TOTAL OF HELMS SALE IS $4,684; FARM TOOLS SOLD

Live Stock Brings Fair Prices—Corn in Field Goes for $40 Per Acre.

By WILLIAM R. SANBORN.
The Earl Helms farm sale on Friday means the severance of Indiana homes, for the family is to remove to West Chester, Pa., within a few days. The Helms farm on the Mt. Vernon road, one-half mile west of White-water, recently was sold to Fred Wallace, who will shortly take possession. The friends of the Helms family were out in force on Friday. Friday is a lucky day. Had it been earlier in the season, it would have been still luckier, for live stock prices were much higher. But even very fair prices were paid. As an exception to this, the price brought for corn in the field, and by a pair of mules, may be noted.

Sale of Implements.
Among the implements to go under the hammer was a Derry corn picker, taken by Raymond Lawler at $74. George Austerman got a first class culipacker at $12.50, and Alva Alexander invested $19.75 in a Hoosier grain drill.

A farm wagon sold for $60.50, and an anti-freeze stock tank brought $30, and will go to one of Tom Conniff's farms. Omar Platt paid $60 for a spreader and J. Harrison invested $17 in a storm buggy. C. J. Martin's rubber tired storm rig cost him $40; while Frank Blosser ran an open buggy up to $17.50. A good saddle was taken home by J. S. Helms, Earl's father, at $15.50.

Live Stock Prices.

Ozro Blosser bought a young sow with nine pigs for $61. J. S. Helms also bought four sows and 32 little ones for $280.50. A number of brood sows were sold.

Eleven feeders were knocked down to Frank Blosser at $22.25. Louck & Hill, of Richmond, picked up the next pen of 11 at $20 per head. Will Flatley bought the third pen at $17 and Peter Flatley secured the fourth at $16, which was paid by Henry Buller, dick for number 8. E. M. White bought 12 sheep at an average of $11.95.

Twenty-two acres of corn in the field was sold to two buyers, Will Dorgan getting the first ten acres at $39 and Charles E. Thomason 12 acres at $40. Ninety bales of straw brought 31 cents per bale, and straw in the mow $10.50 per ton. J. M. Pyle took all the bales and Fred Wallace all the straw in the barn. Charles Staley got the team of mules at $200 and considered them a bargain.

Total Sale $4,684.
Charles Brawley paid $102 for a Shorthorn cow and calf, and this was the high dollar for cattle. He also bought three yearling heifers at $60 and $65, and these were full blood Durhams. J. H. Maher invested $130 in a cow and two feeders.

John J. Healey and Chas. W. Jordan, of the American Trust and Savings Bank, were respectively clerk and cashier of the sale, and Conniff and Platt the auctioneers. The sale netted $4,684. It was an all day sale, although nothing of much importance was sold before lunch, which was served by the ladies of the Christian church at Whitewater.

Neapolitan Quintette is Feature on Murray Bill

The Sorrento Quintette, consisting of three males and two females constitute what is probably the best mixed quintette of singers in vaudeville, and will headline the bill at the Murray for the first-half opening Monday matinee. They bill their offering as "A Neapolitan Fantasy," consisting of exclusive ensemble singing in Italian, French and English as well as instrumental music on the accordion. Their repertoire includes Standard Grand Opera selections, Italian folk songs, ballads and old-time melodies. They have what is termed "the grand manner" of singing within the range of popular appreciation, and though capable of the bigger things musically, they do not attempt too much, keeping their selections to the taste of their audiences. The Ovondas, "Wizards of the Xylophones," who come here direct from The Lyric, Indianapolis, and Mack and Maybelle, "eccentric comedians, will complete the vaudeville portion for the first half. Bryant Washburn in his new release "Putting It Over," a five reel Paramount production, will appear on the screen.

Headlining for the last-half comes "On The Mississippi," a big scenic girl revue with heaps of pretty girls, special scenery, comedians, gorgeous wardrobe and everything to make an entertaining production. This revue carries about ten people, and advance reports say it is exceptionally good. With this big act will be Wilson and Van, a boyish looking youngster and a pretty miss who offer an act which they term "As You Like It," consisting of piano and violin playing interspersed with songs and comedy sayings. Then for good measure Fulton and Mack, "The 20th Century Gymnasts," will also be on this bill. This act is on the road again after a long season at The New York Hippodrome, which is evidence of their ability as remarkable athletes. Their stunts are of the kind that thrill and enthrall, while the knocks and jolts they subject each other to are laughable. The pictorial program for the last-half will be Miss Texas Guinan in a Western drama entitled "The She-Wolf," full of thrills and excitement. Beginning Saturday, Sept. 13, there will be two vaudeville performances in the afternoon, the picture starting at 1:30 p. m., commencing Sunday, also at the same hour and running continuously.
