The pessimist says the optimist is ten percent good and ninety percent make-believe. The pessimist's opinion of himself is withheld, for obvious reasons.—Henry N. Hauser.

Why Gen. Harrison G. Otis Won Success

Back of every truly great man is a directing principle that both actuates his conduct and makes for the material reward that graces his work.

General Harrison Gray Otis, for more than thirty years president and general manager of the Los Angeles Times, died recently. He had made the Times one of the distinctive newspapers of this country.

His motto was, "Stand fast, stand firm, stand sure, stand true."

Three years ago he addressed a remarkable letter of declaration to his daughter and son-in-law, to whom the controlling interest in the Times was transferred. In this communication he set out the dominating principles of journalism that guided him, and in fatherly manner asked them to continue the policy which he had laid down.

The wisdom of this able editor and manager, as expressed in this document, has been made accessible to the world in a brochure which his heirs have published.

Some of the trenchant and salient utterances of Gen. Otis follow:

The press is a colossal surveyor of the world-wide news field, scanning the entire civilized globe and faithfully purveying to an ever-waiting public the luminous record of daily and mighty happenings among men and nations.

Always bear in mind the demonstrated truth that it is, after all, the sane, brave, level-headed, self-restrained, right-hearted, honest men and women of the land upon whom rests, and will always rest, the responsibility of holding the family, society, business, government and the country together.

Constantly, consistently and loyally uphold and defend the Constitution and the Flag, the Congress and the courts, the executive power within its prescribed and lawful limitations, and cherish the Army and the Navy, those bulwarks and strong arms of the government.

Hold up the hands and cheer the hearts of the lowly and deserving, no matter how humble they may be; quail not before the aggressions of unjust power, and live and die game and true. Fear God and do right.

Scourge as with a whip of scorpions dishonesty, pretense, hypocrisy, scoundrelism, treason to truth and the country and every form of evil that threatens with destruction the home, the community or the country, and at the same time encourage every sound tendency and condition in human society that makes for its preservation, stability and endurance on high and right lines.

Ever place patriotism, duty and honor, public and private morality and the true interests of the state and country before mere commercialism or material success in the conduct of the Times. Thus may this journal of ours be caused to grow in strength, usefulness and power, able to plough through the turbulent sea of journalism like a full-rigged man-of-war.

Thompson Sues Chicago Paper

Mayor Thompson of Chicago has only a slim chance of winning his suit against the Chicago Herald for $250,000 damages. The Herald is one of the thousand newspapers that has criticized the mayor's anti-war attitude. A jury will pay little attention to the alleged injury that may have been done Thompson by the denunciation of the Herald.

Chicago has suffered tremendously by inflicting the Thompson regime upon itself. He has been the greatest disturbing element that city has had to contend with. Its citizens are anxiously awaiting the day when a new administration will assume its duties.

In the meantime thousands are hoping that Thompson may be impeached for his utterances which are so perilously close to being seditious that many Americans wonder why the government has delayed proceedings against him.

War Gardens Worth Money

Twelve hundred war gardens in Richmond produced vegetables worth $5,000, according to Civic Gardener Murphy.

Paraphrased this means that $5,000 in actual money was saved by the persons who made the gardens and that this sum was added to the wealth of the community.

"They all report that they enjoyed the work so much that they will have gardens next year," Murphy said about the gardeners. He answered the 1,040 telephone calls about garden problems.

The garden enthusiasm and the participation of citizens in the movement is the best praise that can be given to the work. Murphy has proved his worth to the community. The citizens have proved that they will appreciate efforts that make life richer and more enjoyable.

Blame It on The War

Housewives and smokers who use the Swedish "tandstikker," safety matches, may be wondering why the matches flare as brightly as ever but the fire does not ignite the wood as quickly as it used to do.

The reason is this: Oils and fats are scarce and expensive in Europe. The paraffin which formerly kept the flame going until the wood was ignited has been eliminated.

The ramifications of the great war are to be seen in hundreds of little details that affect our necessities and comforts. If the war continues for two or three years, it will bring about such far-reaching changes that what are regarded as necessities now may be luxuries.

North and South in Parade

German Instructors Lose Jobs in West

MANDAN, N. D., Sept. 8.—Instructors of the German language are not in demand in the northwest according to Miss Harriet Schulte, who resigned her position as teacher of German in the Mandan high school and has written the school board asking if the position was still open.

"It is almost impossible to find a position as instructor in German," she said. "Throughout the northwest, high schools are abandoning the teaching of German or are cutting down the course merely to let those who have already started the subject, complete the work."

"Then seeing Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised I wrote for a free sample. I bought more, and I was healed." (Signed) James H. McManaway, 1131 St. Louis Ave., East St. Louis, Ill., April 12, 1916.

FIRST Conscription Sale EVER HELD WILL BEGIN IN Richmond Soon

Sidney Rose, Proprietor of the New Railroad Store, has been drafted and accepted for Service in the National Army.

He will Reduce His Stock at once in 16-Day Sale. Advertising for this event is now being prepared. 10,000 large 4-Page Folders will be mailed to his customers soon.

His Store will close Tonight at 10 p. m. to arrange for this Gigantic Sale. Doors will open Wednesday, Sept. 12th at 8:30 a. m.

The first conscription sale ever held will begin at The Railroad Store in Richmond on next Wednesday, September 12th. Mr. Sidney Rose, the proprietor of this store, has been drafted and accepted for the United States Army, having passed the physical examination by the local board for Wayne County. He may be called for camp duty any minute and will therefore inaugurate a sale to unload merchandise. Under the circumstances Mr. Rose must reduce his large stock at once and he will offer you the very best bargains of his entire career. It will pay you to wait for the big bonafide sale, for everything in the store will be unloaded. Stock must be reduced at all hazards. The price is not the object now, in fact, Mr. Rose will be obliged to sacrifice all his new winter merchandise as well. Just yesterday 2 bales of Signal Overalls costing $780.00 arrived. These goods were bought 6 months ago and while they are worth $2,000 today and The Railroad Store has been selling them at $1.75, Mr. Rose states that rather than return them he will sacrifice during the sale at $1.39 a pair. This is only one of the examples of the way he will slaughter new fall goods rather than go back on his contracts and return the goods.

The people of Wayne and the adjacent counties will reap the benefit. The critical moment has arrived and this unusual condition forces sale prices that will be the talk of Richmond for years to come. If Mr. Rose is sent to camp he may be obliged to give up his business, therefore he has decided on this sale to start Wednesday, Sept. 12th, and run for 16 days only and he will make every effort to sell off at least half his stock in the stipulated time. This is one big opportunity to save on new staple winter merchandise. Such as Sweaters, Underwear, Furnishings, Comforts, Blankets, Shoes, Rubbers, Dry Goods, Ladies' Apparel, Men's Pants, Boys' and Children's Clothing, etc., etc. The later stock is to be slaughtered and for the next few days Mr. Rose and his large force of salespeople will work night and day to remark everything at the sale price. This will be the greatest bargain Demonstration in the history of Indiana and it will pay you to watch for the 4-page circulars, likewise future ads in the daily papers. The whole county will ring with enthusiasm as soon as the conscription sale prices are announced, for it will be a fight to a finish to sell at least half of the Railroad Store stock in 16 days.

Get the opening and closing dates of this sale firmly fixed in your mind for it may be the last sale you'll ever attend at The Railroad Store. The sale circulars will reach you soon by carrier and mail and if you want to defeat the high cost of living be sure and read the bills for price quotations. Red, White and Blue sale signs will guide you to this event.—Corner 8th and N. E. St.
