

GLEN HAS BECOME PICNIC PLACE FOR COUNTY AND CENTRAL WEST

NOTHING has ever quite taken the place of real for sure open air and nature. Perhaps this is why Glen Miller park has never lost its charm, and why the kids who were "dead crazy" about it a score, or maybe two score years ago, still beat the paths Sunday and other holidays.

The popularity of Richmond's park has spread in the years since its opening until it is no longer a city playground, or even the chief meeting place of the county. It is known all over this part of the state, and by thousands of tourists from the central west.

Last Sunday was the biggest day of the season at the Glen, and visitors there, as early as seven o'clock in the morning any day since then, have had the impression that the people who came Sunday haven't all gotten out yet. Dozens of people have gone to the park at all hours of the day all summer but the last has proved the park's powers to draw not only Richmond folks, but those of Wayne and Preble, and from as far as Connecticut, and Texas and Kentucky.

Tourists From Seven States
"We have had tourists from as many as seven states camping over night in the park during the past week or so, and every one of them praised the beauty, the fine roads, the splendid water, and the general advantages of the park," said Superintendent Ed. Hollam.

In some other cities in the country parks are opened to tourists upon the payment of certain fees. In these parks specified plots of ground must be used owing to the smaller amount of land, but in Glen park no fee is asked and tourists with camping outfits are given the choice of the great stretch of ground west of the front spring, immediately north of the section occupied by the chaletauqua each year.

All that is asked of such tourists is that they build no fires and conduct themselves with proper decorum. No objectionable parties have so far applied for this privilege, the park superintendent says.

Early in the season Superintendent Hollam sent out picture cards of the park to the various automobile clubs of the country. The cards explained that the Glen was open for all tourists who wished to spread their tents for the night. These cards also spread money in Richmond for provisions, the superintendent points out.

Great Reunions Held
Every kind of party from small one family picnics to great family reunions, bringing together members of families from every part of the country, are held in Glen park each year, and it is estimated that nearly 2,000 persons have attended the reunions held in the park during the past week.

Several other reunions have notified the superintendent that they will meet there during the coming week. Last Saturday and Sunday the drain on tables and benches to supply two large reunion parties of six and seven hundred people each was so great that wagon beds and stray boards had to be recruited for the occasion and camouflaged into dining tables; only 50 tables and 300 benches are available.

"First come, first served, is the only way I can arrange the picnic table and chair proposition," says Hollam.

"It would be impossible for me to try to reserve tables and chairs for individual parties, as the park is a public institution and open to everyone who conducts himself properly."

Nearly every part of the state has at some time or other during the summer sent a party to the Glen. People come miles just to picnic there, they have told the park superintendent.

A great interest, even greater than that of the city and town people, is taken in the park by people from the rural districts. They invariably come early and leave early in the afternoon, in order to get the farm duties done in the evening.

Go Home; Do Chores.
"I couldn't understand for a long time why such a mob of people began leaving about 4 o'clock in the afternoon," said Hollam.

"So I asked some of them what the idea was and got the same answer from all—that the milking and other farm business had to be gotten out of the way in the evening, so they took the warm part of the day for their rest and pleasure and got home in the cool of the evening."

"It seems to me that a lot of city folks could not do better than to come to the park instead of trying to find some 'rural country' when the country folks themselves come into the park."

The park never has been in better trim than it is this summer. Every effort is being made to perfect it in as many ways as the park funds will permit. This means that all improvements, additions and general upkeep must be carried on not only in Glen Miller park but in the South Tenth street park, the Star park, the West Side park and the South Seventh street park, with the park labor fund of $5,000 per annum, and no one knows just what that means, Hollam says.

Kids Are Special Guests.
As a means of making the main walk safer from the falls-bridge to the hill-road, a path is being laid, so that strollers will not have to walk in the main road. The path will be completed by the end of the week, it is said. All gravel and rough stones have been removed from the water under and east of the third park bridge from the central main street opening to the park. The water is to be dammed there for the benefit of the children who wish to wade. Coarse sand and a few large round rocks now form the brook bed and already a number of children have taken advantage of the opportunity to get their feet into the clear if somewhat icy water. On Tuesday from five to ten small boys and an occasional little girl occupied the brook all day.

Remarkable six by ten inch bows, and other luxuries can be used here and doubtless this brook has added much to the attractiveness of the park among the younger set.

Two hundred feet of brick curbing has recently been put in along part of the deer park road, widening the driveway and making it much safer for pedestrians and motorists.

Animals Popular.
Of never ending joy, too, is the wild animal department. Torrents and fountains of laughter ascend from the bewitched groups of kids who stand around the Red Fox cage on Thursday.

The bright baby foxes took it into their heads to tussle over a discarded peafowl feather which some mischievous one had pushed into their cage, and their antics were an excellent vaudeville show.

Passing on to the hoot owls, the kids stood in subdued admiration of the wisdom portrayed in the wise old faces. One of the meanest things which the young visitors do, is the aggravation and tormentation which they thrust upon the squawking parrots.

Although other of the park zoo animals have their own charm, and bring interested groups of visitors to watch their antics, no family has anything on the monkeys. The park superintendent has had to bring benches from all parts of the grounds to accommodate the crowds who want to "just sit and watch 'em act like folks."

The older ringtail and his two-months' younger pal have found their way into the hearts of thousands of people during the past season, and their "season" is not over yet.

The Glen green houses are the best in any part in this part of the country. Hollam thinks. Recently some hot beds accommodating as many plants as any one of the houses have also been added to the flower department.

About the first of October the chrysanthemum exhibits in the main green house will be ready and visitors will be welcome at any time to see the flowers, which are expected to be especially beautiful. The E. G. Hill company has given over 300 flag (iris) plants to the park and these are being planted south of the bear pit, in a space which has never been decorated before.

FORD GETS SIX CENTS DAMAGES IN SUIT

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 15.—A jury last night awarded Henry Ford 6 cents damages against the Chicago Daily Tribune for calling him an anarchist. The jury had been hearing testimony and arguments for three months in Mr. Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit against the Tribune, which had characterized him as an "anarchist" in an editorial concerning his alleged pacifist tendencies. Orvy Hulett, foreman of the jury, said that it took "nine ballots that I can remember." The first one, according to Leonard Messel, another juror, stood 3 to 4 in favor of awarding Mr. Ford some damages.

Boston and Maine strikers, who voted early in the week, were said to oppose going back until their grievances had been adjusted, but there were indications that the New Haven men favored the adoption of President Wilson's recommendation for an immediate return.

Strike leaders announced that a vote to return would send the men back to their places Saturday, but that a majority expression to the contrary would add to the present railroad tie-up by bringing out the shopmen and mechanics of the Central Vermont.

MRS. PARKS SAT IN A CHAIR ALL NIGHT, SHE SAYS

Was Almost a Physical Wreck From Five Years Trouble—Gains Fourteen Pounds.

"Since Tanlac has done so much for me I can't help but think of others who need it like I do, and I feel that I ought to tell them about it," said Mrs. A. Parks, of 1009 East Ohio street, Indianapolis, in an interesting interview, recently. Mrs. Parks was born and reared in Indianapolis. She also resided in Alexandria for sixteen years. Her many friends will be glad to learn of her complete restoration to health.

"I had the surprise of my life," continued Mrs. Parks, "when I got on the scales, after taking Tanlac for two weeks, and found that I had actually gained seven pounds. I was feeling lots better, but I had no idea one could gain so much in so short a time. Well, it has been another two weeks now since I weighed and I have easily gained seven pounds more. I certainly do feel a thousand times better, and I would not take a hundred dollars for what Tanlac has done for me already."

"At the time I began taking this medicine I was almost a physical wreck as a result of stomach trouble and indigestion from which I had suffered for five years. Just since last year I have been losing weight, losing weight, going down from one hundred and forty-eight to one hundred and three. I just looked like I was going to be going away to skin and bones and I lost strength so fast that it alarmed me. I kept taking medicine, but it didn't seem to do much good. I could not eat anything but what would sour causing gas, bloating and pains that I could hardly endure. The gas pressing on my heart would cause me untold misery. I would wake up at night gasping for breath and would have to get out of bed and sit in a chair the rest of the night. I got so I was actually afraid to go to bed, and some nights would sit up in a chair all night long, dosing off only for a few minutes at a time. My nerves were in such a bad fix that I would worry all the time about the most trivial things. The least noise about the house would frighten me almost out of my wits and set my nerves jumping like a person with a chill. I would have given anything to be able to take a good, deep breath, but it seemed that by the time I had my lungs full of air I would choke up and begin fighting for breath. My kidneys and bladder bothered me, I was constipated all the time, and had just one continual headache."

"When I read about Tanlac in the Indianapolis papers I just sent right down and got a bottle, for I knew a lady in Alexandria whose condition was exactly like mine and she took Tanlac and gained thirty pounds. I felt sure it would help me, and it has not only helped me it has made me feel like an entirely different person. I can eat just anything I want now and am never troubled any more with sourness, gas, pain or shortness of breath. I can lie down at night and breathe as easy as a baby and sleep the night through. My kidneys and bladder never bother me any more and I am also free from constipation and headache. I have eight large rooms to live in now every day but my work doesn't tire me like it did before. My appetite is just fine and life is altogether different with me. I just can't praise Tanlac too highly for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Richmond by Clem Thistlethwaite; in Greensfork by C. D. Somline; in Cambridge City by Mr. Dean House; in Pershing by Sourber & Rodenberg; in Centerville by Centerville Pharmacy; and in Milton by W. L. Parkins.—Adv.
