

GRAND JURIES TO PROBE FOOD CASES IN OHIO

Prosecutors Act Immediately for County Investigation of Profiteering Charges.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 1.—Returning to their home counties after hearing the necessity for a food cost investigation discussed by Governor John M. Cox and Attorney-General James G. Price, and receiving pointers as to best methods of conducting investigations, a number of the 83 County Prosecutors who attended the conference took steps today to have the grand juries at work within a few days.

Through these grand jury investigations they hope to learn the reasons for the high cost of living and to obtain evidence on which to base criminal indictments against persons who may be deemed to be guilty of having profiteered and manipulated prices to control markets.

Cox demands results. Although efforts will be made by Attorney-General Price to obtain sanction of the National Association of State Attorneys-General at its Boston convention in September for a Federal investigation of food costs, no effort will be spared to push the Ohio investigation in an effort to bring about reduction of prices within the state and to punish those guilty of law violations insofar as the Ohio laws will permit.

This was made plain by both Governor Cox and Attorney-General Price. The Governor has told the Prosecutors that he will exact from them strict compliance with official duties.

Attacks Bureaucracy. "The Syndicalist rejects all power of the state and says that all trades should be managed by unions, and by inter-relationships between groups," said Thomas.

"I do not believe in that. But I do believe in the danger of bureaucracy, through which a man gets his job by appointment, and then lords it over those under him. For instance, I question what should be done with the capitalists who put Burselon in. Ask the postoffice employees of the country how much democracy they have gotten while he has been head of the show."

The nearest approach to the French idea of syndicalism in America is the I. W. W. Thomas said. American syndicalists helping very little. They have not cared, said he, about the negro, until lately, and they have not helped the immigrant. They have not cared for anything but their own political success.

"Democracy Not Handshaking. "Democracy is not that men shake hands before election, or before a Y. M. C. A. meeting, nor is it that kind which we heard expounded during the war about the millionaire's son and his chauffeur associating as brothers in the army. After while the millionaire's son became an officer, you know, or else came back to his old life and standing after the war. There are more fundamental ways through which true democracy may be secured—through which class distinction is to be done away with, and a result of search for this is the establishment of socialism," said Thomas.

What do you use as a book marker? Everything from hair to bank checks are found in books that are returned to the library. Why, such things should be used as book markers is a puzzle to the librarians.

A few of the articles are buttons, hair, scraps of silk and calico, shoe buttons and buttoners, combs, hairpins, letters, bank checks, paper knives, pen knives and pieces of paper.

RADICALISM SIGN OF FUNDAMENTAL WRONGS, THOMAS TELLS YOUNG FRIENDS

"I do not believe in the I. W. W., because I am not a syndicalist, and because I do not believe in certain other of their doctrines, but I do say to you that the I. W. W. has a theory which has to be reckoned with because of some of its good points and because of the I. W. W. do care for the under dog," said Norman Thomas, editor of the "World Tomorrow" in the open lecture before the Young Friends conference Friday on the Reid Field bleacher at Earlham College. Owing to the inclement weather the lecture was delivered under protection of the baseball grandstand.

Warning his audiences of the extent to which an organization, for which men and women will die, has to be reckoned with, Thomas said:

"I am sorry to say that today it looks as if there are more men and women willing to die for the teachings of Karl Marx than there are to perish for the sake of Jesus Christ. So long as there are men of the type of hoboes, in the world, so long as there are men who are deprived of the association of women and children, wanderers from one work to another, and so long as men can be arrested on reasons trumped up by their bosses, let society beware! And I suggest that you consider the passion, and the spirit that urges men on in the interests of organizations like the I. W. W."

Examiners Half Done With County's Books

Only about half done are Birney R. Spradling and George C. Terrill, traveling auditors of the state board of accounts, who have been in Wayne county for two months or more, making their annual inspection of books.

Reports on the county books and on those of five of the county's outlying townships have been completed, but the city of Richmond and the larger corporations of the county, and the rest of the township, are still to be done. The examiners are now working on the books of the school city of Richmond.

"PATRIOT LEGION" IS SUGGESTION FOR LOCAL POST NAME

A list of names has been sent to the American Legion editor of The Palladium in an attempt to win the $50 prize offered by William Romey, for the best title for the local American Legion post, by F. M. B.

"Wayne's Legion of Independence, Loyal Legion of Patriots, Wayne's Legion for Democracy, Knights of U. S. A., Patriots of Wayne County, Wayne's Knights of Humanity," are among the suggestions.

"The theme in all of these is practically the same," says F. M. B. "Any phrase, no matter what combination of words we might select, is inadequate in expressing our appreciation of what is due these brave and patriotic men from Wayne county; they who were a part of that human barrier which kept the enemy from us."

E. K. R. of Milton suggests the name of Standard for the local post, and G. F. suggests "Wayne Legion of Freedom," because the United States has never fought for anything but freedom.

Bond

Let's add an average of five bushels to the 1920 wheat crop of Wayne County.

A $100 Victory Bond is Waiting for An Indiana Wheat Grower

That they may show their appreciation of the continued and increasing patronage of Indiana farmers and that this appreciation may help find out just what combinations of plant food will make the largest yields at the least expense, the Federal Chemical Company of Louisville, Ky., manufacturers of the old reliable Globe Fertilizer, offer a $100.00 Victory Bond to the Indiana farmer who makes the largest yield and the best sample of grain where their fertilizer was used.

We Want You To Win

You who have a bumper crop of wheat in which the Federal Chemical Company's fertilizer was used, come in and get an entry blank. Bring twenty selected stalks or a quart of the grain, and let's win the prize for Wayne county.

Samples of the best crops from every part of the State will be exhibited at the Federal Chemical Company's both at the Indiana State Fair, and a full description of the methods of soil preparation—seeding and fertilization on the different types of soil—will be furnished to every farmer who wants to learn the way to make more money from his fertilizer investment and to raise better crops of wheat.

You Can Have a Prize-Winning Crop Next Year

If you use other fertilizer, you will want to get full details of the means used by hundreds of Indiana's best farmers to get ten, fifteen and even twenty bushels more than the average yield.

Come in and give us your name, and when the book of experience, telling how these big yields were made, is published, a copy will be mailed to you.

Get the Benefit for Your 1920 Crop

Details of the Indiana Wheat Growers' Contest are being mailed to us as fast as the reports come in. The results of the use that has been made of different kinds and amounts of fertilizer are sent to us to help our customers get better profits on the next crop.

You are cordially invited to come in and let us show you how thirty-five years of experience in the manufacture of fertilizers, the co-operation of hundreds of Indiana's best wheat growers and our knowledge of soil and crop conditions in Wayne county can be combined to get you larger returns from your fertilizer investment.
