WOMAN KEPT

earn her own way as best she could. She went out into the world.

So, about a year before she completely disappeared from the outside world to live the life of a hermit, Schmick met her and employed her to keep house for him. She accepted and her new life began.

Then, the story of the attorneys continues, it was that Schmick made improper advances. Miss DeCamp resisted. Schmick threatened.

Seven months later, Miss DeCamp left him and went to the home of her father, who was then living in Greenfield. (Whether her father is now alive is unknown.)

Only Baby Was Born. There her only baby was born—dead. Schmick again sought her, threatened, persuaded, and Miss DeCamp gave in, through fear. Again she returned to the place, but she knew that it was wrong for her to do so.

On April 13 of that year she told Schmick she was going to leave. Schmick attempted to persuade her to stay. Unable, he brought her into Eaton.

"Where will you go?" Schmick is said to have asked her. Yes, where would she go? She hadn't thought of that. Wouldn't it be better to return to Schmick's farm, would that be better than to be arrested, probably, and then disgraced. Schmick argued and at last his argument triumphed over Miss DeCamp's better reasoning.

She returned. From April 18, 1901, until Friday, November 23, last month, she lived secretly in Schmick's home. Schmick held the same influence over her, and fear kept her there, the attorneys say.

Clothes Were Concealed. For nearly seventeen years she hid from the outside world. Her clothes were carefully concealed. When visitors came to the little farm house she hid in another part of the house.

For more than sixteen years without a pretty dress! And worse still, without a new hat! Her clothes were all of the meaner sort.

But one thing Schmick did provide and that was plenty of reading material, and Miss DeCamp is a "very well read and advised woman," say the attorneys.

Once, when her teeth were hurting and she asked to be taken to an Eaton dentist, Schmick refused. So one of the first things she did when she left the place was to go to a dentist. Another was to purchase underwear and other wearing apparel.

The suspicion of neighbors that "some woman" was living with Schmick grew when he became ill. A milk pail which was placed in the front of the house aroused that suspicion.

The pail was always taken into the house, emptied, washed and replaced in front of the house. How could a sick man, unable to leave his bed, get the milk pail, wash it and replace it, they asked, and came to the conclusion that it couldn't be done. But they did not see her.

Old Man Was Deferential. When Miss DeCamp left Schmick it was very apparent that he would die, the attorneys say. He was selling "grasshoppers, big hams and other things hanging over him and was delirious at times," the attorneys say Miss DeCamp told them.

Schmick's face was not sore when she left him. A. J. Schaffer, a neighbor farmer, who had been feeding the stock on Schmick's farm found him lying on the floor and it is believed that his face was injured in the fall to the floor.

When she came to Eaton she registered at a hotel here. Several times she refused to eat, so nervous was she would still be arrested. She was unable to talk at times because of her nervous condition.

She wore the same clothes, when

HUMAN DOLL AT CHARITY BAZAAR

In gathering funds for relief work or at charity bazaars this human doll costume is very effective. The costume is something on the style of a riding habit except for the curiously shaped hat. Jeannie Pusey is wearing it in the picture at the blind and crippled booth for American soldiers and sailors at Hero Land in the Grand Central Plaza bazaar in New York.

DR. DAVIS TO TALK

OXFORD, O., Dec. 8.—Dr. Sherman Davis, of Indiana university, a member of the Indiana Council of National Defense, will discuss "Food Conservation" before the young women of the Western College Tuesday morning at chapel hour.

she left the house, that she had worn when she went to the house nearly seventeen years before.

Shortly after she gave birth to her baby, before going into utter seclusion, Schmick is alleged to have transferred his property to his brother. After Miss DeCamp returned to live in his house he transferred the property.

Tell of Dispersal. Attorneys for Mrs. Alice Fudge, administratrix of the dead man's estate, say that under the laws of Ohio, half of the estate would go to his sister who is living in Washington and the other half would be divided among Mrs. Fudge, who is Schmick's niece, and two grand nieces.

No will has yet been found and it is believed that he died intestate.

Attorney Vaughan says he is undecided whether the claim will be that Miss DeCamp was Schmick's common law wife, or whether it will be for services as a housekeeper. It would be very hard to prove that she was Schmick's common law wife as no one saw her on the place.

This is a description of Miss DeCamp as given by the attorneys: She is about 37 years old, is about five feet, four inches tall, slender, light complexioned woman with light hair.

Suffered With Burning Pimples

For Two Years. On Arms and Limbs. Became One Large Eruption. Itched All the Time. Healed by Cuticura. Costing $1.25.

"I suffered for almost two years with pimples on my arms and limbs. They were small and red to start with but by irritating them they became larger and finally became one large eruption, or a number of eruptions which had a yellowish look. I work around intense heat so that they burned and itched all the time and I scratched. I was ashamed to wash when the other men would as my arms looked so bad."

"Then seeing Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised I wrote for a free sample. I bought more, and I was healed." (Signed) James H. McManaway, 1131 St. Louis Ave., East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 12, 1916.

Cuticura Soap to cleanse, purify and beautify. Cuticura Ointment to soften, soothe and heal, are ideal for every-day toilet purposes.

BAKER'S COCOA
has great food value
THE food value of cocoa has been proven by centuries of use, and dietitians and physicians the world over are enthusiastic in their endorsements of it. It is said to contain more nourishment than beef, in a more readily assimilated form. The choice, however, should be a high-grade cocoa—"Baker's" of course.
It is delicious, too
