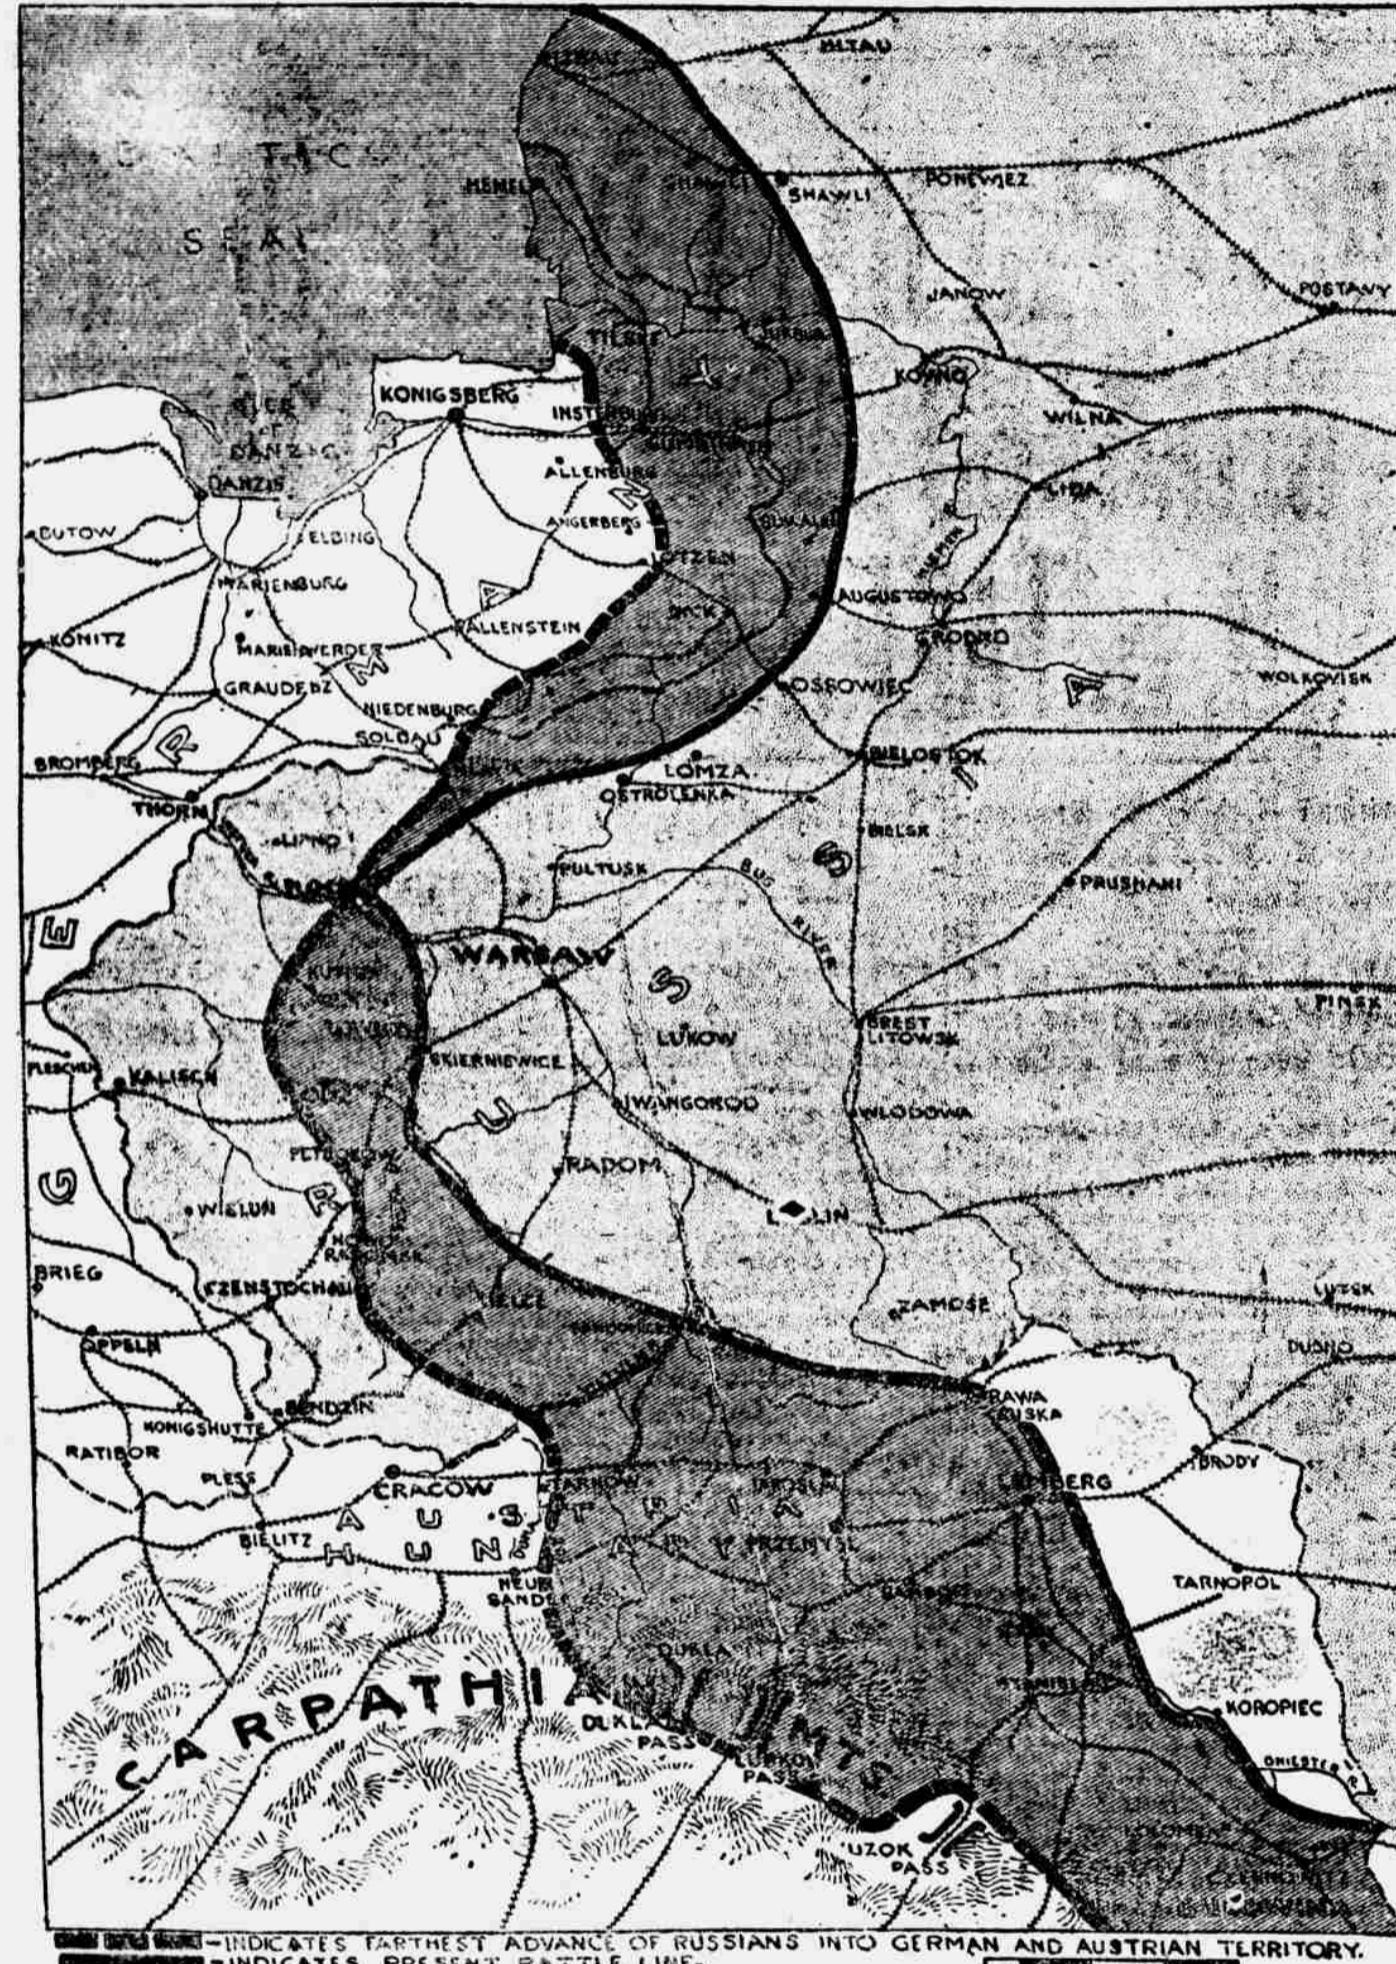

There are all kinds of racing going, and prizes are offered for the man who can go the fastest in auto, motorcycle, boat, horse, aeroplane and every device for going from one place to another. Men and women seem to have gone crazy on speed; and yet, one of the wisest admonitions of the time is "go slow." That is the only safe and considerate way. A man has a great deal better time if he doesn't hurry. He protects his nerves and lives longer. A fast life is a constant waste. Whoever goes a mile a minute won't gain anything on the man who goes a mile in ten minutes.

We know a man in this state, a man learned in science, who won't ride at all, if he can help it. Of course, if he is traveling a distance he takes a conveyance, but if he is moving about the locality, he walks. Thus he saves time, keeps his health, and sees things along the way. An automobile traveler never sees anything and is always on the strain. Therefore, we can see no sense in these contests, which offer prizes for the highest speed. There is no good reason for such contests. The public welfare is not interested in men going so fast. A man never gets a prize unless he violates the speed law, if he was on the common road. The slow mule race has more charm and good in it than the fast auto or cycle race.

Go slow, is good advice to this age. It is going too fast. That is the real trouble about it. Speed is a disease, like a fever, and it needs to be stopped if the patient is to get well. Notice on the streets the men who run their machines at the utmost speed. They are wild. There is no one in the asylum crazier than they.—Ohio State Journal.

In the map below this new "battle line, approximately 900 miles long, the longest in the history of warfare, is applied to the United States, reaching from Chicago to St. Louis, thence to Atlanta.

John Goins, blacksmith, 1326 North Street, Richmond, says: "The action of my kidneys was irregular. When I stooped I had sharp twinges in the small of my back. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills, I began using them and the trouble soon disappeared. Many people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Goins had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores.
