

WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD CURTAILS UNESSENTIALS

Pocket-knives and Clocks Come Within Ban of U. S. War Board.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.—Bicycle and motorcycle manufacturing, the pocketknife, clock and watch, boiler, and radiator, and other industries fell under curtailment orders announced today by the war industries board in the campaign to conserve labor and materials for essential war purposes. The following is the latest curtailment list:

Pocketknife industry—Consumption of iron and steel reduced during the last four months of 1918 to a basis of not exceeding 70 percent of four-twelfths of the 1917 consumption.

Bicycle and motorcycle manufacturing industry—Consumption of materials reduced during the last four months of 1918 to a basis of not exceeding three-fourths of four-twelfths of its 1917 consumption.

Condition roofing, rag felt floor covering, and building board industries—Insofar as it manufactures composition roofing made of rag felt or asbestos or combinations thereof, or building board or building paper made of wood pulp, waste paper, gypsum, or cement, or combinations thereof, to confine its distribution of same to the United States government and the allies, to constructions licensed or authorized by the war industries board and to structures in which its use may be allowed by permit of the war industries board, and to repairs and replacements; and insofar as its manufactures floor coverings made of bituminous rag felt or felts thereof for and during the period from Oct. 1 to Dec. 31, to reduce its consumption of materials of a basis not exceeding 40 percent of three-twelfths of its 1917 consumption and to reserve from general disposition sufficient quantities to take care of government requirements.

Clock, watch and clock industry—to reduce its consumption during the last four months of 1918 of iron, steel, brass, and copper to a basis of not exceeding 70 percent of four-twelfths of its 1917 consumption.

Boiler and radiator manufacturing industry—To reduce its consumption of iron and steel to a basis of not exceeding 40 percent of four-twelfths of its 1917 consumption, and to furnish its products for no uses other than for orders placed by the United States government or the allies.

CHURCH NOTICE

WEST RICHMOND FRIENDS
In conformity with the requirements of the Board of Health and for the sake of preventing the spread of disease all public Sunday services and those usually scheduled for the week are not to be held until the quarantine is lifted.

Since worship is an important factor in every life, and since the gathering together in public assemblies is not necessary to worship, we suggest that each family in its own home set aside a portion of time at the usual hour of the church service and give it to reverently worshipping God in the family circle.

Let us be much in prayer for the sick, for the staying of the dread hand of disease, and for those in need everywhere.

CHARLES M. WOODMAN, Pastor.
First Christian—No services Sunday. What shall we do? Is there a substitute for public worship? We can read the Bible at home. Let us read the Sunday school lesson at least. Genesis, 13th and 14th chapters. We can pray at home. We might even partake of the sacred emblems and thus express our spiritual need of the Bread of Life and the Water of Life. But we shall miss something. Man is a social animal and needs the fellowship of kindred spirits. The gospel is a social gospel. Christianity is a social religion. It finds fullest expression and attains highest developments only through social intercourse. Even worship is incomplete without the sense of human fellowship. We shall miss something tomorrow. We shall miss much, but let us make most of the substitutes available. L. E. Murray, pastor.

Trinity Lutheran—There will be no Sunday school or church services tomorrow in accordance with the request of the health authorities.

St. Paul's Lutheran—401 South Seventh street. Rev. P. W. Rohlfing, D. D., pastor. Telephone 1321. Since there can be no public service Sunday we would kindly advise our members to study the Sunday school lesson, Genesis 22:1-14, and also read the Epistle Ephesians 1:15-21 and the Gospel Matthew 22:1-14 for the twentieth Sunday after Trinity. Beautiful hymns for the morning would be 89 and 347, and for the evening 20 and 355. An appropriate evening lesson would be Psalm 19; morning and evening prayers are found in both services. "Pray Without Ceasing."

Second English Lutheran, N. W. 3rd and Pearl. Due to the state closing order effecting churches, public gatherings, etc., there will be no service or meetings at the Second English Lutheran church until further notice. C. Raymond Isley, pastor.

Red Cross Establishes School to Train Ambulance Drivers

Following an urgent call from France for Red Cross Drivers and Mechanics, the American Red Cross created the Automotive and Mechanical Bureau, and established its general headquarters in the city of Chicago. They also selected Chicago as the permanent location for their training camp and barracks, known as Camp Scott, 8046 Cottage Grove Ave. This camp is under the direction of Major H. P. Harding, a well known Automotive Engineer of Chicago.

In order to send men for overseas duty as soon as possible, and at the same time make them thoroughly competent in their work, a rigid course of training, lasting about four weeks, is given.

At the barracks there is a complete work shop and the men are required to take machines apart and rebuild them. Competent instructors are always at hand to explain the functions of all parts. Demonstrations of all possible accidents and breakdowns are given and the quickest methods of repairing is shown.

Special grounds for all kinds of driving are a unique feature. Sections have been laid out to represent No. 1 Man's Land. Large pits are laid out representing shell holes; formations of brick and debris of all characters are strewn over the driving paths and the men are required to drive through at certain speeds with certain loads before their grading is given.

Daily lectures are given the men by prominent engineers of the Automotive and Mechanical Industries. Last week, J. Carleton, general manager of the White company, lectured on lubrication; R. B. McConnell, of the Hyatt-Roller Bearing Co., lectured on bearings; Mr. Rayfield, of the Rayfield Carburetor company, talked on carburetors; a representative of the Goodyear Tire company, talked on the trouble, and on August 27, Capt. J. V. Woodward, associate director of Motor transportation in France, talked to the men regarding conditions in France, and what will be expected of each man.

Each week every possible machine breakdown or trouble is covered by lectures and actual field demonstrations.

Arrangements have been made with one hundred garages and repair shops in Chicago whereby the men will daily spend several hours in actual repair work and in many cases building new cars. The work is graded and marks are given daily, the methods of grading being the same as used in technical schools.

These garages are displaying a sign which reads as follows: All Repair Men and Mechanics in this Garage are Red Cross Men Training for overseas duty. Stand by the Colors. A nominal charge is made to the public for their services which is turned in to the Red Cross and used for the purpose of purchasing more equipment.

Forty dollars a month and maintenance is paid while overseas and half pay and maintenance while in training.

This department is open for men under 18 years of age and over 46 or for those in Class 5, 4, 2.

A paid up insurance policy of $1,000 is given each man on date of embarkation. Headquarters, 528 Peoples Gas Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The gas meters of the houses in New York city are now recorded by cameras, which yield a permanent record of each of the regular readings.

THE STRUGGLE

EDITH FERROL AND JAMES CLEARY, CATERERS.

Cleary was about to turn away when Edith stopped him.

"One moment, Mr. Cleary. Since matters are again exactly as they were this afternoon when I promised to undertake a trial, I again accept your proposition."

"Good!" Cleary cried. "Edith!" her husband exclaimed. "You don't know what you're letting in yourself for. The whole town saw that crowd—"

"Well, the whole town shall know that Mr. Cleary sent them away!" she retorted spiritedly. "The whole town was against my having anything to do with the Fenns. And you've all come around to my way of looking at it. Now this is a matter purely of business—my business—and I must be allowed to decide on this. Won't you step in, Mr. Cleary?"

John was silenced.

When he heard of the option Mr. Cleary had on a shipment of fruit for preserving, he listened in spite of himself. Cleary easily proved there was money in it, if Edith approved of the samples he had at the inn.

Edith induced her husband to come to look at the fruit. John could do no less than consent; besides, he wanted to see for himself whether Cleary had told the truth about sending away the party or undesirable. They all rode to the inn in Cleary's car.

The inn looked bright and comfortable. The brightness was somewhat on the order of a gay New Yorker's conception of what a cheerful public house should be, but not offensively so. There were no guests at the time. The place, like the owner, could be easily diverted into one of two opposing characters. Cleary himself expressed it.

"You see, I was always on the fence. I was an innkeeper all right, but I was a square one. I bought out my boss but I wouldn't sell spirits to anyone who didn't know how to take care of himself. I ran a theatrical hotel, but believe me, there's as decent souls in that line as you can find anywhere. I made my little nest egg and I beat it out here with it. I like the white lights some—and I like the quiet country, too! What's more, I've come to a time of life when I like quiet things better than the Broadway racket."

"But, shucks, when I tried to get sociable with the folks out here they gave me the fright look. So says I to myself, I might as well get hung for a goat as for a sheep. If country folks won't have me, I'll cater to the sporting crowd and get my society that way. There's more money in them anyway, in the wine crowd, though money ain't the only consideration. But if the town took me into their midst I'd make a quiet family party affair out of this place. It's up to the folks here."

"Then they shall take you in!" said Edith determinedly.

"I doubt it!" Cleary said, and John Ferrol's face showed he agreed with Cleary.

"You shall be convinced!" Edith cried, struck with an idea. "Will you be willing to give a house-warming if I get the people to come?"

"Will I? I should say so!"

"Then send out invitations for a dance here Saturday night and I'll get Arcadia to come!" Edith said.

Cleary assented eagerly but did not give up his doubts. He sent out a brightly conceived card of invitation, Edith's work, and asked for responses from those who expected to come.

Edith went among her neighbors and tried to dissipate the impression Arcadians had of the inn and its owner. Since she had begun her business relations with him, Edith became momentarily fonder of the honest, simple-hearted ex-bartender. The work too, was all he had promised it would be—only an hour or two of supervision over the chefs. Her share of the profits came to no less than what it was when she tolled at the preserves with her own hands.

But on the morning of the house-warming at the inn only the Ferrols, the Fenns and the Blakes had accepted Cleary's invitation!

Red Cross Notes

The Surgeon-General of the public health service has issued the following statement in regard to the need for nurses.

"Great Need of Nurses. Owing to the rapid spread of the present epidemic of influenza the safety of this country demands that all patriotic available nurses, nurses' aids or anyone with experience in nursing, place themselves at once at the disposal of the government."

"In order that the nursing resources of the country may be mobilized to assist in the control of the influenza epidemic, practicing physicians in general and specialists in medicine in particular are urgently requested to release from attendance on chronic cases and all other cases which are not critically ill, every nurse working under their direction who can possibly be temporarily spared from such duty."

"Graduate nurses, undergraduate nurses' aids and volunteers are urged to give (telegraph collect if necessary) their names, addresses, qualifications and earliest possible date of availability to their local Red Cross chapter."

Signed, RUPERT BLUE, Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service.

The Wayne County chapter of the American Red Cross in compliance with Surgeon General Blue's request and also as part of a general nursing survey of the country requested by Surgeon General Gorgas of the Army, is endeavoring to secure complete information in regard to the training and experience of all the nurses in the county.

The survey included not only graduate nurses, but nurses who for any reason have not finished their training, pupil nurses, practical nurses and women who have taken any or all of the Red Cross courses in First Aid, Home Care of the Sick, etc.

The chapter has secured as complete lists as possible of these various groups and blanks on which to enter the necessary information will be sent to them as rapidly as possible. The chapter is very anxious, however, to have the data as complete as possible and on account of the urgency of the need for listing all available nurses, any who have not received blank forms may stop at the Red Cross headquarters and fill them out or if they will telephone their names and addresses to the headquarters, the blanks will be mailed to them.

The group of graduate and pupil nurses has been practically finished, but there is considerable difficulty in getting in touch with all of the practical nurses in the county and the chapter is particularly anxious to have the necessary information in regard to them.

The Greene township branch of Red Cross met at the Red Cross rooms Oct. 3, to do relief work for the Belgians and to elect new officers for the coming year. After completing eight comforts and other articles the report by the secretary was read as follows: Return to county chapter.

SPANISH INFLUENZA—WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT SHOULD BE TREATED

Nothing New—Simply The Old Grip, or la Grippe That Was Epidemic in 1889-90, Only Then It Came From Russia by Way of France and This Time by Way of Spain.

Go to Bed and Stay Quiet—Take A Laxative—Eat Plenty of Nourishing Food—Keep up Your Strength—Nature Is The "Cure."

ALWAYS CALL A DOCTOR

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC

Spanish influenza, which appeared in Spain in May, has all the appearance of grip or la grippe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C., which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities—not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally patients in a run down condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

THE SYMPTOMS

Grippe, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, oftentimes a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT

Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your own sake but to avoid spreading the disease to others—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Quinine, aspirin or Dover's Powder, etc., may be administered by the physician's directions to relieve the aching. But there is no cure or specific for influenza—the disease must run its course. Nature herself will throw off the attack if only you keep up your strength. The chief danger lies in the complications which may arise. Influenza so weakens the bodily resistance that there is danger of pneumonia or bronchitis developing, and sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 50 or not strong, stay in bed four days or more, according to the severity of the attack.

EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS

In order to stimulate the lining of the air passages to throw off the grippe germs, to aid in loosening the phlegm and keeping the air passages open, thus making the breathing easier, Vick's VapoRub will be found effective. Hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then VapoRub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red, spread on thickly and covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the cloths, as loose around the neck as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time, VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the surface, and thus aids in relieving the congestion within.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE

Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spread principally by human contact, chiefly through coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds—which means avoiding crowds—common drinking cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in the open air, and good food. Above all, keep free from colds, as colds irritate the lining of the air passages and render them much better breeding places for the germs.

Use Vick's VapoRub at the very first sign of a cold. For a head cold, melt a little VapoRub in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use VapoRub in a benzoin steam kettle. If this is not available, use an ordinary tea-kettle. Fill half full of boiling water, put in half a teaspoon of VapoRub from time to time—keep the kettle just slowly boiling and inhale the steam arising.

NOTE—Vick's VapoRub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, who found how to combine, in safe form, Menthol and Camphor with such volatile oils as Eucalyptus, Thyme, Cubeb, etc., so that when the salve is applied to the body heat, these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors.

VapoRub is comparatively new in New York State and New England and a few Western states where it is just now being introduced, but in other sections of the country it is the standard home remedy in more than a million homes for all forms of cold troubles. Over six million jars were sold last year. It is particularly recommended for children's croup or colds, since it is externally applied and therefore can be used as freely as desired without the slightest harmful effects. VapoRub can be had in three sizes at all druggists.—Adv.
