

SKINNER-AUSTIN FARM SALE NETS OVER FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS

BY WILLIAM R. SANBORN

It was a day when the cold, damp wind cut deeply and the fire was temptingly inviting. One would have imagined that a man must have been in dire need of something that was to be sold, to go out in quest of it in such weather as we met up with on Wednesday, especially after the brilliance and warmth of Tuesday, with its various farm sales.

But one who is an optimist remarked at the close of the sale that it was lucky for the boys that it was a cold day, as they had a better sale on account of it. When asked how it could benefit a farm sale to have men freeze on their feet, he "allowed" that if it had been spring-like most of them would have been plowing, instead of spending their money at the call of the auctioneer.

How does that kind of philosophy strike you, neighbor?

The Bert Skinner and B. W. Austin sale on Wednesday was held on the Austin farm, four miles west of Centerville on the National road, traction stop number 132. This location invited Richmond and Centerville folks, because they could travel in warm cars at little cost, and many of them attended the sale, as friends of the saleholders. The comfortable farm home was filled to overflow with ladies and children, whose husbands and fathers were foraging for bargains, or who had come to help the boys put the sale over.

A Dissolution Sale.

The Skinner-Austin sale was a clean-up between partners. Mr. Skinner has been running the farm for the past two years and having recently secured a good position with the International Harvester company was ready to quit the soil. Walter Mulligan and two of his brothers, having no such luck, are now to plow and sow the Austin acres, as were among the eager buyers on Wednesday. The crowd was not overly large, as sale crowds go, but it was big enough to make a clearance at fair prices and in such cases "enough is sufficient."

Live Stock Offerings.

Sixty-one head of stock were listed; consisting of 4 head of horses, 21 of cattle, 35 of hogs and 21 of sheep. The cattle were principally White Faced, and a thriving bunch it was. In the contest for the four horses a choice went to Linn Nicholson at $200. A dark bay gelding was bid in by Clyde Watt at $156; Ed Woolridge paid $81 for his brown mare, and a blind horse, a really good animal otherwise, sold to H. E. Bailey for $73.

When the cattle came into view on the lee side of the big barn, John F. Maher of Richmond, went into action. John got a big White Face at $159, one with the appearance of the Herford sires often sold at breeders' sales for $100 and up, in the "palmy days," and which are by no means cheap even now. Mr. Maher persisted in spending his money until Jake Haines, cashier, figured that a check for $172.50 was immediately due and payable. Mr. Maher is entitled to the honor accruing to the man who bid the top dollar on cows, his choice costing him $63. Frank Jacobs settled of $380 with of cows and calves. Willard Cook paid $64 and $69 for 2 cows.

The hogs offered were double im-munized and sold quickly at fair prices as to weight, etc. Perry Wilson paid $8 per head for one pen of little fellows; Omar Neff got a pen at $10.70 each; Arthur La Motte bought to pens of shotes, one at $12.60, the other at $14.75 per head. Bred sows went at fair sale prices; up to the recent averages paid.

In the sheep line prices averaged low; Verne D. Hays secured eight at $10.50 and J. LaMotte twelve head at $16.25. Five tons of good hay sold at $20 and $21, and 12 bushels of both white and yellow seed corn averaged around $2 per bushel and went to various buyers. One of the bargains of the day was a good farm wagon which Dug Monger picked up at $79 complete. A forge in first-class shape sold to R. P. McMahan at $39, and a complete wood-sawing outfit in good shape was bid in by Orville Burg for $305. A blacksmith anvil and a lot of tools, nothing of the kind ever coming up,

Is Your Home Just a "roof over your head?"

TO lots of folks, "home" is merely the place where they "hang their hat." It is a dull, uninteresting sort of place where they go to eat and sleep! And many parents as well as young couples make the mistake of trying to "live" in houses without any of the real comforts of home.

It was to help these very people that the credit system of buying furniture was first inaugurated. Most young couples marry without the means to furnish their entire homes at once. Many of them are unfamiliar with the modern credit system that enables them to furnish their entire homes upon the payment of a small sum down and the balance on easy terms. Hence this series of editorials. If you want to make "home" mean something to yourselves and your children, make it comfortable and attractive. Good furniture will be of great assistance.

REED'S

GATE GUARD AT THE INTER-STATE SAYS: "SUDDENLY MY NERVES GAVE OUT AND I COULD HARDLY WALK; PEPGEN AIDED ME"

Scores Now Possess Strength, Vigor and Energy they Had Thought Lost Forever.

A NON-SECRET TONIC

In all parts of Muncie as well as Richmond and throughout the state of Indiana people praise Peppen today because Peppen has given them better health, more strength, more vigor and ambition to work and win.

Merely existing—breathing, eating, sleeping, working and dragging about from one spot to another without any real interest—is not living. To live means to be thoroughly alive in every way—to hope happily and confidently and to have faith in one's self, to have a purpose and to work constantly with joy to accomplish that purpose.

People without health cannot be thoroughly alive. A part of them is not alive. It may be energy that has passed away. It may be ambition that is dead, it may be hope that is asleep. It may be that health itself, which comes from energy, strength and hope, is stupefied. Such people to become thoroughly alive must coax back health and keep it.

Peppen has helped hundreds of people to coax back health, which they had thought lost to them forever, to coax back energy, strength and hope that is found only in people bubbling over with health.

R. L. MORROW.

Peppen has won the public confidence, first because it brought desired relief, second, because it is non-secret and therefore shows that no habit-forming ingredients are used in its making, and third, because it contains no alcohol, a stimulant which often gives but temporary benefit while the effects derived from Peppen are justly claimed to be more lasting.

The story of R. L. Morrow, gate guard at the Inter-State, who lives at 912 South Grant street, Muncie, is an example of what others are telling. Mr. Morrow says: "I had not been feeling just right for several months anywhere."

A Hundred Tongues Too Feeble to Express Gratitude of Many Muncie People.

NO ALCOHOL IS USED

"My stomach annoyed me a great deal. My food would sour and hot, bitter fluids would come up into my throat and mouth. After eating I felt uncomfortable as if a heavy load was in my stomach. My back ached until at times I thought I could scarcely stand it. It just took all of the life out of me, so to speak. On a Sunday afternoon, not long ago, I thought I would take a little walk. I believed the exercise might do me good. I got several blocks away from my home when my nerves seemed to give entirely out. I got so dizzy that I grabbed hold of a gate to keep from falling. A man came from the house and helped me inside. He gave me a dose of Peppen. That seemed to fix me right up. I felt better in a little while and soon started for my home."

"The next day I got a bottle of Peppen and have been taking it steadily. I feel a whole world better than I did. I do not have any more of those dizzy spells. My stomach is in fine condition. I eat whatever I want and feel stronger in every way. If you are likewise troubled, try Peppen. It may be obtained at the Thistlethwaite Drug Stores in Richmond or from any first-class druggist anywhere."

RICHMOND FIREMAN, HOSE HOUSE NO. 4 PRAISES NEW MEDICINE; SAYS, "I NEVER FELT BETTER"

Here's good news for those who suffer with indigestion. Earl Williams, city fireman, hose house No. 4, who lives at 1214 South E street, Richmond, suffered just as badly perhaps, with stomach trouble as you do. He took Peppen. The result is best told in his own words:

"For several months I suffered with dyspepsia," says Mr. Williams. "After meals my stomach would growl and rumble. This of course, was because my food soured and fermented and then turned to gas. I noticed Peppen being advertised here in the newspapers. I decided to give it a trial. I went to Thistlethwaite's drug store and obtained a bottle. It gave me wonderful relief. I can eat my meals in comfort now. I do not have to suffer afterwards. I am glad to recommend Peppen."

The one great thing which fills the universe in the modern life of man is action. It is safe to say that if one-tenth of one per cent of the time we spend in gaining riches were devoted to gaining health that fifty per cent of sickness could be eliminated.

Through the failure of some organ the tissues break down and in cases of this kind Peppen has been found an ideal tonic and invigorator.

It has an excellent effect upon digestion and here it lies one of its greatest virtues. With the digestive tract in perfect order the other organs are not apt to shirk their duty. Peppen is of value in indigestion, dyspepsia, backache, constipation and other ailments which come from deranged stomach, kidneys and liver.

20TH ST. WOMAN IS RELIEVED OF BURNING FEELING

Food Soured and Irritated Mem-branes of Mrs. Parry's Stomach.

"Before I took Peppen I suffered a great deal with my stomach. I could eat only certain foods," says Mrs. George Parry, 419 North Twentieth street, Richmond. "If I ate anything rich or greasy I was sure to have an attack of indigestion. The food soured in my stomach, turned to acid and irritated the membranes of my stomach. This caused a burning feeling. I have taken a great many medicines but I must say that Peppen helped me more than anything I ever took."

If a piece of meat is laid in a cold, dry pot it gives off no strength. But if water is poured upon it and fire is built under it the strength and nutrition are given off into the boiling water and a fattening broth is made. The water and heat have made the nutritiveness of the meat into a form that can be used.

If foods are taken into the stomach and no digestive juices are applied to them they are like the piece of meat in the cold, dry pot. They give off no strength—they lie there without nourishing the body. They turn to acid and irritate the stomach. Peppen is delicately adapted to stomach needs. It stimulates the flow of the digestive juices which prepare the food so that it may be assimilated, absorbed into the blood and distributed as strength and vitality in the system.

Taking Peppen is a reasonable way of building health because it assists Nature to turn food into blood, bone and muscle.

NERVES BEST IN FOURTEEN YEARS

Mrs. Blim Attributes Her Improvement to New Non-Alcoholic Tonic.

Mrs. Christy Blim, 825 West Charles street, Muncie, simply had to have relief. She tried Peppen, the new non-alcoholic stomach, kidney and liver tonic. That she was relieved is quite certain. Here's her story:

"My nerves are stronger and my stomach is in better condition today than it has been at any time in fourteen years. I attribute my improved health to the fact that I have been taking Peppen," says Mrs. Blim. "It seemed to take hold of me like a charm. I was in a badly run-down way when I started."

"My meals disagreed with me and for that reason I didn't eat sufficiently to keep up my strength. I saw Peppen advertised in the Muncie newspapers and for that reason I knew it must contain merit. Then I inquired about Peppen at one of our leading drug stores. The manager of the store told me they had written statements from scores of people telling how it had relieved them."

"I took a bottle home and now I am sincerely glad I did so, for like those other people who were relieved I am voluntarily telling my experience about how it relieved me."

TERRE HAUTE MAN IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Wife Tells How Husband Suffered and Was Relieved.

The personal experience of Walter Luther, miner, 1727 North Fourth St., Terre Haute, with Peppen, is the reflection of hundreds of people in that city who are equally as well pleased as the people of Muncie and Richmond.

WALTER LUTHER

The rapid manner in which Peppen relieved my husband is little short of marvelous, declares Mr. Luther's wife, who relates the following story:

"My husband suffered with severe pains in his back. I don't think it was a case of rheumatism, but his kidneys were out of order and that seemed to upset his entire system. He complained that his food did not agree with him and that he frequently was annoyed with sour stomach, heartburn and indigestion. There were a great many foods that he didn't dare touch if he did he was sure to have misery. Gradually his appetite left him and he grew weak from under nourishment."

"He was feeling very bad when he started to take Peppen. It is a little short of marvelous how the tonic helped him. He has a splendid appetite and can eat anything that is set before him. He looks brighter and he tells me he feels stronger. We gave some Peppen to a friend of ours who was having trouble with her stomach. I saw her a few days since and she told me it was certainly fine medicine and that she was going right away and get a bottle."

The most reasonable, rational method of restoring health, when weakness first appears is by the "Tonic Route." A tonic builds, refreshes and rejuvenates. Peppen has been proclaimed as a most valuable tonic.

Peppen is especially intended for nervous, run-down men and women who have poor digestion and who cannot sleep soundly. It promotes strength and energy for work.

EVERY JOINT HAD PAIN! SAYS ALLEN

"I had a bad attack of rheumatism when I started taking Peppen," says C. H. Allen, 1605 Kirby avenue, Muncie, who is employed at the Muncie Wheel Works. "The pains were severe and I felt miserable all over. My appetite was poor and I was nervous, too. I got up in the mornings tired and draggy, with aches and pains running through every joint."

"I have taken Peppen for a short time only and already I am much better. I have great confidence in Peppen and do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends."

MAKE YOUR TIRED, ACHING FEET FEEL EASY WITH A MUSTARD BATH: DRIVES SORENESS OUT

Rightly used, there is nothing better for tired aching feet than ordinary mustard. Everybody knows the old fashioned mustard plaster was a good thing to relieve pain, but it blistered. The mustard should be used in the form of a liniment to get best results. Mustard liniments penetrate without much rubbing and impart a pleasant, soothing warmth to the skin without blistering.

A good liniment is made of mustard, red pepper, saffron, menthol and ammonia. Apply it to the feet in the form of a liniment to get best results. It is also a splendid external application in rheumatism, lumbago, muscular soreness, coughs, colds and pleurisy. It relieves pains and assists internal remedies to rid you of ailments.

The above prescription with added ingredients already prepared, may be obtained under the name of Peppen Liniment at Thistlethwaite's Drug Stores or from any other first class druggists in Richmond or nearby cities.
