HOW TO STOP BEING NERVOUS

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Strengthen Weak Nerves and Increase Strength and Vigor

According to a noted French Scientist, the most effective remedy for nervousness, insomnia and ailments due to depleted nerve force, is a form of organic phosphate known among druggists in this country as Bitro-Phosphate.

It is described as a substance which is similar in composition to the phosphorus naturally found in brain and nerve cells and, being easily and quickly assimilated, the work of creating nerve force, strength and vigor begins immediately it is taken into the human system.

There are many reports of astonishing results from its use, some showing remarkable improvement even in stubborn cases of long standing nerve weakness. As there are many kinds of phosphates, care should be exercised to procure the genuine Bitro-Phosphate as sold by the Conkey Drug Co. in Richmond and all good druggists.—Adv.

CRISIS FACING UNITED STATES LEWIS DECLARES

Must Keep Army and Navy Prepared for Any Eventuality, States Senator.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Addressing the Lawyers' Association of Illinois at the Auditorium last night Senator James Hamilton Lewis declared that the country is facing a critical period and that the thing most necessary is to keep the army and navy prepared for any eventuality. He declared that Bolshevism should be stamped out and that all loyal Americans should cooperate in seeing that the traditions and ideals of America are not overturned.

Discussing the Mexican situation he said: "Let those governing Mexico know that the Democratic administration of President Wilson, backed by a Republican Congress, is determined to protect American lives and American rights in Mexico. This will be done even if taking control of Mexico by force is made necessary. President Wilson and Congress have proven to the world that they had exhausted the patience of all Christian people watching and waiting for Mexico to keep its promise to protect the citizens and the property of the United States."

"Your political vendors are dead," said Mr. Lewis. "Your new political tomorrows are beginning today. There are no political parties in the United States now aligned on any issues through which any American citizen has lived. The future great issue for the American is to answer the question—shall the United States remain an isolated state of government, with no political or commercial affiliations with nations of the earth, to depend on its armies and navies for its security against all rivalry or antagonism from the world; or shall it be a government of the earth, united in common objects for peace and commercial welfare with the governments of civilization—and sustained in its national life by the mutual dependency of each nation of the world will bear to each other. In plain terms—are we to be alone and a part from the world, or a government controlling the world?"

"The President of the United States and his aids in all political parties proclaim that the hour of our national isolation is ended. That advance of science, improvements in navigation and commerce link us to the fates of the great peoples of the earth. They claim if we accept the situation as an associate, it is for our peace and blessing. That if we deny it we must prepare to sustain ourselves by force through perpetual conflict. On the other hand, most eminent and patriotic sources warn us that to join in common object with European nations is to lose our identity as a separate nation. These say that it is better to lose all the disadvantages of being alone—though opposed by all—than to take the profits of a joint arrangement and suffer the loss of the pride of separate position and freedom in an exclusive life within ourselves."

The Theatres

MURRETTE
A delightful story in every respect, "Three Men and a Girl," Marguerite Clark's latest Paramount picture, which is shown at the Murrette theatre today, is based upon Edward Childs Carpenter's stage success, "The Three Bears," which was produced at the Empire Theatre, New York, in October, 1917.

The theatre deals with three men, all of them woman haters, and a vivacious girl who, to escape an odious marriage, finds refuge in the summer camp where the men had gone to escape women. One of these, Christopher Kent, is pursued by a woman, while Julius Vanzeman, a violinist, hates womenkind because he was jilted. Dr. Henry Forsyth, the third of the bears, as Sylvia Weston, the girl, calls them, is the self-constituted guardian of the others.

When Sylvia escapes from her home to avoid wedding the old man she despised, she flees to the woods and finds refuge in a summer camp where the three woman haters are living. When they return, they find her asleep upon a couch. They are extremely annoyed and Sylvia terms them bears and leaves them to take up her residence in a nearby house, with her nurse.

A dead line is established between the two habitations, but strangely enough, the haters of women seek to cross the dead line continually to talk to Sylvia whose beauty charms them. So it happens that she falls in love with Kent, the "little bear." The support is excellent.

MURRAY

Overalls are the most comfortable things a woman can wear. Peggy Hyland has discovered. She was converted to advocacy of this apparel by her experience in "Cheating Herself," her latest Fox comedy, which is now showing at the Murray theatre.

While Miss Hyland was filming scenes for this picture she was obliged to wear this masculine apparel. It was the first time she had done so—and it surely was not the last. She begged to be allowed to wear them for the rest of the afternoon. Although the succeeding scenes called for dresses, Miss Hyland persisted in wearing the overalls, and vowed she would purchase several pairs for home consumption.

"All women ought to wear them," was her comment. "They are especially fine for active women who like to hurdle over a fence once in a while."

WASHINGTON.
We saw "Oh, Boy!" as a musical comedy on the stage. We saw it at the Washington theatre last night as a feature motion picture. We found it as a motion picture in no way inferior to the stage production in entertainment quality. And this, by the way, is high praise for "Oh, Boy!" on the stage was a smashing success!

Mr. Albert Capellani, who as a motion picture director, has climbed high and fast, directed the picture. Mr. Capellani has been turning out a notable number of successes lately. His work is distinguished by its smoothness, attention to detail, artistic finish and inspirational treatment. Creighton Hale and June Caprice, two youthful and decidedly good looking players are co-starred in this production, while the supporting cast deserves more than a mere word of praise. There is the veteran actor, W. H. Thompson, who as the runaway bride's father, gives a most excellent performance, and who is always so thoroughly in his part that laugh after laugh did him tribute. There is Flora Finch, who with the late John Bunny, entertained so many persons. There is Zena Keefe as the lively musical comedy star who nearly breaks up two happy families. There is also a chap by the name of Conyers who plays the "constable" and plays him well. Here is a carefully chosen company who work well together under Mr. Capellani's direction and make a most merry, rollicking comedy-drama out of the famous musical comedy.

FITZGERALD AND CARROLL
Tramp Comedians. "The Last of The 400"

MIZPAH SELBINI AND COMPANY
The Wonder Woman of Vaudeville

PEGGY HYLAND in "CHEATING HERSELF"
Five-reel Fox production. "Better Come Early"

UNIQUE BILL OFFERED AT MURRAY, FIRST HALF

The new bill which opened yesterday at the Murray, was deprived of one of its regular acts, Mizpah Selbini and company, by the non-arrival of their baggage from Detroit. One of the ladies in Whitney's Dolls act supplied the vacancy by offering a very pleasing singing specialty. The missing luggage arrived today, however, so the bill will be seen tonight in its entirety. Fitzgerald and Carroll are two young men who work along the lines of Ward and Vokes when these tramp comedians were in their prime. Their sayings and parodies seemed to please the audience. Whitney's Operatic Dolls close the show with an act representing a stage upon a stage. You never see any more than their faces during the entire offering, as the bodies are adopted after the mannikin style. Peggy Hyland in her latest picture, "Cheating Herself" is the screen attraction. The bill closes Wednesday night.

Chick Evans Favorite in National Golf Tourney

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 19.—Charles (Chick) Evans, of Edgewater, present champion, was the favorite to win the national amateur golf championship at the Oakmont country club today when the first round of match play started. Evans brought $2,500 in $20,000 pools at the club. Robert Gardner of Chicago sold for $2,500, Francis Ouimet, of Woodland, $2,000, and Jerome Travers, of New York, $1,900.

The east had the largest representation in the match play, while the west depended on the champion and Gardner. The south's hopes rest on "Bobby" Jones of Atlanta, and Nelson Whitney of New Orleans. Public links players hoped that either James Manion or Richard Bockencamp, of St. Louis would win.

Meats in Storage Not "Hoarded"

Live stock is a seasonal crop—like cereals and grains.

It is "ripe" and is marketed in larger quantities in certain months. This causes a natural oversupply at one time and a natural shortage at another.

During the time of oversupply Swift & Company places some of the meat in cold storage, against the season of short production.

This is a necessity in order that the nation's ration of meat—58,000,000 pounds every day in the year—may be forthcoming as the consumer requires it.

This is not hoarding, not price manipulation, not market control. It is mere common sense.

United States Bureau of Markets' figures of stocks of frozen and cured meats July 1 are being used as a basis for Department of Justice investigations in many cities. When properly analyzed, based on Swift & Company's stocks, these figures show:

62 per cent (approximate) is pork and beef cuts, etc., cured and in process of curing. It takes 30 to 90 days in pickle or salt to complete the curing process.

12 per cent is frozen pork, of which more than three-quarters is to be cured in the next few months.

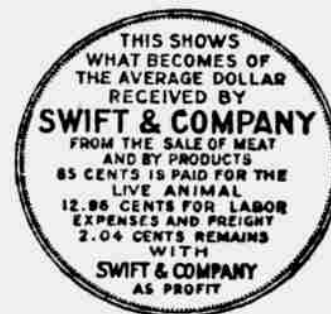

7 per cent is lard. This is a normal supply and only four-fifths of a pound per capita, and much of it will have to go to supply European needs.

19 per cent is frozen beef and lamb, and miscellaneous meats, part of which is owned by the Government and was intended chiefly for overseas shipment. If this were all diverted to domestic trade channels it would be only 2½ lbs. per capita—a 5 days' supply.

From this it will be seen that "meats in storage" represent unfinished goods in process of curing and the working supply necessary to assure the consumer a steady flow of finished product.
