News Picture at Theatorium Shows Wilson

The vast library and European connections of the Gaumont company made it possible for the Mutual Weekly to show pictures of Earl Kitchener and the ill-fated ship which was carrying him and his staff, the Cruiser "Hampshire," just as soon as the news was made public. Characteristic pictures of the great soldier and interesting views of the man-of-war are both shown in Mutual Weekly No. 76.

An interesting and historic picture in this issue of the Mutual Weekly records the visit of President Wilson to Annapolis where he made the address to the graduating class. It was in this speech that he called the midshipmen's attention to the fact that they are "more than college boys." At the Theatorium Thursday.

SHOWS NIGHT BLOOMER

A night blooming cereus which will begin to bloom tonight, and bloom again on Sunday and Monday nights, is on exhibition in the window of the Lacey Sewing Machine store, 3 South Seventh street.

Anna Pavlova Keeps Secret Her Pay Check

One of the greatest events in the history of the motion picture art will take place at the Coliseum theatre on Saturday and Sunday, July 22 and 23, when Russia's dancer, Anna Pavlova, will appear on the screen in a massive spectacle entitled, "The Dumb Girl of Portici."

It is a remarkable illustration of modern advancement in the amusement field, when one of the public's idols absolutely refuses to make public the money she will find in her pay envelope at the end of each week. There is nothing the great opera diva so delights in as to see in the newspapers the grossly exaggerated statement of the weekly hononarium, but in the case of Anna Pavlova one may look in vain for any statement of the reasons which induced her to capitulate to the cameraman. All that is known, even to the officials of the Universal Film company, is that the amount Pavlova will receive for spending one month in Los Angeles, is saved to provide capital which will finance the tour of the Boston Opera company.

After having conquered the British stage, Kitty Gordon came to the United States on an extended pleasure trip. Theatrical impresarios trailed her for weeks, besieging her with offers to play in American musical comedies, to which she succumbed after having refused many tempting engagements. The result was that she had theatre-goers at her feet for years, at which time she became the idol of the light comedy stage. She was induced by William A. Brady to appear in motion pictures, contracting to make three features for the World Film. Two of her pictures have already been shown in this city, and her third, "The Crucial Test," will be the attraction shown at the Coliseum on Tuesday and Wednesday.
