Heart Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have received a letter announcing the marriage of my girl friend in California and have been rather puzzled about answering it. Will you please give me a few suggestions or a brief outline of what I should mention when writing a letter of congratulation?

My hair is continually falling in spite of all the different preparations I have used. I shampoo it every two weeks, but it is a matter of but a few days before it is oily again. What can I do to make my hair look respectable?

Write the letter from your heart, and do not try to form it on some one else's suggestion. Wish the girl happiness and express a desire to meet her husband. Also ask her about her future plans.

The following is a lotion for oily hair: Alcohol, two ounces; witch-hazel, two ounces; roseolin, fifteen grains. Use the mixture daily, rubbing well into the scalp.

If the above lotion does not keep the hair from falling out change to the following: Tincture of nuxvomica, one ounce; spirits of rosemary, two ounces; alcohol, two ounces. Apply several times a week to the roots of the hair.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a country girl and have a girl chum of whom I thought a great deal. Recently she let a strange boy take her home from church, leaving the church at 9:30 p. m. They took an automobile ride and stayed out until nearly 1 o'clock. Now the people of the neighborhood are talking about her.

Should I associate with her the same as usual, or should I drop her? This girl is one of the organizers of the church. Should she still be allowed to continue playing?

DOUBTFUL CHUM.
The girl probably knew what she was doing when she went riding with the young man. So far she has done nothing wrong to anyone's knowledge, and people should not be so ready to look for evil in her. Doubtless she had met the young man formally, but did not feel it necessary to inform every one about something which was her own affair.

Of course she should be allowed to play the organ.

In your mind should a church try to help people? Or should it close its doors to all who are not sinless? Narrow-mindedness and intolerance are both sins. I am sure you have the virtue of "charity toward all" and upon giving the matter thought that you would not want to turn against your girl friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My chum and I asked to take a couple of girls home. They said they had to go home by themselves. We got on the car and went anyway. I got angry and lost my temper and cussed in their presence. They seem to think I ought to apologize before they will have anything to do with me. They speak to me, but that is as far as they will go.

Do you think I ought to apologize? What shall I say to them?

WORRIED.
Yes, I think you ought to apologize for cussing. Tell the girls that you realize that you should not have done it and that they can trust you in the future to be a gentleman.
