

BAYARD HALE GETS INTERVIEW WITH PRINCE

By WILLIAM BAYARD HALE

Headquarters of the Army of the German Crown Prince, West Front (Via Currier to Berlin), Sept. 26.—"Why, I suppose my most anxious concern is the welfare of my men. I know their labors and their gallantry, and I want to see them well fed, well clothed and with a decent place to lay their heads in rest. I can't do all I should like to do in the face of the deadly peril that overhangs the Fatherland, but what can be done to make comfortable the lot of these heroes shall be done if my labors and all the resources which I can command can avail to bring it about."

It was Sunday morning when I reached the Crown Prince's headquarters. There was a peal of bells clamoring from the church across the street in every corridor and room of the school building occupied by the Headquarters Staff. Activity was at full tide. The evening before I spent in a treetop in the environs of Verdun, well known to the Crown Prince as an observation point.

Problems Confront Prince.

I ventured to ask which of all the technical problems interested most deeply the heir of the Hohenzollern, summoned from preparation for the day when he will rule the German people to command an army battling in their defense.

When not at the front he devotes practically every hour to the study of various aspects of the tremendous problems which have descended in sobering effect upon this son of an illustrious house. What was the particular task that chiefly engrossed him? The problem of war that principally commanded his attention? The department to which he preferred to give most of his personal attention—artillery attack, pioneer work, trench work or aviation possibilities?

Surveys Entire Field.

"I have worked at every sort and kind of a problem," said the Crown Prince. "I have surveyed the whole field. You know I had the advantage of a pretty thorough professional training at Charlottesville, and I trust no phase of the profession of arms is unfamiliar to me."

"But I may tell you that I find at last in all my work, plannings and preparations in directing the motions of this vast machine that my thoughts are constantly recurring to the welfare of the men whose lives for the moment are committed to my keeping."

"No labor, nor forethought of which I am capable, no technical skill which I can summon, shall be lacking to fulfill all that is demanded by this dear guardianship."

"The prospects of peace? I confess I don't see any. I tell you it is no happiness to look forward to spending the third Christmas here at —. I have a wife and family as you know."

The Prince sighed reflectively and watched the match in his fingers expire. "I have been home just two fortnights in the last two years."

PLAN COSTUME SOCIAL

Gleaner class of the Lutheran Sunday school will give a centennial social at Lyonsville on Saturday evening. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes in several classes. An oyster supper and ice cream festival will follow the program of humorous selections which has been arranged.

TAKES RHODES EXAM

Of the three men who are taking the examination for the Rhodes scholarship, Clyde Little of Earlham is one. President Robert L. Kelly is a member of the examining board, which is conducting the examination at Indianapolis. The other two students are from Wabash college.

Ka-e-na-gi-wes, an Indian chief of Cass Lake, Minn., said to be 128 and a heathen all that century and a quarter, will not be buried in the spirit land of the Chippewas' happy hunting ground. He has taken the name John Smith and turned Christian.

HAVE YOU A FRIEND WITH SKIN TROUBLE?

If you have a friend suffering with eczema or some such itching, burning eruption, what greater kindness could you do him than to say:

"Why don't you try Resinol Ointment? I know you have experimented with a dozen treatments, but I believe Resinol is different. In the first place, doctors have prescribed it for years. And then, Resinol does not claim to be a 'cure-all'—simply a soothing, healing dressing, free from all harsh drugs that USUALLY proves successful in just such cases as yours."

Resinol Ointment is sold by all drug-gists. For free sample, write to Dept. 63-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

NEW STAGE SETTING
FEATURES MINSTREL

A form of entertainment which has defied all competition for years is negro minstrelsy and in spite of the counter attractions of the movies, musical comedies, drama and opera, it still holds its place in the affections of theatregoers. None of the minstrel performers of the past or present have held the affections of the public to a greater degree than Neil O'Brien and his Great American Minstrels are coming to the Washington theatre will be received with satisfaction. It is promised by Mr. O'Brien's manager, Oscar F. Hodges, that this season everything will be found new and strictly up to date and that a production has been provided both as to scenery and costumes that will quite take the wind out of all competitors. For the first part a new and striking stage setting has been secured and though the details of this have not yet been given out it is expected that it will be quite a surprise to the patrons and admirers of Mr. O'Brien and his minstrel company.

Argentina and Paraguay have concluded a new commercial treaty which provides for practically free trade between the two countries.

It is easy enough to keep your home warm when the mercury is up around the freezing point, not very hard to keep the chill away when it drops to 20 degrees above, but when it sinks down to 20 degrees below—then watch out.

Most any kind of a stove is all right in moderate weather, that is, if it doesn't smoke, leak ashes, burn coal like a house afire and go out at night; but sorry to say, most all stoves do some of these things. When you really need heat and need it bad your heater goes back on you—and you regret that you didn't investigate more thoroughly before you bought.

Opposite is pictured the heating stove of no regrets, the Globe Hot Blast. Here is a heater that burns the smoke and gases, cuts your coal bill, holds fire for two days, warms the floor and is an ornament in any home—your home.

You know some folks never think to look into a heater's construction, but that is a most important thing to consider. Study the construction of the Globe Hot Blast. Then you will see why this Globe will return in comfort, fuel-saving heat and everlasting satisfaction the few dollars you invest in it.
