The Whole Family Goes In

Want a Baby Boy?

Blue eyes or brown eyes, white boys and girls or colored boys and girls—it makes no difference, Mrs. Elizabeth Candler, probation officer can supply any demand.

There are eighteen Wayne county children at White's institute, many of whom are longing for homes and some one to take care of them. Most of the children are between eight and twelve years of age and have merely been placed at the Home because they have no parents, or their parents have gone wrong, and the children taken away from them by order of court.

Last Wednesday, it was announced that a twelve-year-old girl, Harriet Krull, had been deserted by her father. Her mother was dead. That evening, Mrs. Candler received inquiries about the girl and today a satisfactory home was found for her.

Another girl was placed in a home today by the probation officer.

"It seems queer to me," said Mrs. Candler today, "but it is a fact that it is much easier to find homes for little girls than it is for little boys. People must think that the reason boys are sent to White's institute is because they are bad. This is not the case much more than is true with girls. Most of them are sent there because they have no parents or have been deserted."

Of the eighteen children at White's institute, all but two of them are boys.

Money and Labor

Every dollar you earn represents a certain number of hours of your labor.

Every dollar you spend foolishly is just that much labor thrown away.

Have you ever thought of it in that light.

Why not store up the profits of your labor now for use in old age, sickness or the rainy day.
