

BETHEL CHURCH PAYS HONOR TO B. WASHINGTON

Speakers Review Career of Noted Leader and Congregation
Adopts Resolutions
Extolling His Worth.

One of the largest congregations that ever assembled in the Bethel M. E. church attended the memorial services held last night in honor of Booker T. Washington. Resolutions, prepared by Ellsworth Gordon and Raymond Harris, were read by Mr. Gordon. A paper on the boyhood of Washington was read by Dr. W. Grant Huffman. Herbert Bundy spoke on Dr. Washington's struggles for an education. The founding and growth of Tuskegee Institute was the subject handled by J. A. Clay.

How Tuskegee Grew.
Mr. Clay said Tuskegee was founded in 1881 through the efforts of Lewis Adams and a few white friends. During the year the legislature of Alabama appropriated $2,000 for the payment of teachers and Booker T. Washington was employed. Washington at that time was employed in the Hampton Institute. The school was opened on July 4, 1881, in an old shanty that had formerly been a church with an enrollment of thirty pupils. Some time after this it became necessary to secure an assistant to Dr. Washington and Miss Olivia Davidson was secured and later she married Dr. Washington.

The school grew rapidly and starting thirty-four years ago with $2,000 it today has property and endowment of $2,000,000, nearly 2,000 pupils and 28 different departments.

W. H. Dennis spoke of Dr. Washington's influence on the life of the nation.

Lands Leader of Race.
Rev. J. P. Wallace who was a close personal friend of Washington's reviewed his life and said in part: "In the death of Booker T. Washington the world has lost one of its most useful and valuable characters and the colored race its most distinguished advocate and defender."

"His life is the more remarkable in that he was a slave boy born in ante bellum days and the step from slavery to a character of world-wide reputation is remarkable and hardly conceivable."

"He became Moses to his race and a Lincoln to his country. Through his efforts he raised over $150,000 a year to run Tuskegee. His message was the voice of 4,000,000 outraged freedmen who were innocent victims of the cruel institution of slavery. Their cry was no longer freedom but an opportunity for a better, higher and nobler life, a man's chance. Tuskegee with all its magnificence does not represent all his life's work. He now lives as an inspiration in the heart and minds of millions and a man's work lives after him."

The service of the evening being in memory of Booker T. Washington who departed this life Sunday, Nov. 14, 1915, the following resolutions are offered in tribute to the occasion by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wallace and the congregation of the A. M. E. church.

Resolved, It has pleased a Wise and Benign Providence to take from us in the zenith of an unparalleled career of usefulness our splendid leader and advocate, the lamented Washington; we deem it fitting to record our appreciation of his great life and eminent character and our sincere grief at his demise; therefore be it Resolved, By the pastor and congregation of Bethel A. M. E. church, that while we bow to the will of the Almighty God, we recognize with befitting sorrow our great loss, and shall not the less mourn though we may be comforted in the contemplation of his life and deeds.

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Washington the nation has lost a man of wonderful qualities of astonishing eloquence, of strong and commanding character, of long continued and useful labor, of great virtues—a true genius, a most illustrious example of the capacity of the negro and one of its foremost citizens. As an advocate of industrial training he has been vindicated by its adoption in the curriculum of public and private schools regardless of race. And we believe in the progress of time all his policies looking toward the advancement along material and economic lines will prove to be equally as wise and beneficial.

With the passing of the founder of Tuskegee—the product of his mind and heart—that noble monument becomes the heritage of the nation. It shall be the shrine whither perpetually our fond hearts shall travel and America's sons and daughters through coming years shall proudly visit.

Resolved, That the angel character of Mr. Washington's services to his country are worthy of some nationwide expression of appreciation in the nature of an enduring monument to his fame. And we hereby signify our intention of joining and giving assurance of support to any movement looking toward the creation of such a memorial.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the records of the church and a copy be sent to the bereaved family and relatives as endeavor of our sorrow and sympathy.

Reported by committee on resolutions.

ELSWORTH GORDON,
Secretary.

FRIENDS OBSERVE
SPECIAL WORSHIP

Members of the East Main Street Friends' church Sunday observed "Yearly Meeting Day," primarily a day of prayer for the various departments of church work, and large attendances were present at all of the services. Rev. Milo Hinkle, pastor of the church had charge of the services. Folders or leaflets describing the activities of the departments of the meeting, had been distributed. Representatives of the departments were present, too and took part in the services.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Yearly Meeting Evangelistic committee.

Where Hillstrom Met His Doom

This diagram of the Utah state penitentiary yard, shows how Joseph Hillstrom, poet and song writer of the Industrial Workers of the World, was put to death by a firing squad, for the murder of J. G. Morrison, a Salt Lake City grocer, and his son, Arling Morrison. Exercising the right of condemned prisoners in Utah, Hillstrom chose to be shot rather than hanged.

DODDRIDGE ENTERTAINS.

The home of Mordecai Doddridge, county commissioner, south of Centerville, was the scene of a dinner party Sunday. Those present were the families of J. W. Judkins, William Seane, William Cheeseman, Albert Anderson, B. F. Petro, John Nixon, Frank Lutz, Joseph Commons, Richard Spahr and W. O. Jones. The guests enjoyed a turkey dinner.

HELD FOR CRUELTY TO LIVERY ANIMAL

John McKee and George Hartman, both young men, have been arrested on a charge of cruelty to an animal, a horse rented from a liveryman, John Shurley. They secured the animal on the representation that they would use him only one afternoon. Three days later, Sunday, the boys drove the horse, almost exhausted, into the barn. "Make out an order and we will send you a check," one of the boys said. The animal had been driven to Ridgeville, Winchester, West Pittsburg, Portland and other places.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN CALLS FOR PAVING OF MANY STREETS

Asked today what permanent street improvements were being considered for next year which might necessitate the floating of another bond issue, President Bavis of the board said that tentative plans called for the paving of Richmond avenue, Fort Wayne avenue from A to D streets, South Seventh street, from Main to A. and South Ninth, from Main to A.

President Bavis also stated that the board was considering the adoption of a new rule for the payment of the city's share of all permanent street improvements.

"For years the city has merely designated the amount of money it would contribute toward the cost of a permanent street improvement," he stated. "In consequence, if the successful bid was lower than the estimated cost the city did not benefit from the reduction in the expense although the property owners did. We are now considering the advisability of merely designating what per cent. of the cost of an improvement the city will assume. There is a question, however, as to whether this can be done under the state laws. A former city attorney ruled that the city had to designate the amount of money it would contribute."
