

LABOR LEADERS LAY GRIEVANCE BEFORE WILSON

Mooney Case, Political Prisoners, and Other Troubles Discussed With President.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 15.—Representatives of the Washington State Federation of Labor here today laid before President Wilson labor grievances of the Pacific Northwest and pictures to him of existing labor unrest, which they said would make difficult, if not impossible the prevention of a nation-wide strike Oct. 8 in sympathy for Thomas J. Mooney, sentenced to life imprisonment for San Francisco bomb outrages in 1916.

Specifically, the delegation asked for an appointment to see the president to present the case of "political prisoners," notably those of Hulet M. Wells, Sam Sadler and Morris and Joe Pass, the latter two being brothers, all serving terms of two years for seditious conspiracy.

For more than an hour the president discussed the labor situation with the delegation and suggested to them that organized labor should bury its differences with capital and do its utmost to prevent strikes until after the labor conferences which he has called to meet in Washington, Oct. 6.

Calls for Suggestions.
Mr. Buck, who acted as spokesman in pleading the cases of the "political prisoners," charged the government was prosecuting these while it failed to prosecute profiteers. The president told the delegation it was all right for them to have grievances but that he wanted to know what remedy they had to suggest.

President Wilson would not make a statement concerning the conference. Secretary Tumulty said when the delegation left the president's hotel. The secretary epitomized, however, what went on.

Members of the delegation likewise declined to talk. Mr. Buck said they wanted to give the president an opportunity to discuss what took place, but that if he did not do so the labor men would issue a statement.

TRAVELING MAN GAINS 19 POUNDS IN SHORT TIME

F. W. Sanborn Was So Run-Down He Thought His Time Had Come.

One of the distinguishing features in connection with the introduction and sale of Tanlac throughout America has been the very large number of traveling men who have been benefited by its use.

From Maine to California and from the Gulf to the northern portion of Canada, men representing most every line of business have testified to having used the medicine with the most surprising and gratifying results.

One of the latest to these well known "Knights of the Grip" to endorse Tanlac is F. W. Sanborn, representing the L. Hopkins Manufacturing Company, of Girard, Pa., and living at Chelmsford, Maine. Mr. Sanborn, while in Duluth, Minn., recently, called at Abbott & Company's drug store and said:

"Tanlac is the finest medicine I have ever run across in all my travels. Why, three bottles put me in shape to where I have actually gained nineteen pounds. Not only that, I am feeling better since taking it than I have at any time in five years.

"I have suffered from a bad stomach and complications resulting from it for the past five years. I would so for weeks at a time without eating much of anything. I would just nibble at my food and would often become so nauseated that I could hardly retain any of the little I did manage to force down. I would bloat with gas until it was difficult for me to get my breath. I got so nervous I could not sleep and became so run down and weak that I was simply 'all in.' I suffered considerably with pains all over my body and legs, arms and shoulders, especially, ached terribly. Then in April I was taken down with grippe or 'flu' which left me in a much worse condition than ever. I tell you I thought my career had about come to an end. When I did finally get up from this spell I was as weak as a baby and my old troubles were worse than ever.

"I had tried numerous medicines but never commenced to gain strength and pull up hill until I ran across Tanlac. Almost as soon as I started on Tanlac I commenced to straighten right up and it has proven to be a life saver to me. My stomach trouble seems a thing of the past now for I can eat just anything without feeling a sign of indigestion. My pains don't bother me enough to hardly notice and my nerves have quieted down until I can sleep just fine every night. I am going to stick to Tanlac for a while longer, but as I said I am already feeling stronger and better than I have in five years. I can recommend Tanlac because it brings results and I am glad to make this statement for what it may be worth to others who are in need of such a medicine." Tanlac is sold in Richmond by Clem Thistlethwaite, in Greensfork by C. D. Sorrine, in Cambridge City by Mr. Dean House, in Pershing by Souther & Rodenberg, in Centerville by Centerville Pharmacy, and in Milton by W. L. Parkins.—Adv.

GRAFTON-ADAMS EXHIBIT TO OPEN ART SEASON OCT. 1.

The first of a series of eight exhibitions of paintings to be given in the Public Art Gallery during the autumn and coming winter, under the auspices of the Art association of Richmond, will open on the evening of Wednesday, October 1, and continue until October 22.

This initial exhibition will embrace the work of but two artists, Wayman Adams and Robert W. Grafton, both Indiana painters.

Both are well known to Richmond, their pictures frequently having been exhibited here, and last year Grafton was awarded the Mary T. R. Foulke prize in the exhibition of paintings by Indiana artists.

Among the pictures by Adams which will be shown at the coming exhibition, will be a large canvas, "The Conspirators," exhibited at the Pennsylvania academy last year and this summer at other eastern cities and in the Toledo museum.

"The Conspirators" combines the portraits of three men, Joseph Penneil, a famous lithographer and etcher; McClure Hamilton, a native American painter but for some years a resident of England, and Mr. Burns, an architect of Philadelphia. All are famous in the art world and are close friends of Mr. Adams.

A single portrait of Penneil also will be shown, which brought to Adams the Logan medal and award of $1,500. The portrait is the property of the Chicago art institute.

Grafton's collection will embrace twenty or more pictures—portraits, figure subjects and landscapes, among them being several canvases painted during Grafton's sojourn in New Orleans. Mr. Grafton's work in portraiture is especially well known in Richmond by his portraits of Timothy Nicholson, J. E. Bundy, the late Dr. S. R. Lyons, and others.

The Adams-Grafton exhibition gives promise of being especially interesting and attractive and the Art association is arranging for a reception on the opening night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Grafton, who have accepted the invitation to be present. Dr. Keene and sister, Miss Amy Keene, of Indianapolis, and perhaps others from Indianapolis will be present.

Program is extensive.

The Art association's program for the year is the most extensive in its history, embracing as it does seven exhibitions in addition to the association's long established annual event, the exhibition of paintings by Indiana artists. A complete outline of the year's program will be announced later.

Wm. D. Foulke is president of the Art association of Richmond this year and Mrs. Melville F. Johnston is director of exhibitions. Other officers are J. E. Bentley, first vice-president; Mrs. Paul Comstock, second vice-president; W. S. Bates, secretary and Dr. A. B. Price, treasurer.
