GRAIN QUOTATIONS

WAGNER'S GRAIN LETTER
CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Grain market is slow; news mainly unchanged. The cash demand is light. Cash corn two to four lower. Oats unchanged to two cents lower. The last half of August lives up to its reputation, rarely a bullish period. The Texas corn rally works north, but for the first time while corn is around $2. Texas has a second crop. The federal attack on food cost, foreign financial conditions, remain a weight on all the United States markets. Italian and German financial news remains bearish on all United States markets. The now profiteering law is evidently a factor in nearby crop months.

FITNESS FOR LIFE IS DUTY TOWARD SOCIETY, SAYS BRYAN TO TEACHERS

"Victory is carried in the blood; in personal capitalization, and whoever plays the great game of life has got to hit up his burdens; to learn to come back in the face of apparent failure, and to realize that whoever runs wins," said Elmer B. Bryan, President of Colgate College, New York, in a lecture on "The Great Game of Life," delivered before the Wayne County Teachers Institute at the chaletauqua Monday morning.

Dividing the parts of "playing the game" into his physical, mental, and spiritual aspects, the speaker said: "First we need preparation—preparation for the game of life. We turned a junior out of an athletic contest at our college one year because he was found smoking a cigarette. Now he was not turned off because it was thought that the smoking of the one cigarette was so going to dislodge him that he would fall down on a hurdle, and break his neck, nor was it that the coach was so opposed to the use of tobacco. It was because he had tacitly agreed to be a good citizen.

The speaker pointed to the greatness of the standard to which a man or woman lives if he leaves nothing undone to equip himself mentally, physically and spiritually to be a member of society.

"Athletics have taught us a great many lessons but there are some lessons of life learned there that do not 'carry over,' and as a college president I may have as important plans of action as the football captain, or a clergyman may have as important plans of action as a track team captain, but in whatever form we need to learn the lessons of preparedness.

"Waving accidents I should think the young man who because of his own debaucheries was physically unfit to go into the army during the great war would be ashamed to show his face in society, and I firmly believe that it is up to the men and women of today to do everything in their power not only to make themselves fitter than were their brothers and sisters of yesterday, but upon you as teachers is laid the responsibility of making the children of today the fitter men and women of tomorrow.

"Team Work" was the theme of the lecture. "So it is with the issues of life we are facing now, and he is not a candidate for good society who is not ready with time and money to meet the issues of society and great questions of life.

"It is up to us also to practice team work, to play with the issues of life we are facing now, and he is not a candidate for good society who is not ready with time and money to meet the issues of society and great questions of life.

Thurber turned to Judge Sullivan, his substitute, slapped him on the back and said: "Go in and win your

Drafted Men in Russia To Be Home Before Winter

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Return of the 6,500 selective service men, with the American forces in Siberia will be completed before winter, Representative Osborne of California, was told today by Secretary Baker. About 3,000 volunteer replacements already to have gone forward, Mr. Baker said. 1,500 more are ready to go and enlistments available for this service average about 50 per day. The question of a complete withdrawal from Siberia was not taken up with Mr. Baker, Congressman Osborne said.

SAFE FARMING

Hessian Fly Pest Can Be Easily Eradicated

Plow Stubble and Sow Winter Wheat at Safe Date

By F. G. HOLDEN

IN CERTAIN years the Hessian fly does great damage to the wheat crop of the United States and yet we need only to know the breeding places and habits of this pest to completely eradicate it.

To get rid of the Hessian fly we must:

1. Plow under deeply all infested wheat stubble during the summer or early fall.
2. Postpone sowing winter wheat until a date which will insure that none of the plants will appear above ground until after the flies have died.

In the form of small, dark brown cases, resembling flaxseed, the pest lives through the winter in the bases of the wheat stalks.

The Spring Flight.

In the spring the winged flies leave the injured wheat and seek healthy wheat, upon the leaves of which they lay their eggs in rows.

From these eggs are hatched small maggots which crawl down to the bases of the leaves. There they feed upon the plant sap until they are matured, when they again change to the flaxseed-like stage.

After the wheat is cut these "flaxseeds" remain in the stubble, and unless we plow the stubble under deeply, they will form a second generation of flies in the fall, which will leave the stubble and lay their eggs on young winter wheat.

Live Only a Few Days.

Knowing the life history of the Hessian fly we should plow under all wheat stubble during the summer or early fall unless this would interfere with the growing of clover or other forage crops, and we should kill all volunteer wheat by disk or plowing while it is young.

Then we should postpone sowing winter wheat until the safe date. Our county agent or agricultural college can tell us the proper time to sow.

Sowing on the safe date will insure us a larger yield if the season is one of normal rainfall.

The total sales of such materials in Europe, the statement says, aggregated 30,000,000 francs, while the value of the relief materials distributed in Europe during the months of July and August amounted to more than 100,000,000 francs.

The American Red Cross, the statement sets forth, now is conducting operations in seventeen European countries. The relief materials distributed in France, mainly given out in the devastated regions since the armistice, were valued at more than 125,000,000 francs while other European countries in the same period received more than 200,000,000 francs worth of similar supplies, not only medical and surgical goods, but clothing, food and temporary housing.

Sales of surplus materials, the statement adds, were authorized in France and have been conducted through the American Red Cross liquidation board.
