THE STRUGGLE

BY ZOE BECKLEY

MYSTERIOUS NEIGHBORS

There was but one cottage between the Ferrol home and the end of the road. It had been finished for some time, but had not attracted tenants up to then on account of its isolation. But one morning while Edith was at her kitchen stove preparing some preserves for which she had received an order from a grocer at Danville, she became aware of two vans of furniture passing her house on their way to the hitherto deserted cottage. Edith was too much immersed in the problems of her own home to be the peering, prying country neighbor, so she neither stopped to see who was moving into the next house nor gave it much thought.

But later in the day she saw a woman and a little boy come out of the house at the end of the road and look about them. There was something intangibly different about them from the types Edith had met in Arcadia. The little boy of about Jackie Ferrol's age moved so listlessly and looked so frail that Edith stopped her work for a moment to feel sorry for him.

The child was dressed in a bright new Indian costume gay with colors and feathered headpiece, but he looked neither elated nor gay. His arms were full of toy animals, but he took no interest in them and soon wearied of holding them. His mother, too, had some of his toys in her hands and was trying to win his interest for his playthings; for the new playhouse which appeared on their lawn; the new home and its grounds. The little boy was as apathetic to it all as though he were hungry for something which none of these things gave him.

His mother kept on trying to arouse the boy with that hopeless persistence of which only a devoted mother is capable. Finally, however, she stopped trying for a moment to look dispiritedly at the listless child.

At this moment Edith's children came home from school and stopped on the street before their home to look at their new neighbors. Edith saw the strange little boy suddenly show interest and point toward her children. The mother turned, saw the children, hesitated, shook her head doubtfully, then with sudden resolution took her son by his arm and started toward the Ferrol home.

Edith went back to her work, but soon heard the door bell ring. She hurried out to the front door and opened it.

Her new neighbors, mother and boy, stood on the threshold, the little boy looking wistfully at Jackie Ferrol and his sister, who in turn were inspecting them from a distance, pending permission from their mother to introduce themselves. The woman, aside from the gold rimmed spectacles she wore, looked strangely out of place away from the white lights of Luster square, entirely out of costume in the simple, practical domestic looking dress she wore.

"Will you forgive my intruding, please!" she said with a timid, anxious smile that was in strange contrast to the aggressive, robust personality she could be by merely letting her handsome outer self speak for her. "I am your new neighbor; Mrs. Fenn is my name. I have come to ask your permission for my little boy to play with yours? Do you mind?" she asked wistfully. "He is not very strong and has never had boy friends and it's the only thing that can make him the least interested in life—playmates!"

Edith had a weirdly clear premonition that there was something very much wrong in the life of this woman, perhaps in the woman herself. Yet the mother love was so obvious, the plea was so hard to refuse and the

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, could not get well, heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can do anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. WORTHINE, 2842 North Taylor St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthine.

Little boy so pathetically listless that in spite of her clear premonition of trouble to come, she said: "Why, certainly! Jackie, give the little boy a ride on your skatemobile! And won't you step in, Mrs. Fenn? I am Mrs. Ferrol."

She was touched at the heartfelt gratitude with which the strange woman said eagerly: "Oh, I'll be so glad—so glad. I thank you with all my heart!" (To be continued.)

Hi-Y Club Enlists High School Boys

"Every boy in the sophomore, junior and senior classes of high school will be invited to the opening banquet of the Hi-Y club, Monday evening."

"One hundred members," is the slogan of the club adopted by the promotion committee Tuesday evening. Efforts will be made to obtain that number for the opening banquet. Tickets will be sold by the promotion committee. For other meetings this winter, discussion of live questions will be in order under the leadership of Principal Bentley. Want Old Clothing for Belgian Refugees

The Wayne County Red Cross issued the following statement this morning in regard to the Old Clothing Drive which is to start soon:

It is hoped that the children who so successfully sold flowers for the Belgian Relief Fund will take as much interest in the drive for old clothing for the destitute people of France and Belgium.

The things they need most beside food are old articles of clothing and owing to our inadequate supply of wool and cotton, these things cannot be bought and the clothing will have to be furnished by the people of America.

It is the desire of the committee that the children that have been interested in the cause of the Belgian people during previous campaigns may canvass their neighborhoods for spare clothing or shoes which people may be willing to send the Red Cross for these great sufferers.

CATARRH IS NOT INCURABLE

BUT YOU CAN'T RELY ON SPRAYS AND INHALERS.

There is no use permitting yourself to be deceived. Perhaps, like thousands of others afflicted with Catarrh, you are about ready to believe that the disease is incurable, and that you are doomed to spend the remainder of your days hawking and spitting, with no relief in sight from inflamed and stopped up air passages that make the days miserable and the nights sleepless.

Of course this all depends upon whether or not you are willing to continue the old-time, make-shift methods of treatment that you and many other sufferers have used for years with no substantial results! If you are still content to depend upon the use of sprays, douches, inhalers, jellies and other like remedies by themselves, that are applied to the surface and cannot reach below it, then make up your mind now that your Catarrh will remain a life companion and will follow you to the grave.

You must realize that the disease itself, and not its symptoms, is what you have to cure. Of course you know that when you are cured of any disease its symptoms will disappear. Catarrh manifests itself by inflammation of the delicate membranes of the nose and air passages, which choke up and make breathing very difficult. To get rid of these distressing effects you must remove their cause.

The blood is laden with the Catarrh germs, which direct their attack against the tender and delicate membranes of the nose and throat. These germs cannot be reached by sprays or douches, which, of course, have no effect whatever upon the blood.

S. S. S. is a purely vegetable blood remedy, made from roots and herbs direct from the forest, which combat promptly any disease germs or impurities in the blood. This great remedy has been used for more than fifty years, with most satisfactory results. It has been successfully used by those afflicted with even the severest cases of Catarrh, because it drives out from the blood the Catarrh germs, and eliminates every foreign substance from the blood. S. S. S. is sold by druggists everywhere.

For the benefit of those afflicted with Catarrh or other blood diseases, we maintain a medical department in charge of a specialist skilled in these diseases. If you will write us fully, he will give your case careful study, and write you just what your own individual case requires. No charge is made for this service. 3,000,000 People Annually Take Nutrated Iron In This Country Alone For Red Blood Strength and Endurance

"To help make strong, keen, red-blooded Americans there is nothing in my experience which I have found so valuable as organic iron—Nuxated Iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. Nuxated Iron often increases the time. It is conservatively estimated that Nutrated Iron is now being used by over three million people annually, and it has been used and endorsed by such men as Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury and ex-Governor of Iowa; former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee Charles A. Towse; General John L. Clem when only 12 years of age; also United States Judge G. W. Atkinson of the Court of Claims of Washington, and others. Nutrated Iron is dispensed by all good druggists everywhere.
