ASK FOR A QUARTER OUNCE OF FREEZONE

Any corn will dry up and lift out, says a Cincinnati authority.

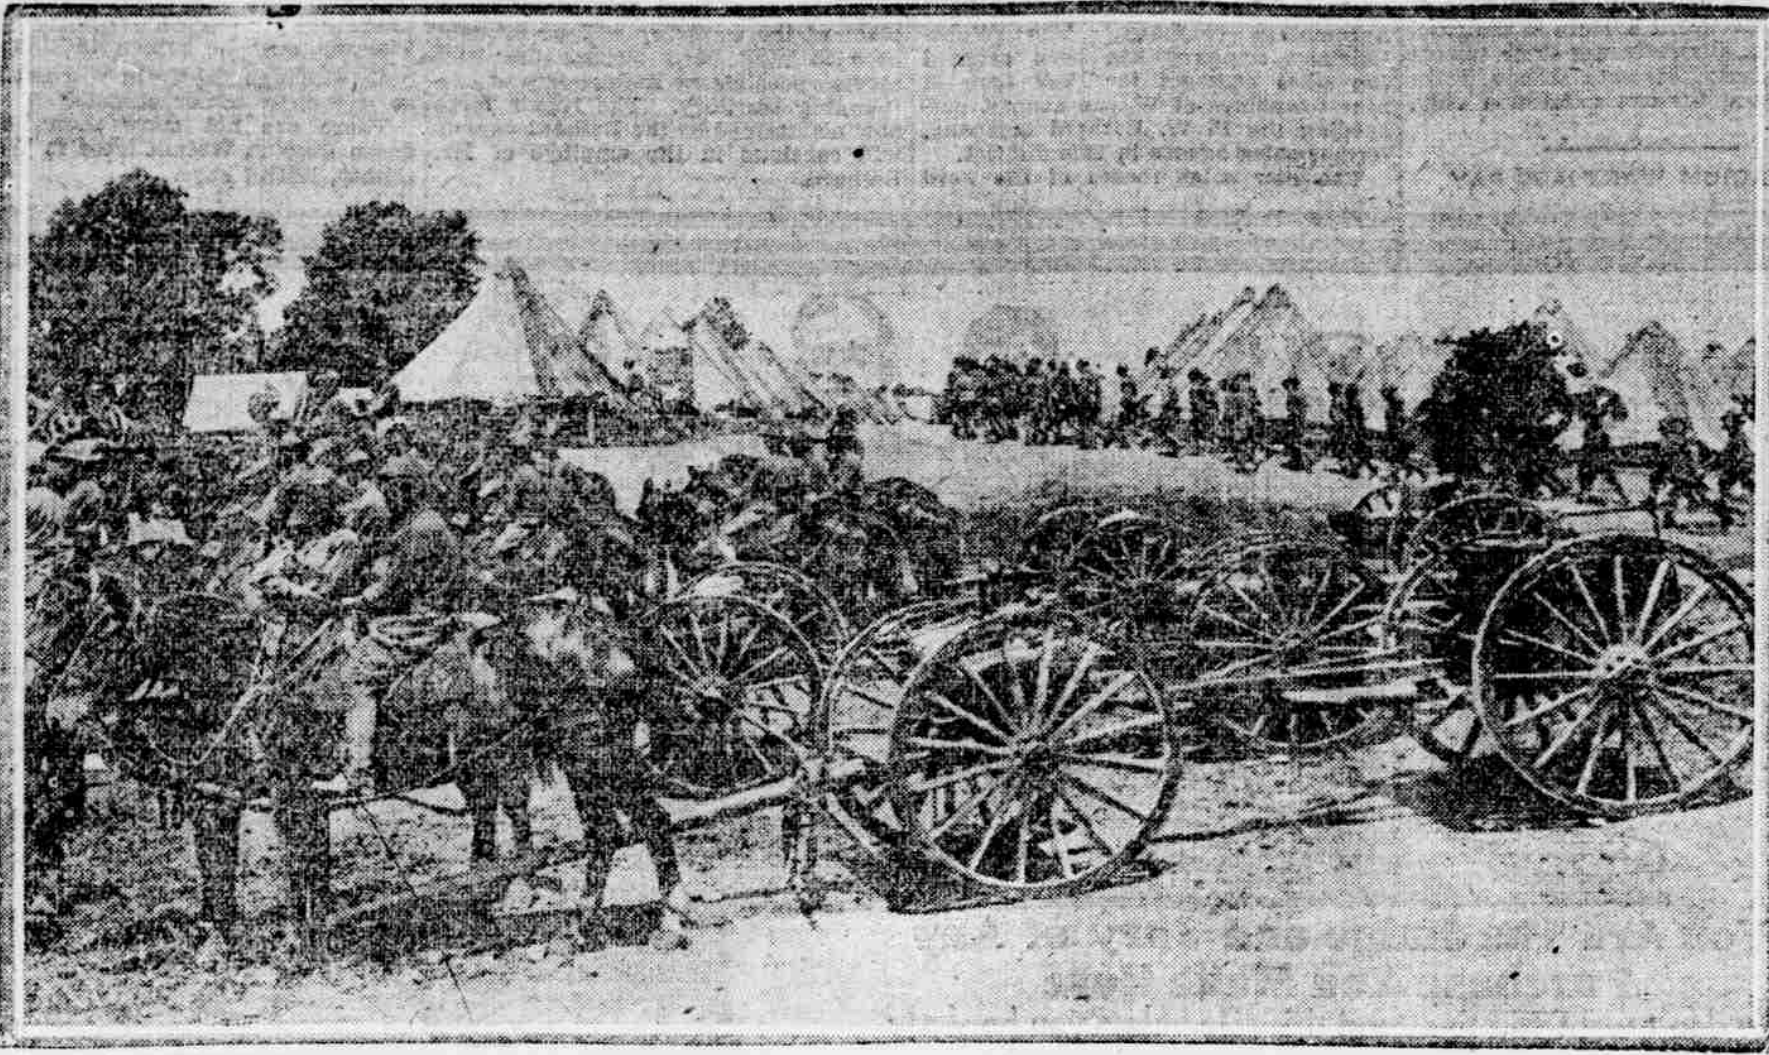

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this authority. He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without any pain.

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is said to simply shrivel up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue.

It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce, obtained at any drug store, will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.—Adv.

State Food Commissioner Tells How to Make Saur Kraut

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—Saur kraut may be made easily from the early cabbage as well as the later varieties, and may be kept for use later with ease, Dr. H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, said today. He gave the following instructions:

"Saur kraut is made by fermenting cabbages, and so it is natural that the bacteriologists of the Department of Agriculture should be interested in its production. They have just pointed out that many vegetables may be preserved by fermenting them and give an excellent process for making sauer kraut."

"Remove the outer green leaves of the cabbage, just as in preparing for boiling. If an instrument for chopping is not available, quarter the heads and slice off the part of the core remaining in each quarter. Inexpensive shredding machines are sold, but if one is not available the quarter heads may be cut into thin slices with a large knife. Pack the shredded cabbage immediately in a clean, water tight receptacle such as a cider or a wine barrel, keg or tub. Except in the case of large families, four or five gallon earthenware crocks are preferable. This quantity after opening can be used before spoilage begins."

"As the cabbage is packed, salt at the rate of one pound to forty pounds of cabbage should be added and distributed evenly. When the barrel or crock is nearly full the cabbage should be pressed down as firmly as possible and covered with a clean board. It is desirable, but not essential, that a cloth be placed over the cabbage before the cover is put in place. The salt extracts a considerable amount of cabbage juice, and a sufficient weight of clean brick or stone should be added to cause the brine to rise above the wooden cover."

Do not use lime stone or sand stone for weights as the action produced by fermentation on these substances destroys the keeping quality of the brine. Tubs and covers made of yellow or pitch pine should not be employed as such woods cause a disagreeable flavor.

"The container is set aside and fermentation allowed to proceed undisturbed. If weather is cool or a cold cellar is used, three to five weeks may be necessary for the fermentation to be completed; if in a warm room, ten days or two weeks. Scum should not be allowed to grow on the surface of the brine. As soon as gas bubbles cease to rise the scum should be removed and a layer of hot melted paraffin about one-fourth to one-half inch thick should be poured upon the brine while very hot."

"If the sauer kraut is made during the fall and stored in a cool place, there is no absolute necessity for a layer of paraffin. The low temperature will prevent decomposition. The popular idea that sauer kraut made from early cabbage will not keep is based upon the fact that the fermentation occurs in warm weather and the rapid growth of scum soon destroys both brine and kraut if the surface is not protected properly. Vinegar at the rate of one quart to 25 pounds of cabbage will prevent decomposition which sometimes takes the form of a soft and slippery product."

NEXT LOAN WILL GO OUT SEPT. 15

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Preparations for the floating of the second liberty loan to be offered to the public some time early in the fall were begun here today by the general loan committee of the Second Federal Reserve district. This action was taken following a request from Secretary McAdoo that the committee reorganize at once for a second campaign. Secretary McAdoo suggested the personnel of the committee remain unchanged. Although the date the second loan will be offered to the public and the rate of interest it will bear have not been definitely decided upon, it was said it will be about Sept. 15 and not Oct. 15 as at first reported. It was also said in the financial district that it was very doubtful if the government could sell another issue of Liberty Loan bonds bearing 3½ percent

6,588 Chicago Men Pass Examination

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Reports of forty-seven of the eighty-six draft exemption boards in Chicago showed that 8,994 registrants had been examined up to today of whom 6,588 were regarded as physically fit. In the forty-seven districts 4,507 registrants have made exemption claims.

Interest so long as the market price for the last issue remains under par.

The reason given for advancing the date of the next issue from Oct. 15 to Sept. 15 was that the small investor might be one of the big factors in floating the loan. It was said that should the loan be offered beginning Oct. 15, the working man would not invest heavily because of the coming winter.

Benjamin Strong, governor of the local reserve bank, will continue to act as chairman of the general committee for this district.

The Parting Gift

A Vest Pocket Kodak

It is monotony, not bullets that our soldier boys dread. No fear, when the time comes, they will uphold bravely the traditions that are dear to every loyal American heart. But in the training camps and during the months of forced inaction there are going to be some tedious, home-sick days—days the Kodak can make more cheerful.

Pictures of comrades and camp life, pictures of the thousand and one things that can be photographed without endangering and military secret will interest them, and will doubly interest the friends at home. Tens of thousands of brave lads in the camps and trenches of France are keeping their own Kodak story of the war—a story that will always be intense to them because it is history from their viewpoint. And when peace comes it will make more vivid, more real their story of their war as they tell it again and again to mother and sister and wife and little ones.

The nation has a big job on its hands. It's only a little part, perhaps, but a genuine part of that job to keep up the cheerfulness of camp life, to keep tight the bonds between camp and home. Pictures from home to the camp and from camp to the home can do their part.

There's room for a little Vest Pocket Kodak in every soldier's and sailor's kit. The expense is small, six dollars. The cheerfulness it will bring is great.
