More Worries For Gray.

Troubles are piling up fast for Congressman Gray. Not so long ago he was unalterably opposed to increased appropriations for the army and navy. But public opinion in the Sixth district forced a reversal of judgment on that point, and now he is upholding President Wilson's policy of preparedness.

Then came the motorization of the rural routes in Wayne county, and the consequent ousting of all Republican carriers to give place to Democrats—a step that aroused protest throughout the county. The execution of the order has been delayed several times, the last word being that it would not go into effect until after the Christmas rush. Gray has been blamed for the motorization order.

Then came a poll by a Chicago newspaper in which every senator and representative was asked point blank if he favored Wilson's attitude toward Germany and toward the Allies in the recent diplomatic tangles. Gray refused to commit himself and his vote was so recorded.

Then a voters' league investigated how congressmen voted on gag rules in the House, and showed where Gray stood.

Now come Mrs. N. C. Barnard, chairman of the Sixth District Woman's Franchise League, with the announcement that she will camp on Gray's trail until he supports the bill giving woman the right to vote by an amendment to the federal constitution.

Verily, the path of a congressman is beset with thorns and strewn with glass and tacks.

Anonymous Communication.

Every newspaper receives scores of unsigned letters pertaining to questions of public concern. Invariably they go into the waste basket, not because their contents displeased the editor, or because the writer of the anonymous letter was bold enough to differ with the editor, but because the writer failed to sign his name to the communication.

Every letter addressed to the editor of a paper will be printed if the writer signs his name, and the communication is not scurrilous or filled with libelous matter. Unsigned letters, communications having an Y. X. Z. or other letters or signs, or letters with fictitious names, come under the ban. If the writer of a communication does not want his name used in connection with his article, all he need do is request the editor not to use it, and the editor will print the letter and withhold the name of its author.

We can see no reason why a person ought be afraid or ashamed of his honest opinions, and for this reason requests the withholding of his identity. Every one is entitled to his opinion and there is no disgrace in writing an article and signing your name to it. Honest citizens do not despise a man who differs with them on matters of politics, religion, civic welfare, and other problems. They respect his opinions and are glad to read them in print.

The moral is—If you have an opinion on a matter before the public, write it, and SIGN YOUR NAME.

Chicago's Woodpile.

Chicago is the biggest clearing point in the United States. Thousands of passengers and hundreds of thousands of tons of freight change cars or are re-routed here annually. Besides its enviable position as a transportation center, it also has the distinction of being the "port for missing men." When work in the harvest fields of the west and north, construction work on railroads and public works ceases, thousands of men drift back to this city. Many of them soon become objects of charity. Hitherto the care for these unfortunates has been a gigantic problem. Kind hearted men offered cheap lodging houses and food at cheap prices, or for nothing, the result being that many of the men ceased being independent citizens and became dependent paupers. To keep alive in these drifters the spark of manhood that shines in a free born man, Chicago now has a municipal woodpile. Every applicant for aid is forced to work for two hours on the woodpile; then he gets a ticket for two meals and a night's lodging. Perhaps, many of the inveterate "Weary Willies" will shun Chicago for other cities. If they do, the installation of more municipal woodpiles is in order.

EARLY CITY HISTORY

Contributions on the pioneer days of Richmond will appear in this column daily.

AN EARLY BREWERY.

A German named Christian Buhl came to Richmond in 1830 and erected the building on the corner of Main and First streets, which is now occupied by the Minck brewery. This building was fully equipped for manufacturing beer. It has a very large cellar and tanks for brewing the beer. Formerly there was a saleroom on Main street, and a dwelling room above.

When they skinned the froth off the top of the beer, the yeast was sold to housekeepers for starting the loaf of home-made yeast. I remember being sent once when I was a little girl with a small tin bucket and a large copper cent to secure some of this yeast.

Mr. Buhl was twice married. He had several sons and two daughters. Some years before his death he removed to a farm west of the city.

At the time the brewery was opened a number of German families had settled in Richmond and the vicinity. These families used the home-made beer and the workmen engaged in constructing the Cumberland Road, and in building the bridge over Whitewater, were constant customers. Many of the movers passing on the road stopped to secure a few bottles of the cool beverage.

A neighbor woman said that she heard a driver on a mover's wagon call to a man sitting in front of the brewery with his chair tilted back against the wall and a pipe in his mouth, "Hello Tom, what do you think of this western country?" Without changing his position, Tom shouted in reply, "It's Heaven for men and dogs, but Hell for women and horses."

A rough but definite answer, one suited to the time and place.

MRS. S. A. WRIGLEY.

GETS QUICK JUDGMENT.

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 22.—A record for quick justice was made in the circuit court here when Herman Campbell filed suit for $1,000 against the Props-Brocker Motor company, and an hour later was awarded a verdict for $500 by Special Judge Harry Orr. Campbell alleged he had been knocked from his bicycle and injured by an automobile owned by the company.

PLAN POULTRY SHOW

Poultry fanciers in Richmond are planning for a show to be held some time after the first of the year. Meetings will be held in the near future to perfect details of the organization. Last year the movement received a severe setback, but with careful management it is believed that interest is sufficient to insure a successful exhibit. The show here two years ago attracted exhibitors from all sections of eastern Indiana and western Ohio.

BURGULAR LEAVES CARD.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Nov. 22.—Either a burglar who recently robbed the home of Nicholas Hare has a conscience, else he is a practical joker. When some one entered the Hare home he stole a watch and chain. As a reminder that he was "tuff" the burglar also left a cigarette stub. But when the watch and chain were found on the dresser beside another cigarette stub, a mystery developed. It is the belief of the police that some of Hare's friends played the joke on him.

The total value of fish caught in Canadian waters in 1914 was $33,207.748.

Syrup of Figs for Cross, Sick Feverish Child

If Little Stomach Is Sour, Liver Torpid or Bowels Clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "Fruit Laxative." Children love it, and it can't cause injury. No difference what all your little one is full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "Fruit Laxative" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Adv.

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Secret.)
"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels in normal action. Without these organs, poisonous waste products remain in the system, poisoning the blood, and the complexion is sallow, the skin is dry, the hair falls out, the nerves are exhausted, and the body is generally in a state of decay. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."
"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought without producing any after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an active ingredient derived from the humble fig apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is a habit-forming constituent in 'vegetable calomel'—that's the name—and there is no risk of forming a habit of weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Santal tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Cleanse The Blood Banish Rheumatism

Rheumatism Due to Bad Blood. S. S. S. Your Remedy

Thousands have been made well. People in the poorest health, suffering from Rheumatism, with whom pain was constant. Who believed that their vitality was sapped beyond repair. It was proved to them that the cause of their trouble was the blood; that Uric Acid, the most faithful ally of Rheumatism, had gripped them. The poison in the blood had sapped its strength. The weakened blood had allowed poison and impurities to accumulate, and all energy was gone. They felt "poorly," were listless, pain was ever present, with poor digestion and dyspepsia. They tried S. S. S., nature's blood tonic. They gave up drugs. This compound of nature's remedies of roots and herbs did what drugs failed to do. It literally washed the blood free from poison, and with the flow of pure blood came back health, strength, vigor and happiness. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. Insist upon S. S. S. If yours is a long standing case, write for special advice to S. S. S. Co., Atlanta, Ga., but begin taking S. S. S. at once.

We can write poetry in the Summer
And also in the Fall
We can make a song that's a hummer,
That would sing to sleep a cute doll.
But when it comes to Rhythm
And everything else in that line,
You got to hand it to Diddle
For, to write poetry that boy's divine.

VERSE THE SECOND

Editor Palladium:
Please do not put my name in such flaming upper case print, and pardon apparent overstep of "ethical" red-tape fetters, which too often means "keep the public mind darkened, lest knowing too much knowledge may block our medical priesthood."

The writer ardently desires to take off his hat to Doctor Halseid, who well knew that in maudlin public opinion, he was damned if he did, and damned if he didn't, had the courage of his honest convictions.

Public opinion is radical, rabid, and almost always wrong. Public sentiment, sober matured public second-thought, comes much later. Public opinion cried, "Crucify him! Crucify him! Later, public sentiment worships Him as a Saviour of the world. William J. Bryan, well knowing that public opinion would gladly crucify all his political aspirations of a strenuous lifetime, had the courage of convictions to accept the "golden cross and silver crown." The writer opines that his hat will last a long, long time from doffing to men of this super-class.

This event of the Chicago monstrosity, to the writer's mind, easily illustrates the small-pace of modern advancement from out hoary traditional superstitions as to life-phenomena, and

CHICKENS AND CHICKENS.
Now, on the level, while you are trying to make us think you are a man, ain't you that little brown chicken mentioned in psalm two, who contributed to this column before?

DON'T RUB IT IN
She—When you married me, I want you to understand that you didn't marry a cook.
He—Yes, I know.

THEY'RE STILL HAPPY.
The above is not meant as a reflection on high school cooking classes.

WORDS OF WISDOM.
A steel trap is called smart because it knows just the right time to shut up. That's why we say, "Smart as a steel trap."

WHADDA MEAN?
A headline says that blue eyes are popular. Well we ain't particular about the color of the eyes.

THIS ISN'T LEAP YEAR.
We notice that "Fishers for men bait with sense." That's no good, and you ought to know it. There are more attractive things that could be used more successfully. Notice, we didn't mention the girls?

the human mind. Anybody, and every-one met on the street, and especially in the church, can tell you far more about God, than about their own body. The writer is no sort of prophet, but ventures the prediction that, many, many, million years hence, when man shall know himself, then only will he be competent to learn something about his Creator. And the initiative of human wisdom will be when the mind can definitely differentiate mind, soul, and spirit. Which all are immortal, unseen, and absolutely unknown to the material senses, except as their activities are made manifest to our sensorium or nervous system through material atomic matter. That monstrous world-old error that the mind is a mysterious entity, independent of the body, is still current among a large class of otherwise intelligent people; as has been quite evident from published discussion of the Chicago Bolinger infant anomaly. Given, no arrest of brain development, every infant is born with the same number of neurons or brain-cells, as definite in number as fingers and toes, providing other parts are normal; neurologists have estimated over ninety million, and it will never have any more; if in after life, one or as is often the case hundreds are destroyed by disease or injury, they will never reform, no more than an amputated limb will grow on again. If the brain is normally developed, well educated, and trained, the rest of the body may be ever so much deformed, a brilliant intellect will result notwithstanding; as many of the world's great minds have proved. If there is any material arrest of the development of neurons or nerve cells in the brain, or the spinal chord, it is not within the power of human possibility to remedy the defect. However, if, as often occurs, the neuron or nerve cell being properly formed but lacking adequate nutrition is functionally inefficient as in the feeble minded, then in most cases, proper training and bodily nourishment will greatly improve, and in a few cases has produced fairly good citizens.

A glance through a large book, 968 pages profusely illustrated, published by W. B. Saunders & Co., Philadelphia, and London: "Anomalies and Curiosities of Medicine" should convince any right-minded person as to the justice and benefit to society of proper Eugenic laws permitting elimination of hopeless mental and physical monstrosities.

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home."—Mrs. JOSE HAM, R. F. D. 1, Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.
