

Dead Bookkeeper Was Poor

SMALL BANK ACCOUNTS KEPT BY MISS BENTLAGE HELP REMOVE SUSPICION

Representatives from all banking houses in the city testified in the Hasemeyer-Bentlage trial Thursday afternoon regarding accounts kept by Miss Louise Bentlage in their respective banks. Testimony was produced from the defendant's witness to prove that she had no bank account which would throw suspicion on her appropriating any large amount of money from the Boston store of which she has been accused by the H. C. Hasemeyer company in the suit against her estate.

Jesse Brooks, secretary of the People's Building and Loan association, said that the only account she ever had with that association was the year before she died. In April, 1912, he said she made a loan of $1,000, on which she made payments of $10 a week until her death. He said that $10 a week was the regular payment on this amount of loan and that at the time of her death there remained $560 unpaid. This has been paid from out of the estate since she died.

Kept Small Account.
The only savings account which has been testified to was with the Richmond Building and Loan association. In that association, W. F. Piehl, secretary, testified that Miss Bentlage kept up a weekly deposit of $5. At no time, however, did her account exceed $65 as she would allow the money to accumulate for a few weeks and then withdraw the entire amount. Her account with the bank extended over the period from February 28, 1906 to March 27, 1912.

Miss Elizabeth Krueger, bookkeeper at the Dickinson Trust company testified that Miss Bentlage at one time had a small account in the savings department which was closed on April 1, 1913 with $38.65 balance. Ernest Calvert, bookkeeper at the First National bank and Ray Wilkins of the Second National bank, testified that no accounts had been opened in either institution by Miss Bentlage at any time during her life. Al Onborn, of the Building and Loan association gave similar testimony.

Bowman Testifies.
L. S. Bowman, county auditor, was called to the stand to testify relative to the assessments of the property of both the H. C. Hasemeyer company and Miss Louise Bentlage. The assessment sheets from 1904 to 1914 were read in the records by Ray K. Shively.

The assessment of the personal property of the dry goods store has ranged from $15,000 to $12,000, exclusive of the capital stock. This evidence will be used by the defense to prove that the stockholders themselves did not value their stock at the figures quoted in the original testimony, which stated that the property was valued at approximately $50,000.

Henry C. Burns, a real estate dealer, was placed on the stand to testify regarding the appraisal of the property owned by Miss Bentlage. He said that the property at 500 South Twelfth street was worth at least $2,000. There were several mortgages on the property, according to testimony of Richard Brady, administrator of the estate of the late Thomas J. Brady, who held the mortgage.

In addition to the mortgage on the property, a note of $200 was issued to Miss Bentlage on September 28, 1907; another note for $1,200 on May 31, 1907. The note of $600 against the estate, issued on October 30, 1906, was paid by Henry Bentlage, administrator.

In 1907 forty feet off the west end of the lot on South Twelfth street was transferred to Taylor and Rose Reynolds for the consideration of $2,400 for which notes were issued.

WATCHES TEACHERS INSTRUCT YOUTH

DAVID SPENCE HILL

David Spence Hill, B. A. Ph. D., fellow A. A. A. S., noted psychologist, monographist and a few other things, is "going to school" again, sitting side by side with Tommy Jones and Willie Smith in the lowest grades in the New Orleans public schools and spelling "cat" and "dog" like the rest of the little fellows just embarking upon the sea of education.

Of course, Mr. Hill's purpose in going into the lower grades as a student is not primarily to learn how to spell "cat" and "dog" and "rat," but he is seeking to learn just how the 1,800 New Orleans teachers instill knowledge into the youngsters in their care.

The "SURTOUT"

It is a tribute to their judgment and to our clothing-making that more Kirschbaum overcoats are worn by American men than any other make. You will find them in a range of styles and fabrics to fit all physical dimensions and requirements at prices easy to pay—$15, $20, $25 and up.

Stern circumstances have slit the throat of many a good intention and thus with a diminished wool supply, other materials than pure wool are creeping in where ordinarily you would not expect them. A good time to insist upon the Kirschbaum label, for no fabric gets to our cutting tables save through our rigid all-wool acid test.

Indigestion May Be Due to Constipation

Neglect of Important Function May Seriously Impair the Health.

There are many people who believe they suffer from indigestion when their discomfort really is due to a constipated condition. Bloat, with its attendant mental depression, sick headache, the belching of sour stomach gases, etc., are frequently due to inaction of the bowels. Relieve the congestion and the trouble usually disappears. The use of cathartics and purgatives should be avoided, however; these shock the system unnecessarily and, at best, their effect is but temporary. A mild laxative is far preferable.

The compound of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle, is highly recommended. Mr. Benj. Bassin, 360 Madison St., Gary, Ind., thinks Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a wonderful medicine. For four years he had a severe case of indigestion and constipation before trying Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which he is glad to recommend to all who suffer with stomach and bowel trouble.

BENJ. BASSIN.

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home for use when occasion arises. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.
