

PLACES MACHINERY TO ERECT BRIDGE

Machinery will be placed on the grounds to start work on the temporary Main street bridge by the first of the week, said I. E. Smith, contractor, who secured the contract.

Several days will be required to put the machinery in place.

An extra number of men will be employed to carry the work along so that the bridge will be completed by November 24. As soon as the work is far enough advanced the traction company will begin tearing up the roadbed on the National road between West First and Second street and getting the approaches to the bridge in proper condition. The steepest grade on Main street between First and Fourth streets, is 5 per cent.

The east approach to the bridge will be the most bothersome when the work is started on a new Main street bridge. If the commissioners decide to build a new bridge on the level, the use of the temporary bridge will have to be dispensed with on account of the narrow approach.

One ship in the British fleet in the North sea is required to be always in touch with the admiralty.

CAPTAIN ASSISTS COACH AT I. U.

Making his captain an assistant coach, is one of the many methods in football coaching introduced by Coach Childs at Indiana University, that has attracted the notice of football critics all over the country. He never permits his captain to dress with the other men before entering the field, but always with him in the coach's private quarters. On the field, his captain very seldom takes part in the practice but has charge of one of the squads and instructs them in the methods previously outlined by Childs. Childs seldom attempts a play without first consulting his captain.

YOUTHFUL PRODIGES.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 7.—Fifteen-year-old James Mulford, of Aurora, entered Indiana university this fall, probably being the youngest student who ever entered here. A sophomore before he is sixteen. In the record Mulford is working for. Coolidge of Union City, is another prodigy who will be sixteen in December, and who completed the elementary high school work in five years.
