CAPTURED GERMAN AMMUNITION.

Here is shown some of the loot captured by the British from the Germans along the Somme. The wicker shell cases contain shells of various calibre for the guns used in the defense of the positions from which the Germans were driven. Some of the guns were captured and the shells shot back at their one time owners.

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TO-NIGHT

Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, New York.

It was coming winter in the deep woods soon, and while it was far from being cold Mr. Fox, who always looked ahead, began to wonder where he could find nice, soft covering for his bed.

"I haven't a friend who has more than he needs himself, and as far as I know," thought Mr. Fox to himself, "no friend of mine owns a quilt, and that is what I want—a nice patchwork quilt like the ones my grandmother used to make. How I wish I had saved one of those, but like a silly young fellow that I was, I didn't want the old-fashioned looking thing I thought. I should have plenty of new style coverings, and here I am this winter without anything at all."

"Seems to me I have heard Grandma tell about quilting parties they used to have when she was a girl, and that you could get a quilt made by inviting all your friends and giving them a few apples. I believe that would be the very thing for me to do. I can get some apples as easy as can be up at Mr. Man's. He never thinks to lock up the cellar where he keeps them."

So Mr. Fox started out to invite his friends. It took him all day to make the rounds, for he wanted everybody far and near to come. "The more that come the bigger the quilt," thought Mr. Fox with a sly smile.

So he sat down to think out a plan by which he could have the quilt given him as well as the work.

By and by he jumped up with a smile and started off on a fast trot around to all the invited guests and asked them to bring a small piece of cloth for their patchwork pie. "I have decided to have it an album quilt," he told them. "Everybody writes their name on the piece of cloth they bring, so I will be able always, in bed or out of bed, to remember my dear friends; and only my very close and dear friends are invited to this party," he explained.

So on the day of the party Mr. Fox set out on his table four dishes of apples. "That should be enough for them unless they are all pigs about eating," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel came and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rabbit came and so did Mr. and Mrs. Bear.

The Squirrels and the Jack Rabbits and the Bears had brought along their children, "for," said they, "our grandmothers told us all the children and the men folk always came to supper, and we knew you would want to give the quilting party right, Mr. Fox; you are so particular."

Mr. Fox did not feel very pleased when he heard that, but before he could say a word Mrs. Squirrel said: "All the children have brought their piece of patchwork, so you will have a nice, big quilt, Mr. Fox."

This cleared Mr. Fox's brow of the frown that was beginning to show, but it quickly came again when the door opened and in came the Coon and the Possum family with all their children. "Oh, Mr. Fox, what you going to have for supper?" asked the little Possums. "Grandma says at quilting parties when she was young they had cake and pie and chicken and duck—"

"Your grandmother told you wrong," said Mr. Fox, who could see his pantry bare by the time the party was over if this went on. "Apples are the thing to serve at a quilting party, and you shall have all you want as long as they last."

Everybody looked at the four dishes of apples on the table, and then the little Possums and the little Coons began to cry. "We don't like apples; we want chicken and pie and cake and duck—"

"And if they don't get it," said Mrs. Possum, "you won't get your old quilt, Mr. Fox."

"No, indeed, you won't," said Mrs. Coon. "Do you think we are going to come here and work on a quilt for you and give the patchwork besides, and eat apples? Is that all you have, Mr. Fox?"

Mr. Fox said it was, and that they knew very little about a quilting party if they expected any more.

"We will take our pieces of patchwork and go home then," said all the guests, and out they marched, followed by their children, and as far as he could hear anything Mr. Fox heard the little Possums and the little Coons crying, "We want cake and pie, and chicken and duck—"

"If they got all that it would cost more to get that quilt than it would to buy one of old Granny Frog, made of lilly pads, and that is what I shall have to do, I guess, or freeze this winter."

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Adv.

How Catarrh is Contracted
Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucus membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

MISS GRACE KING ADDRESSES WOMEN

CENTERVILLE, Ind., Oct. 5.—The Ladies' Auxiliary met at the school house Tuesday. Miss Grace L. King, domestic science supervisor of county schools, was present and gave a very interesting talk on co-operation of parents with her in her work of domestic science and sewing. It was decided that the Auxiliary will serve the dinner for the Jones Pike sale Oct. 18. Miss Bertsch and her class in domestic science attended this meeting. The next meeting will be Nov. 7 at the school house. Miss Alma Garvin of Purdue, will be present and give demonstration. Subject, "Eggs, Cheese and Milk as Meat Substitute."

Old Friends of Tanlac Relate Tales of Help

Old friends of Tanlac, the celebrated medicine to be introduced in Richmond at the Clem Thistlethwaite drug store, Sixth and Main, by a special Tanlac representative beginning at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, revived memories, yesterday, of the premier preparation's first annual announcement in this city, held a year ago.

With the announcement that the second annual demonstration is to begin in Richmond next Saturday, stories of the preparation's help for people who suffered from stomach liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism and the like, when it was last specially introduced here and since that time, were recalled.

The interest created by the first announcement, made yesterday, indicates that the same enthusiasm shown a year ago, when it was stated that a medicine of real merit was to be introduced here, will greet Tanlac on this, its second special introduction in Richmond.

Already people who gained benefits from Tanlac when it was last introduced here, or since that time, are telling their friends about the new preparation. This is where Tanlac scores. Those who have tried the new medicine are its best friends, for they realize that Tanlac is the excellent preparation it is claimed to be, and they do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends.

Tanlac's help for people who suffer from stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite and the like, is being told each day by people all over Indiana, and in all other states.

The special Tanlac representative who will meet the public of Richmond, is in the city. He will establish his headquarters at the Clem Thistlethwaite drug store, Sixth and Main, at 9 o'clock next Saturday morning and will explain Tanlac to the public daily through an indefinite period.—Adv.

Personal letters have been sent to every member of the Y. M. C. A. asking assistance in the State Membership campaign, October 9-14.

All that the members are asked to do is to line the fellows up and then if they have not time to take them to the "Y," and see them signed up, they can call the office and a special committee will be sent to call on the prospect.

KEEPS LAWN PRETTY

CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., Oct. 5.—Although Jack Frost is making ravages among the flowers, the garden of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Martz yet remains one of unusual beauty, with its ornamental peppers in red, yellow and purple and green, its fine varieties of coccumb in many tones of red, its feathery butterfly bush, and other ornamental shrubbery.

Food Souring On Stomach Causes Indigestion, Gas

"Pape's Diapepsin" Ends All Stomach Distress in Five Minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.—Adv.
