Drastic Retaliation

Great Britain has interfered with American mail and blacklisted American firms. The amendment to the revenue bill is a form of reprisal that strikes one as drastic, but its severity is merited in view of the guilt of Great Britain. Every American hopes the President will not be called on to use force to enforce its provisions, but if he is forced to this expedient, he may rest assured that every patriotic American will support him in his fight.

The United States has never denied that Great Britain had a right to censor mail that went through territory controlled by England, but John Bull has gone so far as to disregard the rights of all neutrals in all matters neutral.

Our government has been too lenient with Great Britain. John Bull has invited retaliation, and we hope that President Wilson uses his new power to squelch British arrogance.

Murders in Parks

The murder of a New York attorney in one of the big parks of that city and the murder committed in one of Chicago's parks, shows that these places need adequate police protection. Many parks become the hanging out places for rowdies and crooks as soon as darkness falls, and it seems that the police protection accorded during the night is withdrawn at night.

Richmond has been fortunate in the policing of its parks. We cannot recall a single outrage in a park that might have called forth criticisms either on the neighborhood or on the police department. Citizens have co-operated in a laudable degree with the police in maintaining order in the city parks. This kind of civic interest is to be commended and encouraged.

Save!

Save! From time immemorial, this dictum has been preached to each generation. The wise men of old dinned it into the ears of the people. The sages of today proclaim it as the only road to competence in old age. In time of prosperity, lay aside substance for the slack days. Collier's Weekly in a current issue takes up the old story and in a new dress, preaches the following:

If a wise and foreseeing economist were asked to boil into two words the most important advice he could give to the individual citizen of the United States at the present moment, he would probably say: "Save money!" We in America are among the least provident of peoples. The following statistics, which were compiled prior to the European War, show the number of people out of a thousand who had savings accounts:

Switzerland, 554; Denmark, 442; Norway, 415; Sweden 404; Belgium 397; New Zealand 360; France 346; Holland 325; Germany 317; England 302; Australia 300; Tasmania 280; Japan 270; Italy 220; United States 99.

From the point of view of all the moral qualities implied by individual saving, as well as the economic strength that rests upon it, this is a pretty poor showing for the United States. Outside of New England, the Atlantic Coast States, and the Northern Middle States, there is very little saving by individuals through deposits in savings accounts. There was never less excuse for failure to save than at the present time. Since the war began the balance of trade has put into this country an excess of $3,000,000,000. Enormous profits on manufactured goods and on our agricultural products under war conditions have literally filled this country with money. Notwithstanding the frequent assertion that most of these profits go into the hands of a few ammunition manufacturers, the fact is that the profits have been pretty broadly disseminated throughout the United States. The farmers and the cattle raisers all come in for their share. Moreover, the manufacture of every product is so tied up with the necessity for component parts that whenever a large contract is given to one manufacturer, it means the ordering of material for the fulfillment of that contract from a great many small manufacturers.

We, in this country, are such optimists that we are too liable to regard prosperity at its height as a permanent thing, and count upon a good income for future years, when all logic and history teach us that depressions constantly recur. Now is the time for all of us individually to prepare out of the material prosperity at hand for the years which are sure to follow, when business will slacken and incomes drop, and in some cases almost cease. History teaches us beyond any question that thousands of families break up and go down into poverty because nothing has been saved to carry them over a slack period.

Mrs. Sylvester Wood and two daughters, Nettie and Lato of Farmland, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Wood of Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oler of Indianapolis, Miss Effie Wolford of Richmond, Rev. Howard Chany of Dublin, and others. There were 40 present.

We put it up to Hundreds of Dentists
Long before SENRECO was offered to you we submitted it to hundreds of dentists, requesting that they put it to every test. Told them that we believed Senreco to be an unusually good dentifrice, especially as to its cleansing qualities and its remedial action on sore, soft, bleeding gums; in the treatment of Pyorrhea, etc. Submitted the formula and asked them their opinion. They tested Senreco from every angle; some going even so far as to make a chemical analysis—

With practically one accord—said:

"Senreco appeals to me more than any dentifrice I have ever seen." "I cannot say too much for Senreco. It's one of the best I have used." "I can recommend Senreco as the best." "Makes the teeth gleam and is free from injurious ingredients, including pumice and grit." "I am indeed glad to get a tooth paste that does the work." "Congratulate you on formulating a dentifrice that gives one a new idea of mouth cleanliness, etc." (These quotations are from the dentists' reports. Originals on file at our office.)

With such endorsements from the men who know; why not go to your dealer today and get a tube of SENRECO—25c. Keep your teeth REALLY CLEAN, and protect yourself against Pyorrhea and decay.
