

MUSIC OF LIFE IS DISCUSSED

"Music is everywhere, and for those who do not sing or play some instrument there still remains the music of living a harmonious life," said Francis H. Green in his lecture on "The Harmony of Life" Friday evening, which was a mingling of wisdom and humor, poetry and wit. Many pronounced the speaker as great an attraction as Irvin Cobb.

The symbolism carried through the lecture was the likeness of qualities, which go to make up virtues in human living, to notes of a musical scale. But the interest of the audience was held as much by the anecdotes which were interspersed throughout the talk, and the recurrent allusions and quotations from the best poets which made the lecture a "bouquet of posies, culled from other men's gardens and simply tied together with a string of my own" as the speaker put it.

"I am sorry the 'Star Spangled Banner' is so difficult to sing," said Mr. Green. "It undoubtedly is purely American all the way through. It even begins with, 'Oh say.'"

"After I heard Edison say that no man had as much as one-seventh millionth part of one percent of knowledge, it made me thoughtful for some time. But it didn't make me feel lone some."

Beatitudes which the speaker suggested were "Blessed are bath tubs," and "Blessed is soap."

Continued applause almost prevented the jubilee singers from being able to conclude their program Friday evening after the presentation of the steam calliope and the "funny songs" which the male quartet gave. The old camp-meeting songs, which always have been favorites with the chautauqua audiences, were as enthusiastically received as ever, and the new features, short, humorous stories which were told by the "tall thin tenor man," made the children, who thronged the front seats, shout with laughter.

The seven members in the troupe included the male quartet, who had unusually good voices for jubilees, a very high soprano singer, a contralto and the pianist.

Their program included many patriotic numbers and old folk songs, besides "I Love You Truly," "The Rosary," "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," and other semi-classical numbers. The entertainment closed with "The Old Flag Never Touched the Ground."

SPECIAL PLANS FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL

Special music is being planned for the last Sunday school of the chautauqua and it is planned to make the service the most interesting and best ever held on the grounds. Superintendent Ed Hasemeier, who is president of the state association, will be in charge.

After assembling in the auditorium tent at 9:30 o'clock, when a general opening service will be held, the members will be divided into classes according to their ages. Children under twelve will be taken over to the children's tent and instructed by Mrs. A. B. Price. Boys and girls from twelve to sixteen will be under the instruction of Harrison Scott, while Miss Alvina Steen, superintendent of the teachers' training in Wayne county, will have charge of the young men and women from sixteen to twenty-one, and Rev. Probst will conduct the adult class.

Two selections will be sung by George Hodge, Miss Grace Shera will preside at the piano.

APPEAL FOR ARMY NURSES IS MADE

"The Making of a Nurse" a feature film designed to interest more girls in the nurses reserve, was shown at the chautauqua Friday evening.

Dr. L. F. Ross, who introduced the film, made a plea for more girls to show their patriotism and fill the need which has been caused by the assignment of all the best trained nurses to overseas duty, and a completely new set of nurses being needed for training.

Any girl with a high school education, from the ages of nineteen to thirty-five, is eligible. She has no expenses and is paid $15 a month. For two years she will be trained in the hospitals of America, and the third year sent abroad.

"No girl in America is too good to care for a soldier," said Dr. Ross, "and since there are more soldiers sick than wounded, the opportunity for service is very great even in America."

40 TAKE PART IN WATER CARNIVAL

Forty people took part in the water carnival held at Hawkins pond Saturday afternoon under the direction of L. A. Schwan. Ten of the participants were women. Spectacular "water stunts," games and races were the features, while plain swimming came in for its share of importance.

The carnival was made possible because Mr. Porter, manager of the pond agreed to donate the use of it for the afternoon. All the people taking part in it were residents of the Chautauqua city.

FINISH VOLLEY BALL SERIES

The "Keeping Fit" club of business men finished their volley ball series, Friday at the Y. M. C. A. Gentle and Dodd were the acting captains with a standing score of 3-3 for Monday and 1-1 Wednesday. The score stood 14-14 in the last game of the series, and it took five extra minutes to finish. Gentle team won. Stellar playing was done by Bills, Hiatt, Isley and Gentle.

At the Chautauqua

HEARD ON THE GROUNDS.

"Talk about distinguished jubilee singers, did you hear that soprano?" Madame Buckner was evidently French in name, copied Schumann-Heink in German gestures, and sang "Coming Through the Rye," in Scotch dialect.

"Combination of colors on the Chautauqua program is right. Thursday, a red man, Friday black and Green, and Saturday a string of Hrubys."

"Say, on the level, when that bunch of jubilee singers got through giving the Steam Calliope, I thought somebody'd have to get an ambulance for me. I had such a pain from laughing I was scared it was appendicitis."

"Hey, Red, going over to the water carnival?"

"What do you mean, 'Going over?' I've been having one right here for the past week."

"Wish Mr. Bentley had suggested wearing your bathing suit several days ago. I have ruined three skirts and four pairs of shoes, while my perfectly good swimming outfit is hanging up at home."

"Well, I'd join the nurses' reserve myself if I could do any good, but the minute I'd see anyone get sick or bleeding, they'd have to carry me out feet first."

"Say, I wonder if Mr. Green was out to the Chautauqua about eleven o'clock the other night. It almost sounded as though he spoke from experience when he said anyone who couldn't sing and did sing ought to be put in Sing Sing."

Popular Number of Hruby Company's Program is Dedicated to "The Boys"

Three stars are on the service flag in the Hruby family who came Saturday to give the final musical numbers on the Chautauqua program. There are six brothers and two sisters in the remarkable family, and all are capable of playing two or more instruments. Together with their father, who had been a noted leader of Hungarian orchestras until his death, the family has been on the Chautauqua platform since 1911, but this year two of the boys and one brother-in-law are in overseas service, and two substitutes are in their place.

Their programs are made up of a varied number of selections patriotic, classical and popular, according to the requests of the audience. One of their most popular numbers is a medley of patriotic airs which has been arranged by the older brother, and is dedicated to "The Boys." It begins with the representation of early morning, when the dawn breaks calmly but is soon followed by the call for reveille and mess call, then the trench songs interspersed with the English and French national anthems, sounding faintly in the distance and suddenly the call to arms, a representation of the battle and finally the victory, ending with the Star Spangled Banner. In other cities where this has been given it has been requested to be repeated two and three times, stated one member of the company.

One peculiar instrument which the Hruby Orchestra carry with them is what they term a cellophone, which was invented by one of their friends and is the only instrument of the kind in the world. It somewhat resembles a violin cello, except that it has but one string, and attached to this string is a phonographic horn which is connected with a disk and a needle, so that when the instrument is played the string goes through a needle, and the sound produced is very like a human voice.

Members of the company include Frank Hruby who plays the clarinet, piano and alto clarinet. Alois Hruby who plays the cello, cornet and cellophone, John Hruby who plays the violin and cornet, Arline Hruby who plays the flute, Mayme Hruby who plays the piano and cello and who sings. William Hruby who plays the cornet and drums, and who impersonates Creators and Sousa; Hazlett and Ziska who play the cello and violin.

The company come recommended as being very high in musical circles in Cleveland where the brothers are instructors in one of the music schools and their ability is recognized by every one.
