Rich Danish Girls Study Shops

MISSSES INGER AND ELSE ILLUM

The spirit of the Vikings is not dead. Two Danish girls have followed in the wake of their Norsemen ancestors and sailed west to explore not new lands, but the American fashions and the methods of American department stores. Inger and Else Illum, who arrived on the Frederick VIII, are the daughters of a wealthy Danish merchant who owns Copenhagen's largest department store. The girls have long been interested in the business of their father's store. And now at the age when most girls are to seek out that which the aggressiveness and originality of the Americans have added to the science of running that maze of business, the modern department store.

Miss Inger is much interested in dressmaking. The American fashion journals are "quite-up-to-date" she says.

Brides, Pretty or Homely, Blush

"Spend some time at the county clerk's office for several days and 'help' them issue marriage licenses," a reporter was instructed.

That meant that some popular belief about marriage must be overthrown. Think of that! Wanting to know something new about the oldest institution—marriage!

Well, the observation resulted in these discoveries:

The "blushing bride" does blush, and the "nervous" bridegroom is nervous.

These facts are not drawn on popular imagination. They are founded on fact and the observation of twenty couples.

This happened last week:

She was 18. He was 22. They walked up to the desk where Deputy Clerk Gus Hafner and I were standing. Hafner met them with a gaze calmed by much experience.

Mr. Brown for an explanation. He led them to the clerk's office.

The troubled smile left when the clerk answered, "Yes, this is the place," and shoved out the application.

The next couple, observed carefully, knew what they were about.

"Married before," said Miss Smith, an assistant in the office.

"Once," said the woman.

But despite her calmness, she giggled and blushed.

It was several weeks ago when a woman of 68, well dressed, and a man of 70, made their appearance at the window.

"Married before?" inquired Hafner, who happened to be at the window this time.

"No," said the woman. Her face grew pink above her high collar.

And so it goes: brides-to-be try not to blush and grooms-to-be struggle not to be nervous.

Both fail.

The funniest thing about it is that nobody looks at them. It is just taken as a routine affair at the clerk's office.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

Child Gets Sick Cross, Feverish If Constipated

"California Syrup of Figs" Can't Harm Tender Stomach or Bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleaning" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

Feed Rabbits with Dropper

GLADYS MAHER

A medicine dropper is the means by which food in the form of warm milk is conveyed to three tiny incubator rabbits left unexpectedly on the hands of William J. Maher, proprietor of a Brooklyn livery stable. Maher's little daughter, Gladys, has taken it on herself to mother the little orphans.

The rabbits were born in the livery stable. A horse kicked the mother, killing it, soon after the rabbits were born. An old stove served as an incubator for the little creatures and by some means they survived. Then little Gladys Maher came to the rescue with a medicine dropper and warm milk. The picture shows her feeding one of the little creatures.
