DECEMBER WHEAT TOUCHES NEW LEVEL

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—December wheat was sent up to a new high level here today by a rush of buying that caused prices to rise 1/2 to 2 cents over yesterday's close. Outside markets were also higher. Weather in the Argentine was reported as hot and dry. Cables from Liverpool reflected the advance here yesterday, but the European visible supply was increased by 3,796,000 bushels.

Corn was stronger and 1/4 to 1/2 cents higher.

Oats were firmer and other grains 1/4 to 1/2 cent up.

Provisions were weaker and lower. The wheat market continued to advance until December got above $1.59, when there was enough realizing to cause a reaction to below that figure. The demand was excellent and with more damage reports being received from Argentine, bulls were confident. Final prices were 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents higher.

Corn was strong but there were too many realizing sales at 75 cents for December for the market to absorb. Resting sports were 1/2 to 3/4 to 1/2 cents higher.

Oats were higher. Provisions recovered somewhat.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy nose, cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the internal organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

of the bank during the years of his active connection with it save four have passed away.

By patient industry and by force of his own ability he arose step by step until he became a trusted leader and manager of the bank's business and affairs; then larger opportunity and wider fields of business and finance attracted him, so that he ceased his active relations with us, and at once assumed a commanding position in large business and financial interests, in which he has attained a position most gratifying to all his friends, as among a very few, recognized and trusted leaders in finance and the larger business interests of the nation.

It is gratifying to us to recall, that his exceptional and brilliant business career, had its beginning as one of trusted employees and officers of this bank.

His characteristics, as we his business associates have observed them, throughout his business life are, a most kindly and generous nature; an active industry; a keen insight of all problems of business; an unusually accurate judgment of men and of any business situation and the courage and confidence to act upon his judgment.

His retirement from official relation to the bank at this time, on account of recent Congressional legislation, we feel assured brings to him a feeling of regret as it does to this board of directors and all officers of the bank.

Our wish is, therefore, that there shall go to our much esteemed and appreciated fellow worker, with our acceptance of his resignation cordial assurance of our appreciation of his long, faithful and efficient service to the bank; of his wise and valued counsel and advice since he ceased to be actively engaged with us, and of our most kindly wishes for his continued success, and his health, prosperity and happiness.

"THE IRON CLAW"

BY
STRINGER

[Read this story in the Palladium and see it at the Palace.]

Legar, seeing the door giving way before this determined onslaught, drew his revolver and emptied it into the half demolished closet door even as he backed away across the room to the open window. There he followed his already vanishing accomplices out on the fire escape, swarming down the narrow ladder after them as the outer door of the room gave way and a group of excited hotel attendants, headed by High-Collar Davis, came tumbling into the room.

The man who emerged from the closet lingered only long enough to point out to them the fleeing figures already at the foot of the fire escape. Then he himself darted down through the hotel hallway, took the stairs on the run, circled out through the rotunda, and springing through shrubbery and flower beds, leaped into a limousine drawn up at the side of the road.

"Follow that touring car those men have just piled into," he called out to his driver. "Follow it until we get into the city. Then swing past it and get to Golden's house before it does, whatever happens!"

But that touring car showed itself to be a much speedier vehicle than its un-crossing came an even swifter-moving through freight, whistling its frantic warning as it came.

But that warning was too late. The pilot of the locomotive seemed to root like a boar's snout under the flimsy body of the automobile and then tossed it and its human freight high over its shoulder. There was a momentary cascade of bodies and metal through the air, a sudden discontinuance of the whistle blasts, and the grind of steel against steel as the startled engine driver threw on his brakes.

"Did they strike?" asked the Laughing Mask's chauffeur over his shoulder. "Yes, they struck! But don't turn back. Keep going! For there's another car from that hotel following us, and we've still got to get to Golden's house first."

It was some twelve minutes later that Margery Golden, as she sat desolately in the quietness of her room, found herself confronted by an unannounced visitor.

"It's you!" she gasped, as she rose to her feet and found the Laughing Mask standing, a little breathless, just inside her door.

"I'm sorry to startle you," he explained, "but as usual, they didn't give me any too much time!"

"But what has happened?" "The same thing over again. There are five men downstairs persuading your father the Laughing Mask is a criminal, and those five men are determined to make me a prisoner."

"But why should they keep saying this?" asked the bewildered girl. "Because they don't understand."

"No, they don't understand," she repeated. Then she turned and stared at the masked face. "Nor do I altogether understand!"

"But surely you'd trust me enough to hide me away here until I can escape from them?"

"How can you ask me to trust you when you refuse to trust me?"

"But I do trust you. I always have!"

"Yet not enough to remove that mask."

"And you insist that I unmask?" "No, I do not insist. But if you believe in my honesty I also want to believe in yours."

Again there was a moment of silence. "You are right," said the man in the mask. Then he crossed the room to the door of the white-tiled bathroom, laughing as he went. "But since my hands are clean, I also insist that my face shall be!"

The girl stood puzzled as she heard the sound of a tap being turned and the splash of water.

"What are you doing?" she demanded. "Washing my face," answered a somewhat altered voice, "and I'm afraid I'm rather spoiling your towel with my make-up."

The next minute the Laughing Mask, denuded of his domino, stepped back into the room.

"Will you trust me enough now to help me get away?" he asked.

A Terrific Combat Was Taking Place.

kempt appearance might indicate. And its driver seemed possessed of a surprisingly intimate knowledge of suburban side roads, for as the black limousine drew up on it the dust-covered car suddenly swerved to the left, dipped into a narrow valley, and took the rise to the railway track like a swallow rounding a cliff head.

Then the man in the yellow mask stood up in his car, with an involuntary gasp of horror on his lips. For thundering along the curving track as the dusty touring car rose to the smiling face above her. She started to lift her hand, as though in wonder, to her brow. But the man in the doorway imprisoned that hand in his own, and drew her a little closer to him. "Will you trust me now?" he repeated. "Yes," she said, in a voice hushed with wonder, as she felt his arms close about her. "I will always trust you!" (TO BE CONTINUED.)

How Catarrh is Contracted
Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucus membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.
