

GROCCERS LEAD OFFENSIVE ON MEAT PACKERS

Control of Refrigerator Cars
Held Reason for Power—
Stock Raisers Head Defense

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Denunciation and defense of the "Big Five" packers, their methods and alleged control of the preparation and supply of foodstuffs were mingled in approximately equal proportions before the Senate Agricultural committee Thursday, as witnesses discussed the Kenyon bill, which proposes to license the concerns and to deprive them of refrigerator car and stockyard facilities.

Henry W. Lynce, representing stock raisers and their association in California, led the defense, while Louis H. Haney, of Jacksonville, Fla., appearing for the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association, made a direct and unqualified attack on the packers and their activities.

Denies Efficiency.
The packers' growth and strength, Mr. Haney asserted, was due not to their efficiency, but to their financial power and their control of the refrigerator car service, "which accords them the privileges of a common carrier, without a common carrier's responsibilities."

They now have 25 per cent of the wholesale grocery business in the United States, he said, and were tending toward monopoly. The wholesale grocers' interest in the situation, he said, paralleled that of the public, because the temporary policy of the packers in underselling jobbers of food and commodities would be abandoned whenever they attained practical monopoly.

Mr. Lynch said that "the packing industry represents the selling end of the stock raisers' business. When you demoralize or hamper that—as this bill does—you hurt us."

What Mrs. Trout Said

"There are lots of jokers in laws, although they may have philanthropic titles."

"Canute called to the waves to advance no farther, but he got wet. Nothing on earth can stop the advance of the women's suffrage movement."

"In the beginning God created man in his own image, male and female, and gave them dominion over all the earth, and it is useless to go contrary to the divine law for we know that some day men and women, though they may not now, will, with equal privileges, and opportunities, march forward side by side."

"Talk without ballots is like power without bullets—it makes a noise but doesn't produce an effect."

"Certainly the women of this country need to post themselves on all the great questions."

"The cause back of all suffering is sin, and with double moral standards for women and for men, no amount of medicine, science, philosophy, or legislation can help."

"They say that men are intellectually stronger than women, but if it is true, it is not because the man is naturally stronger in his mind, but because of centuries of education; and they say that women are stronger in morals than men, but it is because of centuries during which it has been expected of her."

"We talk of our democratic form of government, when half of our people, the women, are taxed without representation and without their consent."

"To me it seems horrible to have asked men to fight and die for democracy and then not live it ourselves."

Dr. Landrith is a master of the platform arts, wit, humor, sarcasm, topped by a real understanding of conditions in this country.

A typical southerner by birth and education he is an independent Democrat, who for four years served on the staff of a Republican governor, and was candidate for the vice presidency of the United States on the Prohibition ticket. Dr. Landrith was also moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church and president of the International Convention of the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Trout Pleads For League of Nations in Evening Talk

Although Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout had not the slightest idea of appearing on the Richmond chautauqua again Thursday evening, and was instead sitting calmly with some friend when platform manager J. H. Bentley, came to her and asked her to help them out by substituting for Miss Penick, the reader, her audience thought that she was giving a carefully rehearsed and considered address which she was in the habit of giving in every town.

"I am going to say something about the League of Nations, but remember it will not be from a partisan viewpoint; first because it seems outrageous to me that anything so unimportant as partisan opinions should be directed in a consideration of the league which is to bind all humanity in all the world, and second, because as a representative of over 200,000 women in the state of Illinois, I take no partisan stands in my work for the equality of woman, which is not a partisan issue," said Mrs. Trout.

U. S. Will Be Safe.
"I look upon a League of Nations as an enlarged Monroe Doctrine for the world instead of for us. It is impossible for us to be longer an isolated nation," said she. "It is not true that we will not be safely represented in this league of nations, for it is my understanding that nine countries are to be represented each with one vote and one for each possession. In other words, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, Alaska, Cuba, Porto Rico, etc., each get one. Now, as I see it, the other powers are risking more than we are for if worst came to worst, the United States could claim 48 votes for 48 sovereign states."

"After any great war there is plenty of criticism hurled at the political party in power, but I believe that the Republican party is too big and too great to make a campaign issue out of the League of Nations, the greatest of international interests, which must be decided and decided right."

"When such great men are for the League of Nations as ex-President Taft, the late Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson, whom we may dislike, but who we must agree, is a great man in many ways and one of whom we should be proud of for the things he has done, I feel that we should not be too hasty in our decisions against this league."

Bostonia Clarinet Player Overhears Praise of Self

"Yes, sir, that clarinet soloist is all right; he certainly can play," stoutly affirmed a man who stood at the chautauqua lunch counter after the Bostonia Sextette Thursday afternoon. Directly beside of the speaker stood Mr. Staat himself, the subject of the conversation, but unnoticed by the loquacious one. As the musician moved off he chuckled.

Efforts Fail to Locate Missing Army Aviators

(By Associated Press)
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 22.—Army aviators from Rockwell field started early today in a fresh attempt to solve the mystery of the disappearance Wednesday, near Jacumba, Mex., of Lieutenants Frederick B. Waterhouse and C. H. Connelly of the ninth aero squadron patrol and their big DeHavilland plane.

This announcement was made by Colonel A. K. Hanlon, commanding at Rockwell field after the night had passed without any tidings of the missing fliers.

Fifteen aviators from the field, aided by details of Mexican troops ordered to the search by Governor Estaban Cantu of Lower California, yesterday vainly combined the timbered hills near Jacumba, where the lost fliers are reported to have been seen lost, on their way here from Yuma, Ariz.

Every assistance was given by the Mexican soldiers acting under instructions from Governor Cantu, who always has maintained the most friendly relations with Americans along the border.

Flies Cut Down Milk Yield

There's no doubt about it. Flies not only worry the cows and the milker, but they keep you from getting all the milk you should.

And there's no doubt about this either. The one way to get rid of flies at milking time—and the sure way to get more milk is to use

Pratts Fly Chaser

Spray it on just before milking. PRATTS does not taint the milk. PRATTS does not burn or blister the hide. PRATTS does not take off or gum up the hair.

Give your cows a chance to give more milk. Give your work animals a chance to get their rest. Give PRATTS a trial.
