Merit's Reward
Merit's reward is often imitation. It is the article with character that is copied, but imitation is seldom more than label-deep. No reputable dealer ever offers to sell you a substitute for an article you ask for. You are justified, if the storekeeper tries it, in asking him whether there is not a little extra profit on the substitute. When you see an article advertised in this newspaper, ask for it by name and insist on getting what you ask for.

FAMINE OF MILK THREATENS CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 3.—More than one million quarts of milk were diverted from the Chicago market today by producers of this district because the distributing companies refused to grant the dairymen's demand for $1.55 per hundred pounds. Leading distributors today issued statements saying that babies of the city would not go without milk, regardless of how much it cost to supply families with infant children.

Count Sent to Jail

MRS MAUDE BAKER DE MARQUETTE.

The shrinking of "Count" Jean de Marquette into plain Leonel Giani, was the startling anti-climax provided in Superior Judge Craig's court room at Los Angeles, when the young man came up for sentence on a burglary charge. The revelation that the young man, who had posed as a French nobleman, was the son of an Ocean Park Heights rancher was a shock to several young women who had gathered in the court room. They had come under his spell and attributed to him ancestral halls and a gilded coronet. Giani looked around to see if a particular young woman was present, the one, in fact, who used to believe he was a very fascinating chap and also a count. She believed the latter assumption so strongly that she married him and fancied herself the countess. She is Mrs. Maud Baker de Marquette. Mrs. de Marquette did not need the disillusionment, however, having penetrated the sham some time ago. When Giani was convicted of a felony last week, she filed a suit for divorce, naming that as ground for her action. "So you are a count, are you?" asked Judge Craig, following an appeal of Giani's attorney for his release that he might go back and fight for France. Giani drew himself up somewhat haughtily and admitted that the title fitted. "Read that record, Captain Dodds," said the judge to his chief probation officer. The record showed that Giani had been spending most of his time in getting arrested and serving sentences in the past ten years, also that he was born in Providence, R. I., and had never been to France. "You are the most unprincipled, brazen and foolish impostor I have ever seen in this court room," said the judge. "Five years in Folsom." The young wife was not in the court room, but when informed of the situation said: "I knew he wasn't a count. Soon after our marriage his whole shabby pretense was exposed to me. I am sorry he has to go to prison, but not surprised. That is as far as my concern extends."

ASSESORS COMPLETE HALF THEIR WORK

Township assessors at work throughout the county report that the assessing is practically half completed. All assessing must be done by the first of May. County Assessor Matthews said today that very little change has been noted in assessing property in Wayne county, and that the report will show practically the same valuation as in previous year. If any change whatever is noted, it probably will be a decrease. Assessment this year is only on personal property, which is being assessed less every year compared with the assessed value of real estate. This decrease in the value placed on personal property is not discouraging, according to County Auditor Bowman, who has made a study of taxing in this county. He said that real estate is continually increasing in value, and it will only be a matter of time when taxes will be paid entirely on real estate. The leading steel companies have in hand contracts which will enable them to run to capacity in the more important products for the full year of 1916.
