

CO-ED DISAPPEARS RETURNS BRIDE

FRANKFORT, Ind., Jan. 9.—Miss Margaret Ada Wilson, 18 years old, of Rossville, a sophomore in the domestic science class at Purdue University, who was reported missing from Lafayette and who had been sought by the police departments of Lafayette and several northern Indiana cities, is safe today at the home of her father in Rossville, where she sought the forgiveness of her parents after participating in an exciting elopement.

Miss Wilson, in company with George L. Espy, a childhood playmate, appeared in this city this afternoon and applied for a marriage license at the county clerk's office, where the couple was taken into custody by Sheriff Joseph Pence. They were held in the sheriff's office for more than an hour while Lafayette officers were notified that the couple had been located here.

When informed that his daughter was held in this city, where she and Espy applied for a marriage license, Charles E. Wilson, who is Rossville merchant, requested that the couple be released.

Permit Daughter to Marry.

He stated that he would permit his daughter to carry out her wishes. He said he objected to the marriage only on account of the girl being a Catholic, while the young man is a Protestant. Immediately after being released the couple returned to the clerk's office, where they were granted a marriage license. They left for the home of the young woman's parents.

Espy stated he met Miss Wilson in Lafayette yesterday afternoon and went to Logansport, where they spent the night with relatives. They went to Delphi this morning and hired a taxicab to bring them to this city. They returned to Rossville in the taxicab they used in making their elopement.

Indiana Eating Houses Save More Than Ohio's

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 9.—Indiana public eating houses saved approximately one-third more meat and fully twice the volume of wheat during the first month of meatless and wheatless days, although of much less population as compared with Ohio, during the first month of the meatless and wheatless days. This statement is based upon figures reported to the Food Administration of two states to the National Administration of Washington.

World Champion Red Cross Helper Raises Sheep, Shears 'Em, Makes Yarn, Colors it and Knits Socks

DELL RAPIDS, S. D., Jan. 9.—Because she raises the sheep, shears them, cleans and cards the wool, makes yarn, colors it to the Red Cross standard gray by carefully mixing the wool, and knits socks, sweaters and helmets out of it for the Red Cross, Mrs. Chris White, of Dell Rapids, has obtained the title of America's champion Red Cross helper.

This title was given Mrs. White by the Minneapolis Red Cross headquarters where she sends all of her work and her name leads all the other workers in the northwest. She also knits for her grandsons in the army and for other boys with whom she is personally acquainted in army cantonments and "over there." She is 70 years old.

The number of articles she has knitted since the United States entered the war, Mrs. White said she could not estimate but she protested that her work was "not worth making so much fuss about."

Learned in Childhood.

"What I did for the soldier boys and what I'm doing, isn't much," she said as her hands made her knitting needles fly. "When I sheared the sheep, washed and combed the wool, spun the yarn and knit the socks, I had no idea of anybody taking any notice of it. You see I simply did it for the soldiers. To me it seems very easy, because its something I learned in my childhood."

"Up here," she continued still knitting vigorously without looking up, "you know we women can't run to the store every time we need a little yarn. Why they charge too much for it, much more than they ought to charge considering what they pay us for the wool we sell."

"It takes me about a week from the time I cut the wool off the sheep to the time I have finished a pair of socks. But then you must understand that I do my housework in that time too," she continued as she looked up for the first time and stopped her knitting to pull up a little more yarn from the ball on the floor.

Spinning is Easy.

"If the women in other communities want to make their own yarn, tell them it isn't hard to run a spinning wheel," she said, resuming her knitting. "Not nearly as hard to learn as one of those new-fangled sewing machines."

Mrs. White was born in Denmark and came to South Dakota, 45 years ago. She has one grandson fighting in France and several in training in this country, all of whom have been benefitted by her knitting.

"This winter," she said, "I am going to knit more for I won't have so much work to do, like putting up fruits and vegetables. You see I will have much more spare time and I'm going to make good use of it."

CHESTER, IND.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ferguson and daughter Ruth, of Richmond, visited Thomas Borden and family last week. Misses Lucile and Marjorie Huffmann and Bonnie and Blanche Carman visited the local school Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Adelade Kemp spent Wednesday with Miss Marie Boge in Richmond. Mrs. Harry Forbes has been visiting her mother, Mrs. William Jordan, south of Richmond.

The Women's Moresby Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Pearl Williams Thursday afternoon.

There were eleven present. Mrs. Pearl Kemp read two interesting letters from Elline Joy, a missionary in Africa. Mr. Joy's home before he became a missionary was at Chester. He expects to come home on a furlough some time soon on account of ill health.

The February meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. Ida Pickett.

Mrs. Michael Kendall has been on the sick list the past week.

Relatives and friends here are anxiously waiting to hear from Herbert Kendall who sailed for France three weeks ago.

No word has been received from him since he sailed.

Relatives here received word Saturday of the death of Mrs. Ann Syring in Richmond.

Mrs. Syring was a sister of Mrs. John Carman of this place.

Miss Edith Hampton returned to Bloomington University last week after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hampton and family.
